Blue Dappled Snakes are a species of snake in a sea of thieves. The Blue Snake Dappled can be caught inside a snake basket and sold to the Trade Alliance for Gold, Reputation (and Emissary Value when swimming as emissaries of a trading company). In addition, snakes can be killed for snake meat, which can then be cooked and eaten for health or sold to the Hunter's Call for Gold and Reputation. Mechanics edit edit source Snakes can be found roaming around on islands smart to their own business. Snakes have very little health and drop raw snake meat when killed. Any snakes that die from fire or explosives can leave instead burnt or cooked meat. Snakes are one of three animals that are valuable to the trading alliance trading company. Trading senior traders on outposts offer trading journeys that can send players in search of Snakes to be captured and delivered to a certain outpost by a certain time. Blue Dappled snakes may be one of the animals needed for capture in a trading contract. To capture the Snake, players must hold a basket of snakes in their hand and hold the primary interaction button next to them. Snake baskets can be picked up by any senior trader at outposts when snakes are requested in a trading contract. Snake baskets can also be randomly found on the islands. Snakes are naturally aggressive towards anything that is approaching, including pirates, animals and skeletons. Snakes inside the Snake Baskets will continue to act aggressively towards all approaching pirates, animals and skeletons, as well as be aggressive while being exercised. Snakes can be passive for a short period of time by playing their Shanty. Snakes inside Snake Baskets can still die from any source of damage meaning they must be safe from any source of harm. Snake baskets cannot be sold empty and are valuable only with the snake inside. Rewards (edited by editing source) Blue Snakes captured inside Snake Baskets can be sold for an unconscious reward or a bespoke reward when the snake trading contract is issued. In addition, the Snake Meat of the Killed Snake can be sold in The Hunter's Call. Snakes will drown if their Snake Trash stays in the water for too long. If the island does not have a specific type of Snake requested by the trade contract, players can reset the island's animal population by dying and enter the Cursed Ferry together. Captured animals can die from damage to sources such as fire, explosives, cannonball explosions, Snake Venom, Player weapons and lightning strikes. Sometimes they are requested by the Trade Alliance. When the pirate approaches the snake, he will start getting wet. If the pirate stays close to the snake, he attacks them with a poison spray. They can be caught in baskets. Snakes can be fascinated if a pirate plays music next to him, causing him to swing, stop producing rather than attack. Keep in mind that snakes can still attack the player while in their baskets, especially while being carried if the snake is being charmed. According to Anniversary Update, snakes can be killed for snake meat and sold on the hunter's call or eaten. It is highly recommended to keep snakes away from other creatures that have been captured, since the snake can kill them if nearby and agitated. It should also be noted that snakes can be used as traps by placing them next to loot on the ship to help fight hostile pirates who wish to inherit some prey. Types of Snakes edit source There are four varieties of Snake, each with its own price of gold. The snake costs 10 times the price of gold commissioned by the trade alliance of flights.
