South Cobb senior Traci named Cooper means the phenomenal Friday teacher of the week of December 16. (Pictured left to right) Tyler Gwynn, Cobb County School District recruitment supervisor; Clint Terza, principal of South Cobb High School; Cooper Means, Phenomenal Friday Of the Week Teacher; South Cobb senior Traci; CCSD Deputy Superintendent John Adams and Assistant Superintendent Phillip Page. A South Cobb High School cafeteria full of teachers erupted in applause and applause when a 51-year-old South Cobb senior veteran teacher, Cooper Means, the phenomenal Friday teacher of the week. Means, who has taught South Cobb for 11 years, was pleasantly surprised to hear South Cobb senior Traci detail the impact his teaching has had on his life. I chose Mr. Means because it made me a better individual, Traci said in the room full of educators. It allowed me to grow a lot in class. He's a wonderful person. It's fantastic. As a teacher for his forensics class, Means has done more than prepare Traci for life outside of South Cobb. He prepared her for a career. I want to get into the crime scene investigation when I graduate, Traci explained. So taking his class gave me a better understanding of what he's going to be like in the [forensic] camp. He is a good model. He taught me I have to do things myself. The experienced educator described Traci as her ideal student, which is why she was successful competing in crime scene investigation contests. This presentation requires JavaScript. Being honored as a phenomenal Friday teacher of the week is a career highlight for Means. I've never had anything like this in all my years of education, Means said. Friday's phenomenal celebration didn't stop with Traci's kind words about how his teaching influenced her. From a custom Cobb County School District jacket and Atlanta Braves and Hawks tickets for lawn care assistance, a round of golf, and a free cabin rental, the South Cobb community flooded Means with gifts of appreciation for his years of education. While he was still working out the outpouring of support, Means expressed his gratitude to the South Cobb community and staff, but wanted to thank the students in particular. He said it's just about the students for him. This presentation requires JavaScript. Means was the only teacher honored on The Phenomenal Friday of South Cobb. Members of the South Cobb community, entrepreneurs and alumni have also donated gifts to other South Cobb teachers. We're just here to thank you, said Tyler Gwynn, a former South Cobb student, teacher and coach and the CCSD hiring supervisor. We know you're making a difference in these children's lives every single day. All the teachers ate a free chick-fil-a breakfast and had gift bags waiting for them when they arrived. Other gifts lined coffee tables, and like a mini-lottery, teacher after teacher was called in to pick up gifts, which included gift baskets, a Sprint gift bag, Atlanta Blaze sweatshirt, movie tickets, gift cards, and more. A South Cobb pupil even sent a special note of appreciation with his gift cards donated to teachers. This is a small gift to show how big a problem you are, the note said. I hope you know what you do and how you do it makes a difference to your students. Please continue for me and your students would be lost without the education you provide.
