Casio answer in terms of pi

With most calculators you share whatever your answer is by pi and tack on a pi when you write in your answer to your paper. For example, if you get a response of 2.3561944901 and want to put it in Pi, share this by 3.141592... and you get 0.75, so your answer would be 3/4 times pi (or  $3\pi/4$ )

Source(s): I'm a math teacher I'm not sure, but you can always just divide by pi and then just multiply in your answer. It is not possible, you can only do this with a graphics calculator.
