The current traditional health system does not provide a solution to many predominant health conditions. This will leave you with no choice but to take painkillers and suppress the symptoms that lead to greater problems over a period of time. Taking this into account, duo Dikshant Dave and Shrinivasa Sharma began with a specific experiment to analyze whether dissatisfaction with current medical scenarios was widespread. The experiment gave them a deep insight into the presence of such a group of unsymed people, and as a result, CureJoy was formed in October 2013. Startups are a bustling community and an online destination for natural health and wellness where people can answer fresh and trusted content, some of the most common health issues and health advice from professionals. Most of the content is based on the current need for rapid consumption anytime, anywhere. For nature and alternative health professionals, it is a platform to reach out to relevant users looking for genuine help and advice from them. CureJoy is headquartered in California, USA and manages the entire business and development from Bangalore. Serial entrepreneur Subrata Mitra, partner Axel India; Larry Braitman, founder, Flycast & Adify. Founder and CEO Venk Krishnan and Newware Technologies also participated in the round. The venture plans to use the fund to expand its services in India and other countries. They further plan to use this chunk of the fund to strengthen the team to complement their capabilities. Commenting on the investment, co-founder CureJoy said: This is an exciting moment for us. We have seen significant growth over the past six quarters and we believe it is the right time to expand our business to cement our position as the fastest growing company in the online health and wellness segment. Dave, who has more than 15 years of experience building an ecosystem of start-ups, co-founded three companies before CureJoy. Drive and deliver sharp insights into strategy and corporate developmentCure Joy products. Sharma, on the other hand, manages everything related to user growth, social media and community building. Built with the aim of addressing people's common concerns in the existing health care system, the platform provides content curated through back-end algorithms and technologies on natural health and wellness by experts associated with large universities like Stanford University and UCLA, merging with global trends and patterns. Since its inception, CureJoy has grown almost 100% over the past six quarters, reaching 1 million site visits per month within six months of launch. In fact, CureJoy now boasts a vibrant Facebook community with nearly 8 million site visits and about 2.7 million users a month, making it among the top three companies worldwide in terms of Facebook engagement. We are currently prioritizing the impact on India, the US, Australia and English-speaking European countries. Over the next six to eight quarters, CureJoy expects to reach 50 million users, including countries such as Germany, Spain and France, and deliver localized content in multiple languages. It aims to emerge as the top destination in the natural health care and wellness category. Changes to VA North Texas visitor policies starting October 6, 2020 From October 6, 2020, VA North Texas will allow one visitor per patient at a time. Each veteran can have a list of two designated visitors (still only one at a time). Children under the age of 14 are not the same. Details: Both veterans and visitors comply with universal mask/physical withdrawal requirements. Mask must beAlways (even while visiting veterans in a single patient room) and physical displacement must be maintained if they leave the veterans' room and from other visitors or veterans in the cohobitation room/common area. Inpatient process to enter the facility as a visitor: The visitor presents at the door of the designated entrance. Visitors inform screamers of the veteran places they want to visit. The screener provides a phone number for visitors to call to speak with the unit's charge nurse. The charge nurse speaks to the screamer and lets them know if that guest is allowed in. The screen then screens visitors and provides masks and wristbands (both must be worn at all time while at the facility) and visitors are required to wear hospitals that only provide masks while visiting veterans. The visitor then proceeds to the designated unit for a visit with veterans. Just before entering the patient's room, immediately after left the patient's room, it is necessary to use hand sanitizer provided by the hospital or wash hands with soap and water. While visiting the patient's room, visitors must follow all applicable isolation precautions. After the visit, guests should leave the facility without stopping, collecting, or socially interacting with other veterans, guests, or staff. Outpatient visitor/caregiver rules: There is no change to the current outpatient visitor policy - no visitors for outpatients. One caregiver is allowed per veteran. Caregivers are defined as one family/driver for post-procedure care. Caregivers assist veterans who have PTSD or are MH patients. Caregivers for veterans who are unable to communicate effectively with their provider (including understanding instructions/instructions). Caregivers for teaching home care. Caregivers for im imedible veterans (wheelchairs, blind people, or other disabilities). Please note that visitor access is at the discretion of the Unit Charge Nurse. The nurse in charge is responsible for maintaining a list of designated visitors. Exceptions related to the patient's condition are determined by the nurse in charge. Screamers don't make that decision. NTXEmergencyManagement@va all your questions about the website.gov. Coronavirus update veterans should call 1-888-252-9970 before visiting their local medical center or clinic if they have flu-like symptoms such as fever, cough or shortness of breath. In addition to calling first, consider using virtual care options such as Telehealth or My HealtheVet Secure Messaging. Visitors should postpone their visit if they do not feel well.
