It premiered on Fox in the U.S. on November 8, 2009. The episode follows Anthropomorphic dog Brian, who dates a middle-old woman named Rita who has her daughter standing up Brian. He becomes reluctant to continue their relationship after discovering her many health concerns. Also, his family constantly harasses him. The episode premiered during the All-Seth MacFarlane schedule ahead of the live-action episode Seth and Alex's nearly live comedy show. The episode was written by series regular Tom Devney and directed by Pete Michels. It received very mixed reviews from critics for its story and many cultural references. According to Nielsen ratings, it was seen in 7.38 million homes in the original aired. The episode will include guest performances by Hart Boxner, James Burkholder, Amy Garcia, Jack Samson, Stacey Scowley, Debra Skelton, Reginald Ver johnson, Nana Visitor, Tico Wells, May Whitman and Bruce Willis. Guest voice actors from the series appeared repeatedly. Bryan's Got a Brand New Bag was released on DVD on June 15, 2010, along with seven other episodes of the season. This episode is dedicated to Patrick Swayz. During a visit to the closed video store during the plot DVD sale, Peter decides to buy a roadhouse and after seeing it, decides to kick all of the view including his family to start the Roundhouse. While driving with Brian and using his feet on the steering wheel, Peter crashes into the young woman's car and Brian rushes to make sure she's ok. The woman apologizes to Brian and he put her out on a date. She accepts, but when he comes to her house to pick her up, her mother Rita says she just left with someone else. Brian continues to talk to Rita and realizes that he is attracted to her. After each other for a few weeks, they sneak into Griffin's house late one night, but the family finds out the next morning and taunts Rita behind them. Brian, despite the fact that Rita is considerably older than him, attempts to convince the family that she is a wonderful, attractive woman and invites her to dinner to prove his point. It doesn't work: They demand that she reveal her age and she breaks down and admits she is 50.With Griffin, Brian go to console Rita and propose to her. Feeling guilty about how they treated him, Griffin gives Brian their blessing. Rita breaks her hip while she and Brian have sex. Peter warns Brian that their relationship won't last too long now he has to do business for her. Brian is out to take medication for the bedridden Rita, but is taken care of when he sees a group of young women enter the bar. One of them offers to have sex with Brian in the bathroom, after which he returns with her medication. He realizes he still loves Rita and he admits his disloyalty. But Rita decides he is too young for her and cuts off their engagement. Sorry Brian understands that it's for the best and leave her. Production and Development Nana Visitor provided Rita's voice. The episode was directed by former Simpsons artist Pete Michels and was written by Tom Devney at the end of the seventh season. Both are series regulars for the show, which participated in the third and fourth seasons, respectively. Before offering a minor voice-over role in the series, actress Nana Visitor portrays the episode's featured character, Rita. Series regulars Peter Singh and James Purdham directed, while series creators and executive producers Seth MacFarlane and David Zuckerman served as staff writers for the episode. 2] Bryan's Got A Brand New Bag, along with seven other episodes of the eighth season of Family Guy, was released on a three-disc DVD set in the U.S. on June 15, 2010 [set includes a brief audio commentary of Seth MacFarlane and various crew members and casts for several episodes, and a collection of deleted scenes. It included a special mini-feature that discussed the process of anting The Road to Multiverse, and a mini-feature, Family Guy Karaoke. In addition to the visitors and regular cast, guest appearances include actors Hart Bockner, James Burkholder, actresses Amy Garcia and Jack Samson, actresses Stacy Scoley, Debra Skelton, Reginald Ver johnson, actor Tico Wells, actress May Whitman and actor Bruce Willis. Recurring guest voice actor Alexandra Breckenridge, writer Steve Callaghan, voice actor Ralph Gurman, writer Danny Smith, writer Alec Sulkin and writer John Wiener also made minor appearances. Regular guest cast members Adam West and Patrick Warburton also appeared in the episode [Cultural References This section probably contains original research.] Validate your claim and improve it by adding inline citations. (November 2020) The title (see how and when to delete this template message) is a reference to James Brown's song Daddy Has a Brand New Bag. Peter buys movie Roadhouse starring PatrickAt the movie store, Peter refuses to film Robin Williams' film What Dreams May Come while Mayor West rests a business sale buying trash pale kids movies. Brian, on the other hand, buys Dan in Real Life, which Stevie mocks. In another scene, Joe is dragged away by a shadowy figure, a second Patrick Swayz film, a reference to Ghost. One cutaway gag romantically connects Whitney Houston and Bobby Brown's shared love for crack cocaine. Another cutaway gag features Peter the famous peanut bit, in which Lucy pulls the football away from Charlie Brown, who attacks her until he cries and promises he will never pull the same stunt. Brian boasts of his previous work as an actor, proving that he's showing scenes of Brian animated in live action next to Reginald Vel Johnson and Paul Gleeson in die-hard scenes. When Rita is introduced to the Griffins, Peter still jokes about her age by asking if anyone has made a Jessica Tandy joke. Charlotte Ray from The Life of Facts later appears in griffins' living room and says, Whatat?Peter, turn over the playboy Olympic woman issue, where Peter is charming and full of boys. Reception Despite a significant decline from the previous week's show and much touted as an Allises MacFarlane night, the episode received a Nielsen rating of 4.3/7 in the 18-49 demographic and was seen in homes of 7.38 million. The episode received mostly mixed reviews from critics [IGN's Ahsan Haque gave 6.5/10 and [5] Emily Vanderwerf of the A.V. Club gave a B, saying that the episode felt a very formulaic and a little wasted opportunity. And even the Kattaway gag was more muted than usual. In a subsequent review of the eighth season of Family Guy, IGN's Ramsey Isler cited Bryan's Got a Brand New Bag as lazy, inventive writing and grossly not funny. It was nominated for the Golden Raspberry Award for Worst Picture, Worst Director and Worst Actor, lost to Star Trek V: Final Frontier. In Bryan's Got a Brand New Bag, Peter Griffin buys DVDs from sold-out sales on The Kwahog Video. After watching the movie, Peter begins to believe that he can solve all of life's problems by kicking them. After kicking his target, he would say the name of the movie as a catchphrase of sorts. The episode was dedicated to Swayz, which aired just 47 days after he died of pancreatic cancer. He would say the name of the film in the same way in Business Guy and Trading Places. In Family Guy Viewer Mail No. 2 and Neville, Peter from England repeats Low House, with a view of his home. After experiencing explosive diarrhea in Call Girl, Peter declares Brown House. Peter uses all the downstairs electrical outlets in the house to make toast with Chap Stewie and declares it a toast house. In The Simpsons Guy, Peter shouts Homer's Whoohoo! After stealing the tagline, Homer kicks him and steals Peter's roadhouse tagline. Peter falls asleep watching a Patrick Swayds Christmas movie and dreams he will be visited by Patrick's ghost in Don't Be Dickens at Christmas, which contains several variations of Peter's Roadhouse phrases. Brian, after switching bodies in Switch Flips, will try to pac up a sexually unsantice Lois by describing him as a movie roadhouse to imitate Peter.
