English (United Kingdom) English (United States) Español (Latinoamérica) Page 2 15 comments I don't know what else to do here, playing titles like PSO2, Gwent, Ultrakill or Gloomwood will always result in immense lag, and my rig is WELL above the recommended species for each of these titles. Exclusive complete or complex border no matter, when it gets full screen following game performance tanks of oblivation. Try tweaking several settings in each game, the only thing that stabilized the framerate is playing on windows with no external software to turn it into borderless completeness. What do you have here? Page 2 4 Comments imgur.com/a/mySD...Page 2imgur.com/a/mYSD... I don't even know if this sub offers troubleshooting tips for new PC owners, but I haven't been able to find an online solution so I'll give it a shot. Please let me know if there is a better sub for that. I've been a console gamer for most of my life, but I recently decided to ring all tax statements on new PC parts. It was a long time to come, and it finally happened thanks to a free serving of Canadian whisky that I had while surfing pcpartpicker.com and credit card information I memorized. Everything was made painless with the construction.my PC ran perfectly, and it's the exact gaming budget that I've always wanted. The only question I have is that my mouse pointer periodically disappears when I move it to the secondary display. I can always click on things on the second display, I just can't see the pointer. Rebooting fixes it temporarily. I haven't been able to find a solution on Google besides subway points, which makes me feel a little homicide and it is not a good fix permanent. From what I've read it's a common unprecedented problem, so if you guys have any advice I would really appreciate it. I have some extensive upgrade plans as well, but if you see anything obvious to do my first all ears. Here's my part list: (It was a budget built, please be nice!)
