Plot changes should not be added until information has been published by the author. Entity 303 is a white figure with two blood-soaked eyes, according to an eyewitness. PC Edition: 1.7 and above/Xbox 360 Edition: TU12 and above The number 303 in crash logs, entity ID 303 appears in server logs, Herobrine-like stalking figure creation and destruction, teleportation, flying, invisibility Entity 303 (nickname 303) is a creepy pasta commonly referred to as the new Herobrine. After the pasta, a former Mojang employee was fired by Notch (the creator of Minecraft). Now he wants to take revenge on Mojang and Minecraft players alike. Entity 303 is supposed to be not only the former employee, but a whole team of hackers who travel with usernames like 303mojang.com303 and entity.303. If you have any files in your computer that are called anything with 303, then it could be 303 hackers. 303 can also hack into the players' worlds and corrupt them. 1/40 players are affected by 303 and his team. Herobrine actually came to warn us about 303 by showing what he would do. 303 plans to ruin Minecraft by the end of 2014 or 2015. Signs were seen in worlds hacked by 303 and said hjälp (help in Swedish). This means that Herobrine needs our help (or hjälp) to defeat 303. If he is not defeated soon Minecraft will be in his control. (Note: The first 303 sighting took place on December 10, 2013. The events of this encounter are not known) First Encounter The following is an email from Frankie, the first person to meet Entity 303, who was believed to be going to Speed, the first person to ever speak about 303. Frankie's email has since been deleted. Date Sent: December 11, 2013 Email: frankietheminer2001@yahoo.com Subject: Entity 303 Information Message: Hello, My name is Frankie. I'm a big fan of Minecraft, and I've been playing for about two years. Every day after school, me and my friend, John would always play on his private server. He was a bit of a noob at Minecraft, but since he was quite rich, he decided to buy a private server, so so could play multiplayer survival, along with my friends, Vincent and Brady. One day we were all in a group Skype chat and we were working on a huge survival city that we were in the process of building for at least 8 months. We were really proud of how it went. It was in a desert, so we aptly called our city Drybones. Suddenly, as we all went for supplies to finish the hotel we were working on, John noticed something strange in the chat. The only plugins we had on the server were Essentials, along with some plugins that Brady referred to as SocialSpy. Thanks to SocialSpy, someone named player.number:303 seems to have used the /stop command. Now John suffers from great fears. I've known him since preschool, and he was always a really insecure person, so when he saw that a so-called non-existent player was trying to shut down the server, he immediately thought it was a hacker. At first I thought it was just a mistake or something and that it was paranoid, but I remembered that this was a private server. I set up the plugins for him and the like, and I kept his server on the whitelist because he didn't know how. There was no way anyone could join except us. I checked the server panel and it showed that we were the only ones on the server. I got a bit confused. We all decided to ignore it and continue our survival. It's about 20 minutes in, and I'm walking with Vincent to the nearest forest to grab wood that wasn't very close at all. Suddenly we see a white figure in the distance of the desert. It seemed to be in the model of a kind of ghostly figure, with what I could hardly identify as red eyes. I quickly took a screenshot and ran after it. For some reason, Vincent's players just stood still. I suppose it's just delay, but he doesn't even speak on the Skype call. I check Skype and ask if it's still online. No answer. He's not even on the Skype call. Meanwhile, Brady ignores us and concentrates on the hotel, and John is freaking out. I hear the trembling of his voice. Anyway, I reopen Minecraft to see that the white figure disappeared, and Vincent separated from the server. I try to call him on my phone, but no answer. It goes directly to voicemail. I try to text it, but the texts do not deliver. John worries, to the point where it sounds like he's crying. Brady doesn't even listen to us, he's not even aware of the situation. I finally get his attention, and he finally realizes how peculiar this problem is. He tps to me and helps for the white figure. Well, John's hysterically crying, thinking that the hacker killed Vincent IRL or something. Suddenly my screen starts to glide. It's not normal for Minecraft to fail like this. It looked like it was or so. If that's not bad enough, the chat with the spamming object starts successfully accessed by player.number:303. I look at the Skype chat and notice that someone has connected to the call. It does not have a username, nor have we received a notification about someone who will be added to the call. John just watches it all happen. His voice trembles, and I hear him sniffing. Honestly, I'm going to get a little freaked out myself. Brady seemed to leave the call and disconnect from the server, possibly out of boredom. I try to reassure John, but he just repeats I CAN'T TAKE THIS. THAT IS TOO MUCH FOR ME. The anonymous Skype caller finally starts facecam. It's too dark to see anything. John gets overwhelmed and leaves the call and the server. I don't blame him, if he stayed longer, he would probably have a mental breakdown. It's just me and this anonymous player. I ask if there is anyone there. I hear a weak voice that says something like MAKE A WISH. It was weak, but it sounded like a voice changer. I decide to turn on Minecraft to see if the player is there. The chat spams with FILE OVERLOAD in red text, along with MAKE A WISH in gray text. Suddenly I am poisoned with a potion of blindness. Then I lose my ability to move. I can't even turn off my computer or leave Minecraft. This player then runs towards me. It seemed to have a ghostly skin on, with red eyes and a white parka. The chat then says one more thing. Make a wish and say goodbye to your friends. The Skype call falls and somehow leaves by itself, and the player runs towards me and hits me. For some reason, it makes the Oof noise that used to exist in beta and earlier. My computer then turns off. I try to turn it on, but to no avail. I try to use my phone, but the internet is off. I wait about three hours before turning on my computer. The desktop wallpaper has been changed to green encoding, probably hex. I then notice that literally everything except the recycling container has been deleted from my PC. I turn off my computer and use my laptop. I try to call John, but he doesn't answer. The same goes for Brady and Vincent. I decide to just go to bed and go to school the next day to talk to John and the others the next day. I go to school the next morning, and Brady is the only one who shows up. He says Vin and John's parents called his parents and asked if John or Vin were in his house. Apparently they disappeared. There was no trace of them, and Police came to their homes and checked if they had any clues as to where they were, but there were no results. I decide to leave school and go to John's house to see if he's there. I see his mother sitting on the steps and crying. I ask if she's okay, and she says that John seems to be..... committed suicide. Not in the house, most likely sniff to finish Life. She handed me a piece of paper that she had allegedly left on John's computer table. I have read the note carefully. I can't take that anymore. I can't sleep, I'm afraid he's watching me. I can't live like that when I know someone is behind me and I want me to die a slow, painful death. I'm sorry mom..... I love you. I started crying a little as I read the last words. I check the back of the paper, and written on the corner in very small text was this familiar sentence..... MAKE A WISH. After about 20 minutes of comforting John's mother, I go to check on Vincent. His father's car is in the driveway, but no one is at home. Not even his father. I sneak into the house, and what do I see in the bathroom? The words MAKE A WISH are written on the mirror in red. Then I realized that these were nams. That was a serious problem. Not just any hacker, but someone who psychologically torments his victims and causes them to disappear. When you get this email, speed, and if you ever come across 303 again, I want you to quickly shut out your Minecraft and shut down your computer. I don't want you to end up like Vincent or John. Please be careful..... If I receive further information, I will contact you as soon as possible. Good luck. Entity 303 Second Encounter 12/13/13 I played with some friends on XBOX 360, played Minecraft and we were in creative mode to build a big city. The world was also in peaceful mode. We all had a good time until someone's house started to burn. Now, of course, we had all heard of mourners, but in reality we blamed everyone. In fact, another house to burn on. We blamed the host by using his host privileges. But we were WRONG. We have all decided to investigate what was really going on. We all went to a house together (including the host) just to see the most horrible thing happen. We looked through the windows to see TNT going off somewhere in the distance. We all started to get scared, and we would get even more scared. We then started looking around houses and most of them were on fire. There was nothing to set these houses on fire, and the fire spread, TNT said. I tried to believe the host that TNT and Fire weren't working. Once again crap began to happen when we were all together, including the host. No one was missing in the house. I counted heads and we were all together. But it happened and we couldn't explain it. To my surprise, we started to find signs and TNT started again. It was too much. I connected a cable to my Xbox and to my computer. I opened a program that was used to read the source codes that were going on. To my surprise, the source codes described this entity as 303. My source codes soon got out of control. Strange 303 entity codes were displayed and I couldn't You. My computer was overwhelmed with it! I was trying to figure out who caused it, but I just couldn't. Only 303 did this and that, nothing else. Nothing. But not everything was caused by him. The host to troll us to scare us too, it wouldn't be a secret for long. The source codes told me everything that happened, what the players did, and so did I. But then the source codes were ready. They were certainly DONE for it. An image of the 303 source codes. No matter how hard I tried, I couldn't figure out what was happening. But the source codes soon spelled out the words Make a Wish. I thought it was the host, but then again I started blaming everyone. As you can see in the source codes, I highlighted everything that entity 303 has done. Block 1241 is TNT, Article 3213 is Flint and Steel, Block 4 is wood. And also in the RAR of the world, I raised MAKEAWISH as I said earlier. This list went on and on and broke off my computer completely. But one question remains: is this Herobrine? The two white figures. (One is probably entity 303). Soon the host had to go to sleep and left the world. However, the source codes still worked, no idea why, and the world was out. Unit 303 still controlled the world. I decided to quit my program and see if anyone had seen this mysterious entity in the Minecraft forums. There were a few people. Some of them sent me pictures they took, and only one PC player took a photo because he had seen it. He said he was playing with his friend on a private Homachi server. As you can see, they have experienced it. Yes, it has a texture pack, but he sent me the pack and there is no mob or block with a white skin. Soon a mysterious profile in the forums started chatting with me. He said only a few words and then left the chat. Notch will think you're crazy when he sees that, by the way. YOUR NEXT. I rushed and the full email conversation, on his profile. But page 404'd. Soon I received an inbox message from him and clicked reply. I asked him where Herobrine should only get a scary answer back. I got this message: I replaced him. He died. He is no longer with us, nor anyone else. I used another website to reply to him for protection. In the forums, my account suddenly logged out. I tried to log in again just so that the forums would tell me: Your account has been deleted for the following reason: Stop. I couldn't believe it! I made another report and stopped researching and went to sleep. Conclusion There were many more sightings after The first person to see 303 has disappeared from the Internet. He has not been heard from since 10 December 2013. The last meeting (as of July 7, 2014) was when the second person (Youtube: Thesped179) was Skype SMS with a friend on July 7, 2014. In the middle of the 303 team hacked his computer. If you see things in your Minecraft worlds like birch wood in oaks, fire in the sky, random cobblestones where it shouldn't be, upturned crosses, characters in the distance or other suspicious advancements, Entity 303 could hack your Minecraft. If you think you've been hacked, look at your entire computer and delete files with 303 in it. Remember that many more than 1/40 people are affected by 303. There are some people who pretend to be entity 303. If you see someone on Minecraft with the username Entity 303, then just ignore the person. Be careful and stay safe. If you see something strange in your worlds, post a comment that shows the picture. UPDATE (December 13, 2013) Entity 303 said that we need to train 5 weeks in time because the war will be in 5 weeks. Get ready guys. He also said to look out your window at night because he said you'll see him eating children and spitting out their bones. Children disappear and the last thing they did was Minecraft. In addition, the team at Thesped179 discovered the sulfur of immunity. It is an IP address that protects you from 303. It is not currently known how it works. If you are not yet affected by 303, it will happen in 5 weeks. TEAMS Entity 303 cannot be defeated by battles alone. So some people created teams. Team leaders recruit members over the Internet to fight Entity 303. The speed179 team is the first. The speed team has a special server called Sulfur of Immunity. One thing that protects you from 303. 303.
