Adventures of god characters

Brussels-based illustrators Matteo Ferrazzi and Corey Jay have created this hilarious series called Adventures of God. In it, you will see God as a ruler who is often forgetful, has a fragile ego, and a drinking problem. Adventures of God is a webcomic host on webtoons.com that began in late 2016. It is updated every Tuesday and Saturday. The story follows God, who is an alcoholic parent of Jesus, along with a bunch of other crazy characters from the Bible.Adventures of God contains examples of: The Alcoholic: God seems to be drunk in 95% of his appearances. Alcoholic Parent: Comical example. He's Jesus' father. An Aesop: Some episodes feature Jesus giving these out. Bait-and-Switch: A common gag. A young couple is worried about whether they should love in a setup that makes them look like the stereotypical affected Christian newwyweds and ask Jesus for advice, at which point he gets frustrated and just says they deserve privacy. Turns out they're furries. Even Jesus is a little shocked. In Episode 38, Gabe and God visit different alternative universes and conclude in one where a reality TV star controls the free world. God immediately leaves in disgust, whether it is their own ... only for the next camera to reveal the president Berserk Button: Button: Gabe, these are bees. They need to be protected, damn it! Black Comedy: In spades throughout the series. Bland-Name Product: Clickbait-y lists in this universe can be found on Butterfeed. Cats are mean: Cats in this cartoon go to hell and are the only animals to do so. Not because they were evil, but because they enjoy seeing people being tortured. Cellbacy Hero: Jesus is portrayed as uninterested in all matters related to sex and sexual attraction, to the point that he rejects many women who save [themselves] for him. Continuity down: More. Especially when he and his little helpers are given raisins by a woman while trick-or-treating. Lucy mentions that there is a special place in hell for her. Later, she shows up in hell. An early example comes when a singer thanks God for having her back when winning a Grammy. A later newspaper shows her picture with the headline that she has fallen on hard times. When God visits Dorothy in Limbo, an atheist from an earlier episode who has gone there can be seen snoring on the couch. Even Evil Has Standards: Lucy is horrified when he realizes that Santa's elves work in inhumane conditions to keep up the demand in making toys for Christmas. Evil Lawyer Joke: After God realizes that he won't be sued for some surgical complications and thus doesn't need any lawyers after all, he tells them they can go. All three can be seen going to hell. Fire and Brimstone Hell: Complete with lava rivers! Flaming Devil: Lucifer is often called Lucy by God, and is gay. God is flawed: God is portrayed as The Ditz, who is alcoholic, forgetful and has quite a temper, but can be caring when he is in the mood and believes in the good of humanity. The ghost: Mary mentioned often, but God and Satan are always reluctant to reveal what happened to her. Jesus was way cool: Unusual example. While Jesus is the most straightfaced recurring character in the work and probably not as fun to hang out with as some other examples of this trope, he is also portrayed as a really good, loving figure who has useful advice. Loophole Abuse: Episode #11 depicts the Christian idea of forgiveness like this. Gregory the axe killer repents and gets to go to heaven... only to come across one of his murder victims immediately as God and Jesus sneak away quietly. The Matchmaker: The real reason gay people are sent to hell is that God is trying to set Lucy up. He's going to marry someone. Only Sane Man: Jesus, who often speaks God and Gabe out of their more extreme actions. Paper-Thin Disguise: Geez, I wonder who Dr. Lucien from Morning Star University is? Running Gag: Winrar. Piracy Winrar is often brought up as a great sin. Satan is good: Lucy is portrayed as a role model for her cult, who does her job devotedly who really wants to improve Hell as an environment and a good man. Start your review of Adventures of God I absolutely loved this! Presented in the form of hilarious discourse between God (an irresponsible alcoholic), Lucifer (or Lucy, our awesome gay devil), Gabe scientist and environmental activist (Gabriel), Jesus (whose fatherhood is uncertain), and a host of different characters that make this webtoon so funny yet in some ways instructive and thoughtful. The highlights for me were: * Gay Lucifer: definitely something I've never seen before. God's matchmaking abilities worked very well for I absolutely loved this! The highlights for me were: * Gay Lucifer: definitely something I've never seen before. God's matchmaking skills worked very well for him and Riley. Lucy is very kind and thoughtful. His relationship with the girls (as a father figure) is terribly endearing. Also his renovations of hell and rehabilitation program were great (cat therapy! Yes!). I wouldn't mind ending up in it. * Gabe and his fight for the bees, and the discussions on climate change. * Although presented in a bright way, there were intriguing conversations about existence, human nature, the existence of God, and unregulated capitalism with its exploitation of the working class. * Eating Tofu instead of turkeys on Thanksgiving warmed my vegan heart. It all gave me a warm, fuzzy feeling, with many laughs and chuckles.
