[1] In 2000, the book won the Josette Frank Award,[2] and in 2003 won the Mark Twain Award. [3] It was adapted as a 2005 family film directed by Wayne Wang, produced by Walden Media and Twentieth Century Fox, and starring AnnaSophia Robb as Opal Buloni. [4] [5] In 2007 the U.S. National Education Association listed Winn-Dixie as one of its teachers best 100 books for children, based on an online poll. [6] In 2012, it ranked number 20 among children's novels of all time in a survey published by the School Library Journal – the first of three books by DiCamillo in the Top 100. [7] Plot Summary A 10-year-old girl named India Opal Buloni has just moved to a trailer park in the small town of Naomi, Florida, with her father, who is known as the Preacher because he preaches at the local church. While in the supermarket, Opal sees a scruffy dog destroying the store and decides to take him home, naming him Winn-Dixie after the supermarket chain. Miss Franny Block, a librarian, shares great stories about her past, including one about her great-grandfather, whose family members died while fighting for the South in the Civil War. He invented Litmus Romben's candies, which tasted like root beer and strawberry but contained a secret ingredient-melancholy. The one who tasted candy tasted sweetness mixed with sadness. In Because of Winn-Dixie, these kandier symbolizes that although life sometimes involves people a bit of sadness, there is always much to appreciate. Opal learns that her sour-faced neighbor, Amanda Wilkinson, lost her younger brother Carson when he drowned in the town lake the previous summer. She promises to be nicer to her from then on. Opal finds a dog collar that she wants to buy for Winn-Dixie, but she has no money and decides to work for the pet store to serve it. Otis, a worker at Gertrude's Pets, is reluctant to hire Opal as a cleaning girl, but she comes to work. When Opal and Winn-Dixie step into the store, the animals panic when they see the big dog. Otis plays his guitar to calm them down. Opal learns that Otis once went to jail for assaulting a police officer who told him he couldn't play his guitar on the street because he disturbed others and tried to confiscate While Opal Opal Riding her bike and Winn-Dixie moving forward, they meet a woman named Gloria Dump. She and Opal will be good friends. Opal and Gloria, a recovering alcoholic, decide to host a small party, inspired by one in Gone With the Wind, inviting everyone they know. In the process, Opal becomes a friend of his former enemies, brothers Stevie and Dunlap Dewberry. She also invites Amanda Wilkinson and Sweetie Pie Thomas, a younger girl who has no pet. and so has fallen in love with Winn-Dixie. Otis and Miss Franny Block are also invited. Opal and Gloria set everything outdoors. but it starts raining, so they take the party indoors. Opal can not find Winn-Dixie anywhere, even after searching the city. Ten minutes later, she returns to Gloria's home to discover that Winn-Dixie has been there the whole time, hiding because he is afraid of storms. The book ends with Otis playing his guitar and everyone singing one of The Preacher's songs. Translations Translated into Persian, published in 2005 by Ghatreh. Plot
10-year-old India Opal Buloni has just moved to the fictional small town of Naomi, Florida with his father, a preacher. While in the Winn-Dixie supermarket, Opal meets a scruffy Berger Picard who wreaks havoc. Opal (doesn't want the store manager to send the dog to the pound) claims it's her dog and names it Winn-Dixie. Winn-Dixie befriends everyone he meets, and so Opal makes some new friends in the process. She also re-enacts her relationship with her father, learning ten things about her mother, who abandoned them seven years ago. Opal describes the preacher as a turtle, always sticking his head in his turtle shell, and never wants to get out into the real world. This is probably because of how sorry he is about his mother, with whom he is still in love. One of the people Opal meets is Miss Franny Block, a kind and somewhat eccentric senior librarian, who tells her many great stories, including one with a bear. Opal also meets Gloria Dump, a blind recovering alcoholic with a tree in her backyard who has beer bottles hanging from it. She calls it a mistake tree and the bottles represent the ghosts of all the things she has done wrong. One day, tired of Winn-Dixie, the landlord of Buloni's trailer park, Mr. Alfred, orders the preacher to get rid of the dog. The preacher calls the animal pound to take Winn-Dixie away, but Opal asks his father to keep his dog. Unable to see his daughter this upset, the preacher tells the pound to return Winn-Dixie, claiming he is not the same dog he called about. Opal gets a job at Gertrude's Pets and befriends a worker there, Otis, a shy ex-prisoner with a passion for music. She also meets a young girl named Sweetiepie Thomas, who is eager to have a dog like Winn-Dixie. Later, a thunderstorm comes and Winn-Dixie, who is pathologically afraid of thunderstorms, runs away. While Opal is looking for him, her father wants to give up and she blames him for the loss of his mother and Winn-Dixie running away. But her father explains that he tried very hard to look for his mother. He then admits that he thinks she'll never come back. Later they go back to a party and Otis starts singing a song on his guitar. Winn-Dixie is heard outside howling along with the song. Everyone, while singing, lets him in and welcomes him back. Cast

The film based on the book was released in 2005. It was directed by Wayne Wang; produced by Trevor Albert, Walden Media, and Joan Singleton; distributed by 20th Century Fox; with music composed by Rachel Portman. It stars AnnaSophia Robb as India Opal Buloni, Jeff Daniels as The Preacher, Opal's father, Mr Buloni, Cicely Tyson as Gloria Dump, Luke Benward as Steven Stevie Dewberry, Dave Matthews as Otis, Eva Marie Saint as Ms. Franny Block, Courtney Jines as Amanda Wilkinson, Bj Hopper as Mr. Alfred, Nick Price as Dunlap Dewberry, Elle Fanning as Sweetie Pie Thomas, Harland Williams as police officer, John McConnell as Store Manager, Becca Lish as Gertrude parrot, and two dogs, Lyco and Scott as Winn-Dxie. [1] The film was shot on location in Napoleonville, Louisiana, with some shooting in Gibson, Louisiana, USA. To make sure both dogs got along well with AnnaSophia Robb, who played Opal, she was brought in early to get acquainted with the dogs and give them sweets. When the shooting started, they considered her a safe area. [1] Winn-Dixie was played by several Picardy Shepherds, a rare breed from France. THE DVD extra Diamond in the Ruff shows the top two dogs, Scott and Lyco, but producer Trevor Albert mentions in the DVD feature comment that in all four dogs was used. In featurette Meet Winn-Dixie
AnnaSophia Robb mentions that the stunt dog Tasha skipped the flour. The mouse of the film was played by a rat. The choice was made carefully because while a mouse would have been preferred, rats are much easier to train. Director Wayne Wang wanted to use Picardy Shepherds because he thought they resembled the depiction of Winn-Dixie on the book cover and seems familiar to his readers. Dogs were brought from France when none were available in the United States. The film, like the book, is set in Naomi, Florida, although it was shot in Louisiana. Consequently, the police car and uniform emblem depict the state of Florida rather than the state of Louisiana. The rabbit that Otis hands Opal (in about 56 minutes) is a Netherland Dwarf. They may only be between 6 and 8 inches long. Soundtrack
