Having trouble playing this file? View media help. Danny Boy is a ballad written by English songwriter Frederic Weatherly in 1913. History of Danny Boy Ernestine Schumann-Heink (1917) Problems playing this file? View media help. A 1940 recording of Glenn Miller and his Orchestra RCA Bluebird, B-10612-B in 1910, Bath, Somerset, english lawyer and lyricist Frederic Weatherly initially wrote the words danny boy to the tune onto Londonderry Air. After his Irish-born brother-in-law Margaret Enright Weatherly (known as Jess) in the United States sent him a copy of Londonderry Air in 1913 (an alternative version of the story has his singing to air him in 1912 with various lyrics), Weatherly changed the lyrics of Danny Boy to match the rhyme and meter of Londonderry Air. [1] Weatherly gave the song to the singer Elsie Griffin, who made it one of the most popular songs of the new century. In 1915, Ernestine Schumann-Heink gave the first recording of Danny Boy. Jane Ross Limavady is credited with collecting the melody of Londonderry Air in the mid-19th century musician she met. [3] The words 1913 by Frederick E. Weatherly:[4] Oh, Danny boy, pipes calling Glen glen, and hillside. Summer's gone and all the roses are falling, it's you, you have to go, and I have to bide. But come back, when summer is in the meadow, or if the valley is silent with snow and white, I'm here in the sun or in the shade.- Oh, Danny boy, oh Danny's boy, I love you so much! But if you come and all the flowers die, if I'm dead, like dead, I can be, you come and find a place where I lie, and kneel and say avè for me. And I hear, though, soft you tread above me, and my whole grave is warmer, sweeter, because you bend and tell me that you love me, and I sleep in peace until you come to me! Meaning Different suggestions exist that the true meaning of Danny Boy. [5] Some have interpreted the song as a message from an older son who goes to war or rebellion (as suggested by reference to pipes calling the glen valley) or leaving as part of the Irish diaspora. [5] In 1918, the song then becomes Eily Dear, so Danny Boy is only singing as a lady. Nevertheless, the whether that was Weatherly's intention. The song has been performed by a variety of male singers, including Irish tenor John McCormack, Jim Reeves, Mario Lanza, Bing Crosby, Andy Williams, Eric Clapton, Johnny Cash, Sam Cooke, Elvis Presley, Shane MacGowan, Jackie Wilson, Daniel O'Donnell, Harry Belafonte, Tom Jones, John Gary, Frank Patterson, Thomas Quasthoff, Stuart Burrows, Jacob Collier, Harry Connick Jr. and comedian Peter Kay, among many others. All use original lyrics for light variations. The Use of Song is a popular funeral; but because it is not liturgical, its suitability as a ceremonial song is sometimes contested. In 1928, Weatherly himself proposed that the second verse give the actress Ellen Terry a suitable requiem. Zoidberg sang Danny Boy in futurama episode Pharaoh, whom to remember. Figure skating world champion Javier Fernández skated on the exhibition program by Danny Boy choreographer David Wilson, which Fernández debuted in Boston, USA after his victory at the 2016 World Figure Skating Championships. On September 1, 2018, opera singer Renée Fleming sang At The Funeral Service for Senator John McCain, Danny Boy. Adapted from southern gospel singer Dottie Rambo's adapted melody for her song, She Looked Beyond My Guilt and Saw My Need, which was also specifically sung by George Beverly Shea. An American Celtic rock band, Black 47 uses a classic song from their original song Danny Boy, which tells the story of a gay Irish immigrant in New York City while an instrumental version of Danny Boy plays hauntingly in the background. When the protagonist dies of AIDS, the band finally sings an abbreviated version of Danny Boy with lyrics now appearing to two male lovers.
