It is narred in first-person perspective by Phèdre nó Delaunay, and continues where the first novel was discontinued. Editor's Summary[edit | edit source] After the hard-on-the-heels dart kushiela, Jacqueline Carey's spectacular debut novel, comes Kushiel's Chosen, a shiny and riveting historical fantasy. The land of Terre d'Ange is a place of unparalleled beauty and grace. It is said that the angels found the earth and saw that it was good, and the race that arose from the network of angels and men lives on one simple principle: Love like you. Phèdre nó Delaunay is a young woman who was born with a scarlet mote in her left eye and sold in indentured easements as a child. Her bond was purchased by Anafiel Delaunay, a nobleman with a very special mission - and the first to recognize her for who and what she is: one pricked by Dart Kushiela, chosen forever to experience pain and pleasure as one. Phèdre trained in court art and cot talents, but above all the ability to observe, remember and analyze. After stumbled upon a conspiracy that threatened the very foundations of her homeland, she gave up almost everything she kept too expensive to save her. She survived and lived to tell her story, and if they embellished the story with the fabric of mythical splendor, they were not far from the mark. seriously weigh on Phèdre's forehead, and they are not yet done with their charge—while the young queen who sits on the throne is well loved by people, there are those who believe that other heads should wear the crown. And those who have escaped the wrath of the mighty are not yet with their plans of power and vengeance. To protect and serve, Phèdre will once again leave his beloved homeland. From the sun-drenched villa of La Serenissima to the wilds of old Hellas, from a prison designed to drive mad gods to an island of unchanging joy, Phèdre meets old friends and new enemies and discovers a conspiracy so terrifying that the earth trembling, overrun by one person from whom he
