Motorola hk250 reset

By Michelle Carvo Updated September 21, 2017 Reset your Bluetooth Motorola device if the connection is suddenly lost and can't be recovered automatically, or if you want to use your headset or phone with another Bluetooth device. Whether you're using a Motorola Android device or Bluetooth Motorola headphones, the steps to reset your Bluetooth device are simple. Try a Soft Reset FirstBut it is often necessary to fully reset either the headset or Bluetooth connection of your Android device, sometimes a gentle reset will fix the problem on your Android device. There are two options for a gentle reset of your Android Bluetooth connection. First, go to your phone's Settings section by tapping the Apps icon followed by Settings. From there, tap the Bluetooth icon, and then turn it off. Turn it back on and see if your Bluetooth device connects successfully again. If turning off Bluetooth and reinstalling it doesn't resolve the problem again, try the other software restore option, which is to turn off your Android device and then turn it back on. Hold down the power button on your Android device for 10 seconds or until the screen is black. Turn the device back on and the Bluetooth connection should work again. Reset Bluetooth Motorola headphones If you want to set up your Bluetooth Motorola headset with a new phone or other device, then you need to reset the connection. The process of restoring a Motorola Bluetooth headset is the same, regardless of the model number. Turn on the headset, and then press and hold the call and volume buttons. Hold down the button for 10 seconds until the status light turns blue, which marks the connection reset. Now you are free to pair the headset with your device. Restore Motorola Android devices to Android 5.0 or Above If your Bluetooth device no longer connects to your Motorola Android device, restoring your phone or tablet's Bluetooth connection may resolve the problem. Go to your phone's Settings section by tapping the Apps icon followed by pressing the Settings button. From there, tap the Bluetooth icon, and then tap the device you want to restore. Tap Uns pairing, and then reconnect your Bluetooth device to your phone or tablet as you normally would. Restore Motorola Android devices to Android 4.4 or Down The process for restoring Bluetooth Motorola Android devices to Android 5.0 or below is slightly different. Tap the Hard Apps button on your phone, and then tap System. From there, locate and select the device you want to restore under Available devices. Tap Unlink, and then proceed to reconnect your Bluetooth device. Related Motorola HK255 products Turn off your headset. Press and hold the Call button and turn on the headset.
