Transfer credits are accepted, but how many depend on the department. University of Colorado Colorado Springs Location Colorado Springs, CO University of Colorado Colorado Springs is 1 of the 4 University of Colorado System campuses with a diverse student body hosted by people from all 50 states and 82 nations worldwide. Students who wish to transfer community college credits can apply up to 72 credit hours to their degrees and up to 90 from all schools combined. UCCS' online program is aimed at sought-after disciplines through its 7 online undergraduates (e.g. business, criminal law and nursing), 13 online graduate degrees (e.g. criminal law, engineering and public administration) and online graduate certificates (e.g. business, education and nursing). Colorado Christian University Colorado Christian University is Colorado's flagship Christian college that welcomes students of all faiths. Students can transfer up to 90 undergraduate credits and earn credits for past learning to go toward their online degrees through the College of Adult and Graduate Studies. An advantage of the CCU online program is the potential for accelerated degrees. The courses run from 5 to 10 weeks long depending on the program. CCU offers online associate degrees in such as communication studies, human resources management and psychology; bachelor's degrees many, including business administration, criminal law and nursing; master's degrees in such fields as cybersecurity, organizational management and theological studies; post-baccalaureate educator licensing; lower certificates; graduate certificates; and courses for non-graduate students. Regis University Regis University is a Jesuit Catholic university that welcomes students of all faiths. Its goal is to educate students to become critical thinkers, gain a global perspective and advocate for the voiceless. This mission and vision are reflected in online coursework designed to help students balance family, work and school. Students can choose hybrid programs, take all their courses online, choose an accelerated method or take occasional, which are flexible independent study courses designed by the student in collaboration with a counselor. Up to 90 credits can be transferred to Regis, and they never expire. Regis offers programs that can be taken at least partially to obtain a bachelor's degree (e.g. applied science, business and criminal law) or a master's degree (e.g. criminology, computer science and education). Note that not all courses listed under the online in degree search category on Regis's website are 100% online, so students should seek out more information by program. Johnson & Wales University-Denver Johnson & Wales University emphasizes the collaborations developed with industry-leading employers as an important aspect of its career-focused programs, which include student services such as personal counseling, financial assistance and flexible credit transfer policies. The JWU also emphasizes its support for servicemen and veterans and the opportunities to get professionally focused education that builds directly on military experience. The flexible credit transfer guidelines allow students to complete their degree in more than 2 dozen program areas, ranging from business to hospitality management and psychology. Graduate program offerings are equally plentiful, including master's degrees in nonprofit management, criminal justice, data analysis and sports management, as well as doctorates in business administration and occupational therapy. The University of Northern Colorado University of Northern Colorado has offered quality distance education since 1902 and in the Internet age became early adopters by offering online learning through the UNC Extended Campus more than 2 decades ago. Online courses are taught by the same faculty that teaches on campus classes, which are experts in their respective fields. In addition, UNC is a transfer student-friendly university, with 1 in 4 incoming students coming in as transfers. Its enthusiasm for distance learning is evident in its wealth of program offerings, which can be completed mostly or fully online, including master's degrees in biomedical science, sports administration and education; doctorates in education and nursing; bachelor's completion programmes in sociology, communication studies and psychology; and master's and bachelor's certificates, including a unique brewing laboratory science program for aspiring beer brewers over 21 years. The University of Colorado Boulder University of Colorado Boulder prides itself on its reputation as a world-class research university and a world-class distance learning provider that it primarily offers to graduate students. CU Boulder offers more than a dozen graduate-level (certificate, master's and doctorate) programs in such specialized areas as aviation engineering science, computer science, education, organizational leadership and even applied Shakespeare (a certificate program in which students explore acting, directing, interpreting and teaching Shakespeare). Prospective students should note that some programs offer all courses online, but others offer only one approach with only some available online courses. Nazarene Bible College Location Colorado Springs, CO Nazarene Bible College offers a unique religious and liberal arts education entirely online, and it has had experience in doing so since 1998. NBC has a completion rate of 94% for online classes, which can be attributed to the founding of Good Practice for electronically delivered courses, where promoting a sense of community is essential for online teaching. Students can earn 4-year bachelor's degrees, 2-year associate professors or a certificate in the ministry's preparation, all completely online. All courses are asynchronous, adding convenience to students, allowing them to complete their degrees from anywhere at any time. The University of Denver University of Denver University College's mission is to provide access to an education at the University of Denver with the added benefit of flexibility. DU University College takes educational adaptability a step further than many programs. In addition to its 100% online and hybrid programs, it also offers a new type of course called HyFlex, where students meet both online and personally synchronously, or at set times, so that a student can choose class-by-class which delivery method they prefer. Best bachelor's completion programmes are available in communication, global trade and transport, global studies, information technology and management and organizational studies. A wide range of master's degree programmes (takes at least 18 months) and certificate programs (takes 4-6 months) are available, such as communication management, environmental policy and management, global community engagement and safety management. University of Colorado Denver/Anschutz Medical Campus With over 450 online courses available, the University of Colorado Denver/Anschutz Medical Campus has many opportunities for students to earn their undergraduate or higher degrees either completely online or in combinations with on-campus courses. Either way, CU Denver students can get the same quality degrees, regardless of the delivery method. Bachelor's degrees (120 credits) can be earned entirely online in such as communication, criminal law, sociology or nursing. Master's degrees can be earned in 30-36 credits, in fields such as kindergarten education, business administration or public health management. Doctorates in nursing are also available.
