The weather in Puerto Vallarta during the high season – October-May – is warm 80° to 85° Fahrenheit, 27° to 29° Centigrade (65°F / 18°C at night). We may have 1 or 2 days when it might rain a bit during the entire period. After April and until about June or July it will be increasingly warmer, to about 90 ° F or 32 ° C, and more humid (80 ° F - 27 ° C at night). Around mid-June, the rains begin. During the rainy season, humidity will increase during the day until the rain comes. Normally, and we repeat Normally, it will rain for about 2 hours – very heavy with thunder and lightning – in the late afternoon, in the evening or sometimes in the middle of the night. It almost never lasts long unless there is a weather system off the coast. Around mid-October, the rain will stop and the humidity will go down, it used to be something you could bet on, but now with climate change, we're not betting anymore. We love the rain, it cleans everything up and the jungle turns incredibly green. It's not cold when it rains, still about 80 degrees F. Tropical storms. We don't usually have hurricanes affecting us, Kenna 2002 was the exception and it was just a glance blow, the waves and storm surge from it caused a lot of damage along the beach but we only got 1 rain from it and hardly any wind. The bay and surrounding mountains protect us from the worst, but they can affect our local weather. When a off the coast is involved, we can expect the rain to continue into the night and maybe the next day, but it is normally a light drizzle. The rain comes as a relief from the humidity and even if it is wet it is still warm. The rainy season in mid-June to mid-October. Big thunder and brighter shows, if you like drama, this is for you! Re: Cold temperatures coming to PV-Polar Vortex Dec 30, 2020, 1:34 PM I'm glad we're not in P.V. now, what a disappointment it would be to leave home where we've been working in 20 - 50 degree weather for 3 months just to arrive at P.V. and face 45-50 degree mornings & evenings. I feel sorry for our friends in P.V. who are not used to these temps. Think I'll go down to the beach & check out the way it's blowin 40 & rainin sideways here. Two weeks from today if everything goes as planned, we will wake up to our second day of good food, better drinks, sun, fun, & sand in Mazatl an Yahooooo Safe travels Life is good Level Contributor 18,688 posts 726 reviews 692 helpful votes 32. And we're here now. Every day has been warm and sunny for us so far. Level Contributor 18,688 posts 726 reviews 692 helpful votes 34. LOTS of people besides you complain about being cold, remember people who live there or come from warm climates even weather of late is cold for them. I have very close, family members there who say they are freezing at night. Level Contributor 517 posts 1 review 35.
