To play Atari Breakout Atari Breakout was a very simple game developed by Atari Inc., an American video game and home computer company founded in 1972 by Nolan Bushnell and Ted Dubney. Primarily responsible for the formation of video arcades and the modern video game industry, the company closed and its assets were split in 1984 as a direct result of the 1983 North American video game crash.   Atari Breakout is very easy to play. In the game, you play with red balls and paddles. Your mission is to fly the ball and touch the blocks on the paddle. There are many colorful blocks in a certain order on top of your paddle. You need to click on the space bar to fly the red ball. The red ball flies and touches the upper block. Once the block is touched, it will fall to the bottom of the screen. The ball bounces around the screen and falls off too. When it falls, youPaddle to catch the red ball so that it doesn't touch the bottom of the screen.   If the red ball touches the bottom of the screen, you will lose your life. You only have three lives every time you play this game. Therefore, it is necessary to always be careful and prevent the ball from touching the bottom of the screen.   For each block the red ball touches, you receive points. The game counts the points you are scoring to claim your record. If the ball touches a stable block, score a little. In contrast, when the ball touches a falling block, it earns a lot of points. Therefore, do your best to make the red ball touch the falling block. However, when the ball touches the falling block, the falling block explodes, changing the way the ball flies, which make it difficult to catch the ball when it falls.   While the game has so many levels, you have only three turns to play every time you play. Therefore, you have to try very hard to go through so many levels of the game. It is easy to play this game, but it is not easy to win this game. Game Games
