SeatGeek interactive maps indicate the location of the seats in the house and visitors and look at which sections are closest to each bank. Where To Sit At Great American Ballpark Great American Ball Park (GABP) is one of Major League Baseball's most underrated stadiums and is home to the league's first professional baseball team. Since 2003, the Cincinnati Reds have spent millions of dollars gradually upgrading the stadium with the latest fan amenities to effectively compete with other Major League Baseball stadiums. Great American Ball Park took the national stage when it hosted the 2015 Major League Baseball All-Star Game and offered one of the most exciting Home Run derbies in MLB history. For fans who love trying to catch home runs during batting practice or live games, Great American Ball Park is perhaps the best baseball stadium to catch home runs because it's such a small stadium with low field walls. Great American Ball Park is consistently the friendliest home-run stadium in Major League Baseball and was specifically built that way when home run bashers Ken Griffey Jr. and Adam Dunn were teammates of the Cincinnati Reds in the early 2000s. Our team wanted to provide a full analysis of the Great American Ball Park seating table and help fans decide where to sit before buying their tickets to the Cincinnati Reds. We'll start with the Mercedes-Benz Diamond Club, also known as The Diamond Seats, located behind the homeplate. Diamond Seats The Mercedes-Benz Diamond Club at Great American Ball Park consists of sections 1 through 5. The seating area was known simply as The Diamond Seats by fans of the Reds during the early years of Great American Ball Park. For many years, the face value for these seats was $250 per ticket and they could be purchased on StubHub for most Reds games at home. O O at Mercedes-Benz Diamond Club are letters A to H. Diamond Seats are the most expensive seats in Great American Ball Park and consist of the first 8 rows of seats behind the home plate and their advantages include cushioned seats with more room for your legs and arms. Access to the Diamond Club Lounge offering numerous flat-screen TVs and a full bar. A pre-match buffet at the Diamond Club Lounge that is open one hour after the end of the game. A team of waiters who will bring food and drinks to their seats. Complimentary food and drinks. A private entrance to great American Ball Park. Private bathrooms. Clubhouse Club house the club's home in Great American Ball Park consists of two seating areas; home club and the regular seats of the club. The club's home area consists of sections 220-228 and are located behind the home plate. The lines in sections 220-228 are typically letters from A to C. The club's regular clubhouse consists of sections 301-307 and is on the second level of the first base side. The lines in sections 301-307 are most often letters from A to M. Some sections have Lines N and O. Amenities for all sections of the club include Fox Sports Club Access, which offers flat-screen Televisions and internal seating. A complimentary buffet and non-alcoholic beverages. Access to indoor and outdoor bar areas. Private bathrooms. Wider and more comfortable seats. An additional seating option available to fans is the JACKS Casino Club Boxes which are only available in sections 306 and 307 at the Great American Ball Park club level. Jacks Casino Club boxes consist of blocks of four, six and eight seats each. Ticket holders for this area will also receive free food and non-alcoholic beverages, as well as access to the Fox Sports Club area. Boy Scout seats Scout seats in Great American Ball Park consist of two seating areas, the recognition boxes and the regular Scout seats. The recognition boxes consist of sections 22 through 25 and are located behind the board. The lines in section 22 through 25 are letters from A to G. Regular Scout seats consist of sections 122 through 126 and also stand behind the sign. The lines in sections 122 through 126 are letters A through I or A to O. The scouts' seats were named because, as you may have guessed, this is where most Major League Baseball scouts sit when they visit Great American Ball Park for games. Why do Major League Baseball players continue to be exploited after reaching the Major Leagues? Because players are often cut, traded, dismissed and other teams like to see certain players in person, which will reveal things they wouldn't notice on television. Fans with tickets in the sections designated for will have access to the Scouts Club, which offers perks such as padded seats with more leg and arm space. Access to the Scouts Club lounge area offering flat flat screen a full bar and private concessions. Private bathrooms. Fans can have food delivered to their seats via the Ballpark App. Field Box Field box seats in Great American Ball Park consist of sections 107 through 112 and sections 134 to 139. Sections 107 to 112 sit in the far corner of the third base side near the left field foul post. Sections 112 to 134 sit in the far corner of the first base side near the right field foul post. The ordering of the lines for the sections of the field box will vary greatly. Remember that the rows of unique letters are in front of the rows of double letters. Generally speaking, the seats in the box are the sections that will be at the receiving end of the most fouled balls during Cincinnati Reds games. Dugout Box Digging box seats consist of the first five rows in sections 114 to 119 and 127 to 132. The seats in the digging box are technically the same sections as the internal box sections, they are just called a different name so the Cincinnati Reds can charge fans more money. The dugout box sections 114 to 119 are the five closest lines behind the visiting team's dug at third base. The dugout box sections 127 to 132 are the five lines closest to the Cincinnati Reds dugout on the first base side. The lines for the digging box sections are typically Letters F through J. Amenities for the digging cabin seats include more comfortable seats with more space for your arms and legs. Access to the Scouts Club lounge area with flat-screen TVs, a full bar and private concessions. Private bathrooms. Fans can have food delivered to their seats via the Ballpark App. Infield Box Seats in the inner field of Great American Ball Park consist of sections 113 through 121 and sections 127 to 133. Sections 113-121 are behind the visitors on the third base side, and sections 121-127 are behind the Cincinnati Reds digging for the first baseside. The indoor seats are the most expensive non-premium seats in Great American Ball Park and offer a great view of the inner field. The lines of the field box sections start with single letters on the front and double-letter lines on the back. Row FF is the last line in most sections of internal boxes. The G line will be the first line in most sections of internal boxes. Sun Deck/Lunar Deck The Solar Deck/Moon Deck is one of the most popular seating areas in Great American Ball Park. The seating area consists of sections 140 to 146 and are the best sections for catching home runs at Great American Ball Park. There are two sections on the Solar/Moon Deck that baseball fans should avoid and include sections 145 and 146. These sections do not have a view of the scoreboard that sits in the corner left of the Great American Ball Park. The common area behind the Sun Deck/Moon Deck offers beautiful views of the boats in the River, as well as Newport, Kentucky. Lines A to E are the best places in sections 140 to 146. There are only two-letter lines in the sections on the Moon Sun Deck/Sun Deck, but these seats are located at the top of the sections. Fans seated in section 140 will have an excellent view of the visiting team's bullpen. Terrace The terrace seating of Great American Ball Park consists of sections 101 to 106 and are located on the lower level in left field. The only downside to the terrace seats is that they do not offer a view of the scoreboard that sits above these sections, as you can see in the photo above. The main benefits are that the sections of the terrace are incredibly small and provide quick access to the bathrooms and concessions. They are also excellent sections for catching home runs hit by right-handed hitters. Fans sitting in section 101 will get an excellent view of the Cincinnati Reds bullpen. The last rows of the terrace sections will also be protected from the sun thanks to the awning of the Kroger Grandstands. The queues for most terrace sections are Letters A through O. Kroger Bleachers The Kroger Bleachers consist of sections 401 through 406 and are some of the most affordable seats in Great American Ball Park. There are three major drawbacks to the Kroger Bleachers; are metal stands, have no cup holder and do not offer a view of the stadium scoreboard. They are very similar to the places you would find at your local football stadium. In addition, the Kroger Bleachers are an excellent seating option for baseball fans on a budget and a large group of fans like churches and schools. Fans with tickets in section 401 will be able to see the Cincinnati Reds bullpen below. Home runs are occasionally hit in the Kroger Bleachers, but it takes a lot of power for a baseball to get to the area. The queues for the Kroger Bleachers sections are letters A through Y. Personally, we do not recommend sitting above the H. Mezzanine line The mezzanine of great American Ball Park consists of sections 411 to 419 and is located just below the upper-level seats along the third baseline. Mezzanine seats are separated into two price points; the regular mezzanine seats and the seats of the external mezzanine. The mezzanine seats are an excellent seating option for fans who don't want to sit at the view level (the highest seats in Great American Ball Park), but still don't want to spend the money needed to sit at the lower level. The lines for most mezzanine sections are letters from A to Q. Mezzanine seats provide a beautiful view of the Ohio River and Newport, Kentucky in the distance. Display level Display level seats in Great American Ball Park consist of sections 509 through 537 and are separated into four different points of and seating areas, including view level, lower, lower, view level, view level and value view. The lines for most display-level sections are letters from A to R. View-level seats are the cheapest seats in Great American Ball Park. There are enough and affordable seating options at Great American Ball Park, however, that fans will be able to sit closer to the field without spending much more money. The Kroger Bleachers (see above) are an excellent alternative to view level seats if you are willing to compromise a bit in terms of comfort. Fioplics District The Fioplics District in Great American Ball Park consists of sections 408 to 410 and is one of the most unique living areas of the stadium. With a ticket to the Fioplics District, baseball fans will receive general admission to the seating area offering a free drink, standing beverage trails and a 1-0 number of individual seats. The Fioplics District also offers interactive games, luxury furnishings and beautiful views of the Cincinnati skyline from the view level on the third base side. Fioplics District also offers a fan bar called Fioplics Gigabar. Tickets for the Fioplics District cost $15 per ticket (2018). The Fioplics District is perfect for casual baseball fans who may be hanging out with a group of people and are looking for a fun atmosphere more than watching a three-hour baseball game. With the recent change in MLB safety regulations regarding the network around the infield, all 30 Major League Baseball teams have made the network wider and higher. The net at Great American Ball Park is in front of sections 1-5,

22-25 and 113-133. The Cincinnati Reds also offer a lot of fun things besides baseball outside of Great American Ball Park. There are several statues of legendary Cincinnati Reds players outside the main gate. The Cincinnati Red museum is attached to the stadium and is a perfect place to visit if you want to kill time before or after the game. Banks, a mixed-use neighborhood full of bars and restaurants, is also outside the Great American Ball Park along the Freedom Way. JUMP TO
