Thanks for the template. Below is the draft I put together based on your suggestions. _____ Varajase Learning Center (YCCOELH) Introduction: This Partnership Agreement formals the mutual goal of the United Way of the Mid-Willamette Valley and the Yamhill Community Care Organization Early Learning Hub to provide transportation and gas payment to persons without the necessary transportation for medical appointments, Human Services Department or WIC meetings or interviews, counseling, educational classes, teacher and parents' meetings and other social services meetings in yamhill county and its immediate vicinity. directly with this target group. UWMWV and YCCOELH understand the importance of reliable access to transport, which can be an important obstacle in rural communities for adults and young people who do not have their own transport to critical appointments and job interviews. UWMWV puts emphasis on providing financial support to nonprofit organizations in Yamhill County to support families and young people with transportation needs. Scope of partnership: UWMWV and YCCOELH each allocate $3,000.00 for the 2014 - 2015 fiscal year beginning July 1, 2014, June 31, 2015. The funds allocate $3,000.00 to a total of $6,000.00 for the 2014 - 2015 fiscal year beginning July 1, 2014, June 31, 2015. The funds allocated will only be used to purchase bus tickets, gas vouchers or other resources that provide access to the transport of medical appointments, human services department or WIC, appointments of counselling institutions, education classes, reception of teachers and parents and other social services meetings or iob interviews, UWMWV will issue a $3,000,00,000 check for this purpose. Signatures of the agreement: Especially when dealing with partnerships and grants, there are some important documents that play a central role in the success of your project. We hope that today's quick advice on partnership letters and agreements will offer some clarity: the letter of support They are the easiest on our list of letters. They are used to express their yep ... You got this... SUPPORT for another community partner project/initiative. Usually one page or less, this letter confirms that there is a valid need and/or interest in the project and extends the statement of support. While it is useful to describe specific contributions to an initiative, such as a willingness to target clients, help with public relations or provide a specific service, this letter is generally generally generally written to the requirements of the grant application and a simple statement of support is not enough. Since these letters are often designed to be shared with the donor, they should clearly reflect the obligation to work together to achieve the stated goals. Partnership/initiative Project Prior successful partnership or why the new partnership is a very appropriate commitment to the project, as it relates to specific roles, responsibilities and resources Closing guarantees and contact details These terms can be interchangeable and reflect a strategic agreement between partner organizations instead of donor. Although these agreements are most commonly designed to describe the partnership objectives and standards, they may also be used as support proposal. Effective MEMORANDA/MEMORANDA OF UNDERSTANDING SHOULD INCLUDE: PURPOSE/OBJECTIVE OF PARTNERSHIP Key persons Roles and responsibilities common roles and obligations Budget agreements/policy Flagship initiatives and follow-up of partnership rules, conflict resolution, data sharing/ impact, public relations process for amending or revoking the Memorandum of Understanding/Memorandum of Understanding/Memorandum of Understanding/Memorandum of Understanding Signatures Of authorised persons These official documents may include a community partner with an interest in your project, or a qualified contract staff member hired to provide the service. Sub-contracts are often less detailed on how the objectives, financial agreements, expected deadlines, completion and guality assurance. These documents should be drawn up and signed with caution, as they are intended to be legally binding. They must normally be approved by an executive or a board of directors. Some organizations and donors may even apply for a notary signature contract. Partnership letters and contracts should be short, clear and realistic (we provide a document review service for non-profit organisations that requires an additional set of expert eyes to review key documents). Let's hope today's snapshot was useful. Check out our YouTube Channel as we have a variety of playlists related to various Nonprofit organization topics. Fiscal Sponsors: Ministry Programs and Partnerships What to add to partnership agreements with a sponsor or partner? By Giving A Link To Label As Always, Keep Growing Good! This website contains a collection of non-profit forms and precedents. There are several comments on the materials: the documents related to income earned; the activities of the member states; budget sponsorship, money-raising and other relationships specific to nonprofit organisations. The materials include management documents, programme documents, contracts, practical tools such as checklists and calendars, and several examples of advisory communication. Management materials include basic legislation, bureau committee charters, conflicts and other policy areas, and documents used in the board's orientation and planning of action plans. Programmed materials relate to food and agriculture, visual and performing arts, small business include a variety of program delivery, service, consulting, licensing, facility rental, and other contracts. Non-profit relations include mergers, budget sponsorship, resource sharing, commercial co-operation, corporate sponsorship, commercial fundraising, coalition, cooperation, chapter, merger and asset transfer agreements. Contracts between an independent contractor and subcontractor, voluntary agreements, disclaimers and website and trademark license terms. All documents are either actual work products forms or modified versions. What's not here: documents related to planned giving, donor-recommended money, supporting organizations, lobbying and political activities, international activities, program-related investments, private-sector foundations and other tax-heavy, highly technical issues, and documents related to labor, employment, or benefits issues. These areas are outside for the clinic. The website also contains brief discussions about our approach to planning and enforcing legal documents and customer communication. Who is this target site for lawyers and legal clinics who work for nonprofits, either for-pay or pro bono; lawyers who otherwise seek precedents; teachers; interested in the planning of legal documents. Who created these materials students and instructors organizations at the clinic, part of mills Legal Clinic Stanford Law School, prepared all the documents and comment on the e-screen. Why are we putting it together we created this site for two reasons. First, samples of non-profit legal documents are often difficult to find. Several organisations, such as public advisors, make excellent corporate governance models available, and budget sponsorship and other documents can be found through internet searches. However, it can be difficult to find examples of other documents, especially materials related to charities and other activities specific to nonprofit organizations. We wanted to start dealing with this gap in the resource base. Secondly, we try to learn from the design community how we approach, design and fill out legal documents. We thought this site was a way of sharing this view in a practical and specific way. What this is not as set out in the Terms of Use, we do not provide legal information on this site. Site users should also report that we practice in California and created documents for use by California nonprofits who are our customers. We do not guarantee that they reflect current law or are otherwise complete, much less that they are suitable for use in any particular situation. Users should also understand that reviewing and using these models does not create a lawyer-client relationship between you and the clinic or any of his lawyers or students. We recommend that nonprofit organizations and other non-lawyers consult a lawyer before using any material found on the site. We welcome feedback from the site, but please understand that we do not have the capacity to ask questions about any document. We also do not offer versions of Word from documents that comply with capacity constraints and the principle that these materials are examples of lawyers and sources of ideas, not ready-to-use forms.
