Iconic blue and yellow machines that resemble an ATM are available for customers to use in the Greeley Motor Vehicle office. Weld County is the third county in the state to launch Colorado's MVExpress kiosks under a pilot program. Thirteen other counties will add kiosks later this year. Machines are expected to reduce waiting times at motor vehicle offices helping consumers renew their license plates and free up employees to help as more complex and sign-up deals. Touchscreen terminals will allow a citizen to walk, scan barcodes on your vehicle renewal notice, pay cheque fees, credit or debit cards, and receive print registrations and their license plate papers on point, without waiting in a city office. If your vehicle needs emissions testing, you must complete it for at least two business days before using the kiosk. If you have changed or updated your auto insurance, you will have to wait 2-4 business days before using the kiosk for renewal. Nationally, seven states currently offer self-service kiosks including California, Georgia, Indiana, Ohio, New York, Nevada and South Dakota. The California Department of Motor Vehicles reported last year that 50 terminals had processed four million transactions since it was installed in 2010. For more information about motor vehicle services in Adams County, please call 720-523-6010 or www.adco.gov/org/motor-vehicle. Some Colorado drivers who will travel between counties will be able to renew their license plates with a new ease starting next week. Starting Monday, 12 counties will have 18 self-service kiosks where drivers can renew their car registration at each participating county. According to a release from the Weld County Office and the recordings of the following counties will participate: Arapahoe, Adams, Boulder, Broomfield, Douglas, El Paso, Fremont, Jefferson, La Plata, Larimer, Mesa and Weld Counties. More counties may have allowed the city's cross-county system later this year. If you live in one city, but work, shop, go on vacation, or attend college in another participating city, you can use any kiosk along the way to renew your license plate. You walk with your tabs in minutes, secretary and recorder Carly Koppes said in the release. The Cross County kiosk in Weld will be located at the Greeley Motor Vehicle Office, 17th Street, 1st floor. To use machines, a customer can type the license plate number on the touch screen or scan the renewal postcard. Taxes and fees can be paid by cheque, credit card or debit. The kiosk will immediately print the receipt, vehicle registration and license plate papers. According to the release, the system has no wait time. Customers can add a kiosk to the 33 locations in Colorado where the kiosks are recommended to finish at least two working days before using the kiosk. Those who have recently changed or updated their auto insurance are advised to wait two to four working days before using the kiosk. Those who have completed their grace periods for renewal must be renewed in person. Renewing your license plate in Colorado is getting much easier. Beginning March 5, citizens in 12 Colorado counties will have the option to renew their vehicle registration in each of the 20 self-service kiosks located in each of those participating cities. Larimer has 11 other counties accepting cross-city transactions at their Colorado MVExpress kiosk. It is another innovative customer comfort licensing vehicle that Larimer County is proud to provide for its citizens; Giving them the ease and comfort of renewing their license plates from kiosks located in numerous locations across the state, said clerk and recording Angela Myers. Living in another city is forced to limit your label renewal options. If you work, go to school, or go to another participating county, you can use their kiosk to renew your registration and walk away with your papers in minutes. Kiosks are only available to residents of Arapahoe, Adams, Boulder, Broomfield, Douglas, El Paso, Fremont, Jefferson, La Plata, Larimer, Mesa and Weld counties. However, more counties may be allowed kiosk deals for residents later this year. You can find your nearest kiosk ♦ Kiosks are blue and yellow machines that look like an ATM. To use one, simply type your number plate on the touch screen, or scan the barcode on your renewal postcard; Then pay taxes and fees by cheque, credit or debit card. The kiosk will immediately print your receipt, car registration and license plate tabs. Customers pay a $3 service fee for each renewed vehicle at the kiosk. It pays for technology and is not evaluated or maintained by Larimer County. In addition, there is a $0.50 convenience fee to pay using a check, and a 2.15% fee for payment via credit card or debit. If your vehicle needs emissions testing you must complete it at least two business days before using the kiosk. If you have recently changed or updated your auto insurance, please wait 2-4 business days before using the kiosk for renewal. If your bounty period is finished for your renewal, you won't be able to renew in a car and must appear in person in your city's motor vehicle office. Larimer County entered the kiosk pilot program last August by installing an MVExpress kiosk in the lobby of the Fort Collins Automotive Licensing Office. The technology made a dramatic difference to help reduce waiting times and free up employees to help as more complex and sign-up deals. The advantage of being part of this program, and providing this service, is that it not only provides another level of comfort to our citizens, but also improves the efficiency within our operations, and as a result, better use of taxpayer funds, says Secretary Myers.
