I have an embarrassing confession: The vast majority of the time, I sign my emails with Thank you! It doesn't matter if I have anything to show appreciation for or not tends to be my default signature. When I'm not busy my appreciation for absolutely nothin'? I go with a Better standard at the end of my posts. Isn't my creativity surprising? Not that I don't want to finish my email with something big. It's just that I often find myself drawing a blank. Are there even options apart from these two widely accepted favorites? Yes, there are. And, in fact, there are many. Fortunately for you (and for me!), I pulled out a great selection on this list right here. Of course, not all of them will be suitable for all kinds of situations or offices. But, with so many options, you are bound to find one that fits the bill. So, go ahead and bookmark this page and go back there when you feel like moving away from your standard outgoing email and trying something a little different. This handy guide can help you determine whether or not you can drop paperwork. With that in mind, kiss your try and real exit farewell and use one of these to change things from time to time! Did I lose your favorite? Tweet me and let me know what it is!--These post originally appeared on the muse. When my husband found out he was dialysis, I was petrified and was asleep. There are so many unknowns when you start. All the new terms to learn, diet and fluids, what you will feel The only thing that seemed to help us was to start learning— read all the doctor's pamphlets, ask questions, and listen to how others treated the disease. He'll really be fine. It's going to be different, but it's going to be fine. Juanita L. My husband just looks at it as a job. This made it much easier to deal with. Positive thinking helps a lot! Monique S. The word dialysis may sound scary, but it doesn't mean dying. Dialysis allows you to live. Until the 1960s, if his kidneys failed, he had no options to live. When chronic dialysis began in Seattle, there were too few machines. Life and Death Committees made up of citizens and clerics chose who would get the scarce and costly treatment and who wouldn't. So, you may want to call it Lifealysis, as a young man does. Dialysis can save your life and change it. Make sure you can keep doing the things you value the most. How to choose a treatment when you don't want any of them? This is what some people with renal insufficiency ask themselves. We have built a tool to make it easier for you – My Life, My Choice of Dialysis This tool will help you choose the right treatment for you so you can feel your best and live the way you want. WHAT DO YOU CARE? Check the values that matter most to you. For each value you select, you can assess how each treatment option suits your life. We'll show you a summary when you're done. Click on the image below to see how each type of dialysis can affect the things you value most. For many years in the U.S., doctors thought dialysis should begin in stage 5 CKD (an eGFR of 15). Now, a number of large studios have found that it doesn't help to start so soon. In fact, starting early can even be harmful. Numbers alone are not enough, but an eGFR of 6 to 9 may be the best window. If you have symptoms that bother you a lot, you may want to start a little earlier. Your eGFR can be a useful guide for when to get an access or transplant job. As dialysis works to make any kind of dialysis, you need three things: Semi-permeable access to the membrane in the blood. You need a way to get to the blood so it can be cleaned. A semi-permeable membrane A membrane is a barrier. On dialysis, it is a thin layer of human tissue or man-made with microscopic pores. Pores let some things pass through the membrane (such as water and waste), but re-hold others (such as blood cells and proteins). Dialysis. A mixture of purified water and minerals helps to remove waste and water from the blood. Dialsyate may have some glucose (sugar) in it, too. During a treatment, the blood is on one side of the membrane — with water and residue in it. Dialysis is located in side of the membrane. Dialysis works using chemical principles found throughout nature: Diffusion. Waste will spread (pass) pores into the membrane, as the level of waste waste is lower than the level in the blood. The diffusion will continue until the waste levels are the same on both sides. Osmosis. Water will pass through pores to the membrane, too. This will continue until the level of waste is the same on both sides of the membrane. The elimination of water in hemodialysis Water in our body is found in three spaces, however, dialysis can reach one of them. Watch this video to see why mild treatments are the best. There are three spaces in your body where water and waste are found: Inside your cells Each cell is its own bubble, surrounded by a cell membrane. Water and waste pass through the membranes, which takes time. Among its cells All its cells float in a kind of soup made of water, salts and nutrients. Water and waste pass slowly from cells and into this soup. In your bloodstream only about 10% of the water and waste in your body are in your bloodstream at any given time. Dialysis can only directly cleanse the blood. This is a key point – because so little of the excess water and waste in your body are in your blood. During a treatment, first your blood starts to get cleaner. Then, water and waste begin to move from among their cells in the blood. Finally, water and waste move slowly from their cells and into the spaces between them. Each of these steps takes time. Residues left in your body can cause long-term damage to your nerves, bones and joints, and tissues. So, plan to get as much treatment as you can to feel more like you have healthy kidneys. More is better. It's so simple. Today, most U.S. citizens can get dialysis. And, most even get Help from Medicare to pay for it. Use our calculator to see what treatment Medicare will get to start sooner. All dialysis is done with the help of a clinic, even if you learn how to do your treatments at home. There are two main types of dialysis: Peritoneal (PD) and hemodialysis (HD) Peritoneal dialysis (PD) In PD, the inner lining of your belly is used to cleanse your blood. He fills his belly with sterile fluid through a tube (catheter) placed by a while. Continuous outpatient (walking) PD (CAPD) means that you do your exchanges by hand. Most people do one around breakfast, the dinner and bedtime. Dialysis peritoneal PD configuration and your lifestyle Most people who do PD use a cycle touring at night, so their days are free. Some people need a daytime exchange after a hand. Continuous outpatient (walking) PD (CAPD) means that you do your exchanges by hand. Most people do one around breakfast, the dinner and bedtime. Dialysis peritoneal PD configuration and your lifestyle Most people who do PD use a cycle touring at night, so their days are free. You may be able to get a long drainage tube that will allow you to reach a loved one's bathroom or room. PD is your friend-friendly. Your energy level can be constant all day, which can help you keep a job. A half-day manual PD exchange can be done in a clean room at work. You only need to go to the clinic about once a month for blood tests and to meet with your care team. Your PD diet has fewer limits than standard HD diet. However, PD fluid has sugar in it, and you can gain weight if you don't limit other carbohydrates. You may have pets - but they have to stay out of the clean room that connects the PD tube. Most clinics don't want you to take bath baths or use hot tubs Either you don't want you to swim in ponds, lakes, or public pools, because of the risk of infection With a special bandage, you may be able to swim in a private pool With a (prester) PD catheter breast, you can take baths, but many doctors don't use these. Having a PD catheter in your belly (or chest) can change the way you feel about your body. Some people have difficulty getting used to it, and it can affect their sex lives. PD is a travel motorist with you for free on a plane, or put it in the trunk of a car or in a VR. The company that makes the PD fluid will send you for free in most of the U.S. If you want to travel to Alaska, Hawaii or outside the U.S., you may have to pay to ship the fluid PD. PD Training Training to learn PD it may take a week or so. A nurse will teach you how to make an exchange safely, run a motorist, and ask for supplies. S/he will come to his house and help him get a room for treatment. And, you can call your nurse 24 hours a day if in doubt. For more information about PD: Hemodialysis (HD) For HD, your blood comes out of your body from an access and through a filter (dialysis). Then your blood comes back to you. This happens many times for a few hours, and your blood becomes a little cleaner with each step. A machine controls flow rates and temperature, and has alarms to keep you safe. You can learn how to make HD at home. Or, you can go to a clinic three times a week. There are three schedules for HD: Schedules treatments per week hours for the Total Hours treatment at home? Clinical? Standard 3 Mon. Dills. Fri or Fri. Des. 4 (More is better) 12 Short Daily (treatments at any time of day) 5-6 2.5-4 (More is better) 12.5-24 Some clinics offer this Nocturnal (doing treatments while sleeping at night) 3 in a clinic or 4-6 at home 8 24-48 Home Hemodialysis (HHD) HD can be done in the comfort and privacy of your home. A nurse will teach you how to do it. You're not going home until you're sure you can succeed. Success. you will have 24-hour nurse backup over the phone. For home HD, you may need a partner. Medicare will not pay for one; most HD partners are family members or friends. Even if you need a partner, it's better for you whether you do as much of your own care as you can. More frequent HHD and your home HD lifestyle can help you feel in more control and give you a more normal life: You can feel good enough and have enough energy to work with. You may be able to bring your machine with you to travel, instead of going to a clinic. You can do treatments in your schedule, and go to the clinic only once a month. It can be eaten and drunk with fewer limits - or it may have no limits with night HD. Any type of pet HD can help you sleep better at night than the other options. Home or night HD can allow for a more normal sex life. Night HD can make it possible to have a healthy baby. Short daily HD or night HD helps people live longer (about while with a transplant from a deceased donor. This is about three times longer than with HD or standard PD in the center). You can do treatments in your schedule. Less stress on your heart. You can reduce your message dialysis recovery time. You can increase your chances of receiving a transplant. HD Training Home HD training can take 3 to 6 weeks, depending on which machine is used. A nurse will teach you how to safely do treatments, run the machine, and order supplies. S/he will come to his house and help him get a room installed, and he will be there for the first treatment at home. For more information about HD at home: AT THE HD Center you can also do your treatments in a clinic, where you would spend dialysis time with others s have failed. Depending on where you live, you may have one or more clinic options to work with. If so, you can search each online clinic to see how well you are doing in projects.propublica.org/dialysis/. Call and set up a tour of the best clinics to see what you think. Look for a clean and friendly place where people get along with each other. Bring questions with you. See how they treat you when you visit. In-Center HD and Your Lifestyle If you choose treatments at the centre, you need to make the most important changes to your lifestyle - treatments can be done during the working day. This can make it difficult to work with. You go to and from the clinic three times a week (Mon-Fri-Fri or Tuesday.- Thu.-Fri) for treatments. You can set up treatments elsewhere when you want to travel. (The social worker can help to reserve a time slot.) You will have limits on liquid, phosphorus, sodium and potassium. And, you may have other limits of (i.e. for diabetes or heart disease). Most people who use this treatment (74%) find that they do not sleep well. Many people who use this treatment also find that their sex lives are affected. Of these ages 20 to 29 using this option in the US, 56.2% lived for 10 years At the age of 60, 8.3% lived so long. However... Night hd in the center gives you twice as much treatment. It's much softer. For more on in-center HD: In 1972, Congress passed a law to help people whose kidneys failed to afford treatment. This law allows you to get Medicare - at any age - when your kidneys fail. You have to be a U.S. citizen. And, you need enough jobs for Social Security. If you didn't work hard enough, you need to be the spouse or child of someone who did. About 93% of people in the U.S. with kidney failure get help from the Medicare End-Stage Renal Disease (ESRD) program. Medicare pays 80% of the costs of kidney transplant surgery (yours and a donor's dialysis) and dialysis at home or in a clinic. If you do a home treatment, you don't have to buy the machine. The clinic will lease it to you. Most people have a health plan through work or a Medigap plan that will pay for all or most of the other 20%. Or, you may need to get a private policy through the Affordable Care Act. If you qualify, ben Medicaid can help pay for treatment. The start date of Medicare depends on your choice of treatment. This can make a big difference to how much you will have to pay out of pocket. Medicare covers transplant drugs for 3 years. After that, you need a way to pay for them unless you are disabled for a reason other than CKD. Some groups of patients are trying to get Medicare to pay for these medications for the life of a transplant. Medicare has created a simple tool - The Out of Pocket Cost Dear - to help you see how your coverage options affect your costs. You can also compare your current costs with different coverage options. If you make standard HD in a clinic, Medicare will begin covering the 1st day of its 4th full month of treatment. You have to pay for your treatments until then. (Your health plan will help you pay, if you have one. If you don't, you may be able to get another help.) But, if you start training for PD, home HD or self-care at the center before the 4th month begins, Medicare will start immediately. In fact, Medicare may be back dated to the 1st day of its first month of training. This can save you thousands of dollars. To know when Medicare can start for you, use our handy calculator.
