Place the correct letter and specify the life mode in the space to the left. What's the same with each other and what's different? Describe the functions of each organelle and draw an image to remind you of its function. Place the correct letter in the data table to indicate the correct organization. Describe the function/purpose of each organelle in the cell. If you think about it, your school has many places that allow it to function properly, just like an animal cell. Associate the functions of the organelles of an animal cell with parts of your school that have a similar function. Place the correct letter in the data table to indicate the correct organization. Describe the function/purpose of each organelle in the cell. If you think about it, your local community has many parts that allow it to function properly, just like a plant cell. Associate the functions of the organelles of a plant cell with parts of your community that have a similar function. Many famous personalities have received public notice because of their unique characteristics. Cellular organelles also have unique characteristics. Associate the function of each of the following cellular organelles with a famous person based on that person's personality or a position they once served. The puzzle without a word bank. It goes right in hand with the above worksheet. If you are looking to provide students with clues to the words. The question is: What does DNA mean? What kind of organ is she? Most of the problems concern the organs of the cell (organelles). Place the letter that corrects identifies the organstone in the space to the left. . If you were to compare a person's muscle cell that is very active with that of an inactive person, what differences can you see in organelles? Will you be in groups of two? you will develop a human community that has a similar structure and function to that of a plant cell and animals. Your team will present this idea to the class. Associate each cellular organelle with a part of this community and describe it. Describe the general environment of this community. This is a rubric template for the project. This focuses on the content of your presentation. What phases do cells undergo during mitosis? What happens at every stage? This can be used a workshop for students. Below you will see a microscope label the following parts. The model is manufactured using various foodstuffs. We recommend using a light-colored gel to allow a transparent view through the cell you are about to construct. Materials and steps to take make another direction to go with this project.
