We are not just going through the history of great athleticism and winning, but more importantly, through athletics, we are moving through examples of leadership, fair play, commitment, perseverance, teamwork and time management that every class of inductees and all student-athletes, regardless of athletic ability, can bring with them from the playing fields and in the classrooms and beyond. We believe that athletics is an education, and these skills can be applied to all aspects of life. Members of the Hall of Fame did just that along the way, showed exemplary sportsmanship and presented Melrose with pride and poise. Our organization is a private, non-profit dedicated to preserving shared memories. Most of us have memories of school athletics. As parents, students, athletes or coaches, we all have relatively short direct contact with school of athletics, but the home team is becoming permanent. Association, aspiration and sense of feeling it delivers the same for all generations. In honor of this tradition, the Hall of Fame is permanently housed in high school gymnasiums. Each spring, new conscripts were honored with a plaque with his or her image and a summary of their contribution and achievements. The student and the well-deserved people share not only the common school, but also the dreams and aspirations of young people. Our conscripts are honored with a banquet and induction ceremony where family and friends of conscripts get the opportunity to see their memorial plaque unveiled in our Hall of Fame. The Hall of Fame has a selection committee requesting and collecting nominations for inductions and gathers for months of fact-checking and discussion before making very difficult choices. It is a painstaking process that involves great dedication and commitment, but every year their dedication pays off. Induction candidates are requested by the community, and anyone can nominate a player, coach, contributor or team. It is your input and support that help to preserve our mission.
