Detroit opera house best seats

If you were to take your girl to the Lion King in February at the Detroit Opera House, what would be the best place to sit? Main Floor middle? First line Mezzanine? Box Seats? Thanks in advance. DiscussionBeen a few years ago I've been there, but I don't think there's a bad place there. The main floor is always a good option. Mezzanine seats are excellent too, especially if first row. if you can get them, that would be my suggestion. You're usually disappointed. We were only there last Sunday for the Nutcracker - the first time. The place is beautiful. The main floor is fine, but we were in row Y which is a bit too far back to see the details (facial expressions etc). on stage. Give the other ticket to your girl's mother. Stay home and masturbate. The middle floor is good for checkers, if you can get them. The only not good seats are in the back corners. Never sit in a box. Signed, Abe LincolnAt the bar. I don't think there's a bad place at the Opera House. I would take the front row of the Mezzanine over the back of the main floor. But while I'm generally not against musicals, I've seen the Lion King, and I'd shoot myself before seeing it again. Images Section Comments Tags Events AdAdvertising We know the feeling. I just want to say that the Detroit Opera House is home to perhaps one of the largest opera companies in the United States. The hall itself has some absolutely amazing acoustics. (I've had the chance to sing on stage, they're wonderful). Secondly, the stage is huge why they can invite large dance companies to perform eg (All to great attention). Third, they employ such an amazing orchestra and the singers who have performed it are legendary including Joan Sutherland, Luciano Pavarotti, Andrea Bocelli (North premiere), Kathleen Battle, and Elizabeth Parcells, to name a few. The productions of the operas I've seen, especially Mozart and Verdi, are always amazing. The 2003 production of Verdi's Un Ballo in Maschera, (A Masked Ball) was absolutely phenomenal, as was the 2002 production of Mozart's Le Nozze di Figaro (The Marriage of Figaro), as great as I saw it 5 times. They also have a fantastic summer program called Learning at the Opera House. The Community Programs Department basically puts it all together. They have a fantastic Opera Camp, concerts, lectures on upcoming operas and ballet performances, as well as blues, poetry, jazz, and Motown lectures and events. Detroit Opera House is a great place for everyone to enjoy their own. There's a lot more going on at the opera house than just opera. Check it out. 3. Re: Detroit Opera House seating. let me know: thanks 12 years ago Gorgeous theater. I like the manager circle, near the front of the upper level. It hangs out over the box seats and the main floor, and the view is excellent. If you can get a box seat and want to spend cash, they're great too – just try to get somewhere near the middle. For a picture of their seat chart, go to motopera.org. Seating diagrams can be found in the map map, under the heading Detroit Opera House. I have season tickets to the operas, at the main level near the middle, but I think sitting higher up would be better for a show like Wicked, where you have more flying action going on.
