Axe vs old spice reddit

Hey, guys! Recently I just started wearing deodorant and I saw the sale of my local pharmacy for $3/10. Without thinking, I grabbed three sticks of Axe Deodorant and now I just realize how bad the mistake I just made. How badly repulsive/bad smell is it? I use it just in moderation on the day now because I sweat a lot in the summer. Edit: stick deodorant, not spray. Edit2: Thanks for the answers guys! This is my first time wearing deodorant since my parents did a bad job raising me, and I had no idea what to do. I will not forget to buy unscented in the future. I wonder what people want to use while showering? And what women think smells better, I prefer to use an old spice myself. 158 commentsPage 2 158 comments Axe is one of those deodorant companies that works as if women really like the scents they have, but I want a real female perspective. Page 2 24 comments I mean, can they also cover the entire odor spectrum right? Page 2 308 comments I use the ax as a 5-year-old (early 20s ATM) and always hear it in teenagers. It smells like any other body wash to me. Does the axe us teens thing just circlejerk? Page 2 8 comments Quería umas dicas de bons desodorantes masculinos. Tenho usado um em spray da Boticário, que não deixa manchas na camisa, mas fragrância não é tão boa quanto os que mancham... De uns tempos pra cá, tenho soado mais e odor ficou mais forte tbm, eu passo o desodorante umas umas 9hrs, quando chego em casa 18:30 o suvaco já tá fedendo, e o único esforço físico que faço durante o dia é andar 20- no sol and almoçar. Alguém já passou por isso? Já tentei raspar o suvaco, passar minancora (ideia da minha mãe) e não funcionou... Alguém tem alguma has broken up? Page 2 So I'm looking for something anti-itch in my first mosquito bite, and finding deodorants in my eyes. I saw many Old Spice options and got curious. My dad wore Old Spice, probably after shaving, so I smelled a classic deodorant and he smelled really good, quite familiar. There were many options, mostly deodorant, so why not sniff them all? They are Wolfthorn, Bearglove (??), and Hawkridge. There were also title explanations of how Wolfthorn is nightlife. Anyway, Hawkridge smells pretty good; fresh yet Old Spice.Axe had a limited amount of body sprays. Of those you spy on, Kilo and Anarchy smelled pretty good for men. Anarchy for women, mainly faux melon - nothing anarchic except the name. What made me curious was part of the 3pm BBC perfume documentary YouTube, which I watched last night. They tested the new smell of Axe in Brazil, which is apparently a huge and growing market for smells. So, anyone wearing and like Axe, Lynx, or Old Spice? Which versions are your favorites and why? Page 2 Man tips on how to deal with the smell of beautiful, body scents, perfume, pants, all this stuff. For All life I have been using Axe deodorants, but I often hear people say that you can do much better as a human being. What should I put on the skin and where should I put it? Does anyone give me or guide me to the smell of scent beautiful as an adult? Page 2 34 comments I fucking hate the smell of axe/old spice deodorant. Everything except finesse. He attacked my sense of smell. It resembles high school gym changing rooms/living in male dorms. It is well known that ax/old spice ads are deliberately designed to exploit the psyche of unsafe men to sell their product. Now there is nothing fundamentally wrong with how to use it for the product itself, that's when you're using too much to the point where I can smell across the room.seriously, grow to fuck up. Becky is not going to fall off you just because you compensate for your insecurities with the insidious fragrance. Page 2Posted byu/[deleted]1 year ago 13 comments
