Bloxorz is a straightforward yet addictive game - move a block around a floating platform using the arrow keys, dropping it through the square hole to finish the known level. This is it! Later levels find you split your block into to separately, use spacebar to switch between Besides that, the rest is pretty personal explanation. 1) The aim of the game is to cause the block to fall into the square hole at the end of each stage. There are 33 stages to complete. 2) To move the block around the world, use the left, right, up and down arrow keys. Be careful not to fall off the edges. The level will restart if this occurs. 3) Bridges and contacts are located in many levels. The contacts are activated when pressed down the block. You don't have to rest on the switch to keep bridges closed. 4) There are two types of contacts: Heavy x-shaped ones and soft octagon ones... Soft contacts (octagons) are activated when part of your block taps it. Hard switches (x's) require a lot more pressure, so your block must stand on its end to activate them. 5) Once activated, each contact may behave differently. Some will swap the bridges from open to closed to open every time they are used. Some will create bridges permanently. Green or red colored squares flash to indicate which bridges are being operated. 6) Orange tiles are more fragile than the rest of the country. If your block stands up vertically on an orange tile, the tile will vie and your block will fall through. 7) Finally, there is a third type of switch shaped like this: () It teleports your block to different places, splitting it into two smaller blocks at the same time. These can be controlled individually and will join a normal block when both are places next to each other. 8) You can choose which small block to use at any time by pressing spacebar. Small blocks can still operate soft contacts, but they are not large enough to activate heavy contacts. In addition, small blocks cannot go through the exit hole - only a complete block can finish the scene. 9) Remember the password for each stage. It's in the upper right corner. You can skip straight back to each stage later by going to Load Stage in the main menu and entering 6-digit level code. Enjoy! Bloxorz combines problem solving with spatial reasoning and logic. Game Bloxorz Unblocked Games Online There are 33 stages in Bloxorz games, and each stage comes with its own unique user interface and design. You need to be smart enough to clear the level and stop from falling. Let's learn some tips and instruction to play this game. How to play bloxorz game arrow keys: all the four arrow keys, left, right, up and down can be used to move the block. If you fall off, you will have to play this level again from the start (just this level, not from level 1). Your goal is to move the block and put it into the Square Hole. There are 3 types of contacts in the game. You have to press the switch to do things. See the screenshot below to know the switch types. Change number 1 in Round Shape in known as Soft Switch. When you press this contact, the bridge closes so you can cross it. Switch number 2 is in X form and it is known as Heavy Switch. It also does the same job, but it requires more pressure. To press Soft Switch, just press with all angles. However, you must stand vertically to press the hard switch. Switch number 3 is in parentheses form. This switch divides the block into 2 pieces and teleports to another location. These split blocks can be moved and controlled separately, and then you can put them back together to join them and make a single block. Switches in the game act differently. A switch can open the bridge when you press once. If you press it again, the bridge closes. Sometimes, however, the switch can either open or close the bridge and will not return to the process. You will see red and green square tiles that will flash to indicate which one is being operated. When you see orange tiles, be careful. You can't move the block or even stand in vertical mode on Orange tiles. If you do, the block will drop and the level will be restarted. So always move horizontally on orange tiles. Always note the password for each level. It will help you to jump to any level directly. But there's no need to note down because we've got them for you.
