Greek theater seating chart

William Randolph Hearst's Greek Theatre, known locally as simply a Greek theater, is a beautiful and ancient Greek amphitheater located in Berkeley, California. The location is supervised by the University of California. The picture below shows a diagram of the seats of the Greek Theatre Berkeley. As you can see, the configuration is an ancient amphitheater with a round plan of seating. Seating tickets are sold first come, first base. Fixed seats give a great view of the scene and allow you to get closer to the performers, where the lawn area provides a much larger social side of the event. The lawn area is raised high above the seating positions of fantastic views. Wherever you decide to go, be sure to enjoy the events, depending on the choice of your seats. Please note that ticket prices vary depending on the seating area. The full list of events can be found in the Schedule of The Greek Theatre Berkeley. If you plan to visit the Greek Theater in Los Angeles, you'll want to make sure you have great places. Explore the Greek theatre using the seating chart below. This seating map includes a complete layout of Greek theatre seats and seats for different ticket tiers. Just click on the section to browse the tickets and you will be on your way to an unforgettable event experience! The seats, sections and seating positions of the Greek theatre chart are usually arranged in such a way that the lower seat numbers are closer to the centre of the stage and the higher seat numbers are further from the centre of the stage. Usually, the rows are divided in alphabetical order. Similarly, a Greek theatre, an amphitheater can be installed. Many amphitheatres have general reception sections that indicate seating or standing positions that are not assigned or reserved. These sections are usually described as General Admission (GA), PIT, Lawn or Standing Room (SRO) tickets. General logon tickets may display the specified line. Most artists, teams and venues assign general admission tickets to a section, line and local number, but this practice is usually for administrative purposes and usually does not limit where you are allowed to sit or stand in your department.
