In this &B&B; B, if you get it, you don't get it out – at least not without appeal. While some people are always looking for somewhere luxurious to stay on vacation, others prefer to market something a little strange, and this bed and breakfast is certainly the most unique stay to be found in the US. According to the Los Angeles Times, the Jail Hill Inn in Galena, Illinois - about a three-hour drive from Chicago - is the best bed and breakfast in the United States and the second best in the world, based on tripadvisor reviews. The six-room inn is actually a renovated old county jail. And while there are other prison-themed hotels in the world like Sook Station in Bangkok, where guests get their own mugshots and sleep in black and white pajamas, Jail Hill Inn does have its themes and kitsch. The building itself is 140 years old and no longer functions as a prison in 1977, according to the Los Angeles Times. In fact, very few of the old cells remain. According to the Chicago Tribune, small details like old inmates' names engraved on the window frames are just one of the few historical gems you'll find hidden in the luxury B&B; B. By the way, it looks like a rather plush stay. Each room has a king-sized bed, high-quality bedding, a fireplace, a wet bar and a Bluetooth speaker system. Guests can enjoy a three-course breakfast in the morning and a wine and cheese reception in the morning as soon as they arrive. We're sure the previous inmates didn't spoil him when they stayed here. It's kind of side by side, going to a place no one wanted to be, being a place everyone wants to be, innkeeper Matthew Carroll told the Los Angeles Times. Carroll bought the place in 2015. Prices start at $295 a midweek stay and can go up to about $445 during the busy season. For more information, visit the Jail Hill Inn website. Website.
