These online resources include all the information you need to succeed in the course of Mechanics as well as Electricity & Magnetism. AP C Physics Exam Each of the AP C physics courses is equivalent to 1 semester of work at university level. If both courses are taught, then mechanics is usually earlier. Each class must have a practical laboratory component, with at least 20% of the instruction time spent in the laboratory. Students are required to complete laboratory reports and keep a laboratory notebook. The Mechanics course covers 6 content areas and the Course of Electricity and Magnetism covers 5 content areas. Mechanical content areas: 1.) Kinematics 2.) Newton's Laws of Motion 3.) Work, energy & energy 4.) Particle systems and linear moment 5.) Circular movement & rotation 6.) Oscillations & gravitation Areas of electriciry content and magnetism: 1.) Electrostatic 2.) Conductors & dielectrics 3.) Electrical circuits 4.) Magnetic fields 5.) Electromagnetism exam format: each of the C physics exams lasts 90 minutes. This time it is divided equally between multiple choice and free choice sections. Each test has 35 multiple choice questions and 3 free answer questions. The free response section of AP Physics includes a table of information and a table of frequently used equations. Students are required to show their work on FRQs and partial credit is awarded for partial solutions. Not showing work can result in a credit loss, even if the answer is correct. Cross-cutting work is not evaluated. When is the AP C physics exam? The date of the AP Physics C: Mechanics exam for the 2020-2021 school year is Monday, May 3, 2021 at 12::m.
