

☐

I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

Continue

Walking dead app cheats

Image: TMDB Rick and his group of survivors have been through a lot, and not just with the walkers. There are terrible people out there, some trying to take and control what they shouldn't. So who about the action-packed world of the Walking Dead are you? TRIVIA Do you know how these characters died in the walking dead? 6 Minute Quiz 6 Min TRIVIA Can You Match the 'Game of Thrones' Actor To Their Character? 7 Minute Quiz 7 Little PERSONALITY Which Yu Yu Hakusho Character Is Your Twins? 5 Minute Quiz 5 Min TRIVIA Is This Character Marvel Or DC? 6 Minute Quiz 6 Min TRIVIA can you identify the movie from its Stan Lee Cameo? 7 Minute Quiz 7 Little PERSONALITY Which Character Of Rapunzel's Tangled Adventure Are You? 5 Minute Quiz 5 Min TRIVIA Only True Fans Know If This Game of Thrones Characters Are Dead or Alive By End of Season 6! Did you? 6 Minute Quiz 6 Min TRIVIA can you identify the superhero from three tips? 6 Minute Quiz 6 Min TRIVIA Game of Thrones Family Tree Quiz 6 Minute Quiz 6 Min TRIVIA Can You Correctly Call These Walking Dead Characters Out an Image? 6 Minute Quiz 6 Min How much do you know about dinosaurs? What is an octane rating? And how do you use a proper noun? Fortunately for you, HowStuffWorks Play is here to help. Our award-winning website offers reliable, easy-to-understand explanations about how the world works. From fun quizzes that bring joy to your day, to compelling photography and fascinating lists, HowStuffWorks Play offers something for everyone. Sometimes we explain how things work, other times, we ask you, but we always examine in the name of fun! Because learning is fun, so stick with us! Play quizzes are free! Every week we send trivia questions and personality tests to your inbox. By clicking On you agree to our Privacy Policy and confirm that you are 13 years old or older. Copyright © 2020 InfoSpace Holdings, LLC, a System1 Company Stuff here was pretty busy (if you haven't noticed yet) because of the Samsung Galaxy S4 announcement, but we still managed to get some wonderful app picks together for you. This week is a bit utility-heavy because we have a great crop of apps that will help you get things done. There are still some funs thrown in, of course. Hang around after the break and see how our program picks up stacking this week. Every Sunday night, millions of people agree to watch The Walking Dead on AMC. I'm one of those people because it's a fantastic show with a great story and very good ol' zombie murder. AMC has released several programs to go with the show, and the latest of these is called The Walking Dead - Dead Yourself. This free app allows you to take a photo and add all sorts of gruesome zombie effects to it, turning yourself and anyone else whose photo you can snap in The fun doesn't end there, of course. You can give you your to the public Walker Gallery where other fans can vote on them, as well as share in Facebook, Twitter, etc. Every week new content will be added, so the gory mouths, eyes, backgrounds and props will never get boring. If you're in The Walking Dead or zombies in general, you should check this information as it's quite entertaining. Download: The Walking Dead - Dead Yourself (Free) Sean Brunett - Backgrounds and Backgrounds HD I'm in an adaptation tube this week, so I want to feature a background app. I like to test a variety of wallpaper apps to see what they're offering and if there are any unique photos within them. Although Wallpapers and Backgrounds HD are very popular, for some reason I haven't tried it. However, it's a great app with great backgrounds to choose from. At the bottom of the app, you'll see a menu where you can choose recently, position (the highest rated), categories, Favorites, History, and Settings. Once you find an image you like, you'll be able to set it as your background, set it as a contact's photo, save, share it, or favorite. This is a great app if you want to give your phone a little more personal touch. Download: Backgrounds and Backgrounds HD (Free) Casey Rendon - MightyText If you've ever wanted to send text messages from your computer or tablet, you should definitely check this program. Mighty text lets you send text messages using your computer's web browser or a tablet companion application. The best part about it, unlike many similar apps, is that your phone doesn't have to be on the same WiFi network or be connected via Bluetooth to send texts from your other devices. You can also get call notifications and even check your phone's battery level! All contacts and their photos are synchronized which makes it easy to create new messages. Extra settings include entning pop-up notifications, and if you're using a web browser, you can change the length of time to keep texts and call view options. It's hard to believe it all works so well for the low, low price of free. Download: MightyText (Free) Alex Dobie – Nutritious with Google Reader set to bite the dust this July, many of us will be looking for a viable alternative to RSS, and the best I've found is Feedly. Feedly is a newsreader who plugs into Google Reader, and can display content in a magazine-like or list layout. Visually, it's an elegant mix between a standard RSS reader and more visual apps like Flipboard. It's attractive but concise — more images and better visual design than Google Reader, better information density than a straight-up aggregator like Flipboard or HTC BinkFeed. Better yet, Feedly says it's switching to its own browser platform soon - replacing the old Google Reader - and that those now signing up through Google Reader will have a seamless transition to the new service. Definitely worth a tin can any Google Reader refugees out there. Download: Feedly (Free) Andrew Martonik - Opera browser beta We took a look at the new WebKit-based Opera reader beta a while back, and I kept it around on my phone as a worthy companion to Chrome Beta. It performs just as well as Chrome, and in many ways has more features like the new Off-Road mode. For browsing when I'm in bad coverage areas, Opera beta is just a better choice for me — it provides the same performance when on the page and a faster way to get to that page. I don't think it could ever be my primary browser because like many of you I'm so deeply integrated with Chrome Sync, but it's definitely worth sticking around for the right situation that needs a quick, lightweight reader. Download: Opera browserbeta (Free) Jerry Hildenbrand - Shot Control I recommend shot Control for everyone who has been running stock Android since I ran over it in Google Play last year. The stock Android camera app sucks. Even if you have a phone with good camera hardware (like the Nexus 4, believe it or not), the software that takes all the raw data and turns it into a photo is pretty bad at correcting things, and getting the right shot is hit or miss. I'm not talking features like the crazy scenes and filters you'll find in Sense of TouchWiz, I mean the way it customizes and focuses things like the ISO before it closes. This is really important, and unless you're outside on a bright day the stock Android camera app doesn't seem to be able to get it right a lot of the time. That's what Shot Control does. You choose how you want to focus, what ISO to use, where to set the ev, and other camera nerd settings, then you can lock things like the exposure value and white balance so they don't change. And it does so with simple screen controls that remain visible while seeing the camera view. I also have a thing with controls hidden deep in menus, and the latest update for Shot Control damned them near perfectly for me and placed a side role list under the camera view. If you like to take pictures and aren't afraid to mess with your camera settings, spend the three bucks and pick up this app — this will soon be your default camera app. Download: Lap control ($2.99) Simon Sage - Modern Combat 4 Modern Battles 4 went on sale for a limited time, and for a buck it's hard to go wrong. MC4 is still my favorite shooter game on Android. Mass effect: Infiltrator is nice and all, but Modern Battles 4 really captures the feel of the computer and console games we all know and love, like Black Ops and Battlefield 3. Players earn experience through single player and multiplayer matches, unlock new gear, and fully customize their soldiers. As with any other Gameloft title, you can always by purchasing premium currency through in-app purchases. If you need to let some steam down this weekend, definitely choose Modern Battles 4. Download: Modern Combat 4 ($0.99 sold) Richard Devine - Tu Go of O2 Google Voice has yet - and probably never will - gave it to the UK, which is a shame. However, telefonica by way of their British carrier, O2, have launched their own Google Voice eque service called Tu Go. Essentially, this means that O2 customers can use their regular mobile number on other devices. Whether it's phones, tablets, anything the app can run should allow O2 customers to use their voice and text allowances from that device. You can be signed up to 5 different devices simultaneously, but currently the service is limited to pay monthly customers only at this time, so no joy for prepaid customers is unhappy. Download: Tu Going from O2 (Free. UK Only) Happens to Miss Latest Editions of Our Weekly App Picks? You can check them out here. Our ongoing weekly app coverage can also be seen here. Full of great characters, flesh-craving zombies, and tales of fighting for survival, it's no surprise that AMC's The Walking Dead has developed a huge cult following. But even with the crazy plot twists and edge of your seat excitement, there are still some things many fans might not know about this guilty pleasure. Here are five surprising facts about The Walking Dead. 1. Many of the actors come from abroad Frazer Harrison/Getty Images The show may take place on American soil, but many of the actors are from overseas. Andrew Lincoln (Rick) and Lauren Cohan (Maggie) are both natives of the UK. Steven Yuen (Glen) was born in Seoul, South Korea and was raised in the US. Eventually, Danai Gurira, who plays Michonne, was born in the US but was raised in Zimbabwe. 2. The hikers go to school Roberto Gonzales/Universal Orlando via Getty Images If you think all those extras are a little too good to play zombies; it's because they went to school for it. All the actors who are cast to play walkers have to go to zombie school where they learn how to be the perfect walker. The actors then get rated on looks and performance before they get the green light to be on screen. 3. AMC Pays Himself to Break Badly With Blue Meth in Season 1 Breaking Bad | AMC If you happened to see merle's bag of drugs contain some blue meth, you didn't imagine things. In season 1, AMC gave a bell to another popular show on their network, Breaking Bad, by keeping Daryl a bag from his brother's drug rod full of Walter White's Blue Sky. In addition, AMC used the same Dodge Challenger that Glen stole in season 1 on Breaking Bad Season 4 as the car Walker bought for Walt Jr. 4. The show is based on a graphic novel but doesn't keep true to it Carl in The Walking Dead graphic not. | Image Comics The series The Walking Dead is based on the graphic novel by Robert Kirkman (who is also a producer of van But although many of the characters' names and settings are the same, some of the plot points on the show are different — especially when it comes to how and when people die. There are also several characters on the TV series that don't exist in the comic book, including fan-favorite Daryl Dixon. 5. The word zombie is never mentioned once Kevin Winter/Getty Images Even though the show is all about zombies, the word zombie is never mentioned once. Instead, the undying is referred to as hikers. The show's creators said they shy away from using the word zombie to create a world within the range where characters are thrown into a situation they're not familiar with. Since they had never seen or heard of zombies before, of course, they would call them something else. In addition, the show has never addressed the cause of the zombie virus and does not plan to. Check out Entertainment Cheat Sheet on Facebook!