These codes are assigned to specific areas of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). Depending on the number of residents in a particular area, some major cities may have two or three different area codes assigned to them. With the advent of mobile phone and portable number porting, the use of area codes to determine a caller's exact location is dwindling. Area code 639 is the second area code to cover the province of Saskatchewan, Canada. The second range code associated with this area is 306. Area code 639 is a relatively new area code and was first put into service in May 2013. Saskatchewan has a number of large cities and communities that are serviced by this area code, including Estavan, Humboldt, Moose Jaw, North Battleford, Prince Albert, Regina, Saskatoon, Swift Current, Weyburn and Yorkton. This new area code for Saskatchewan was implemented as an overlay of 306 area code, rather than a split, to spare rural residents and businesses the need to change their phone numbers when 10-digit calls became mandatory in the province.
