So, here's some good news: you can now send someone in self-isolation a chocolate Easter egg with a vibrator inside. Put together by the sex toy website, Ricky.com, which claims the unusual treat is a world first, the egg is wrapped in silver (to remind you to wrap up in real life, perhaps?) and comes in a cardboard package with a silk bow on top. As for the contents of the Easter Egg Surprise, you can choose from five different sex toys including a bullet, a couple's toy, a clitoral stimulator in the shape of a heart, a 'man wand' (penis tube of sorts) and a rose gold mini massager. All of the products are rechargeable and you get a charging cable, too. We know what you're thinking: what about the egg? Yes, it is made from the real stuff (275g of 'premium Swiss milk chocolate') and yes, you can eat it. The sex toy egg costs £45 plus delivery and is a limited edition product, with only 200 up for grabs. We got our hands on one of the elusive eggs. The novelty is a nice touch, and the chocolate was delicious. However, unfortunately the pieces of the egg weren't fused together, so it just sort of fell open after we unwrapped it – which partially ruined the 'surprise' element as we didn't get to crack it open ourselves. But it's still a chocolate Easter egg with a vibrator inside, so no complaints here. Do you have a story you want to share? Get in touch by emailing MetroLifestyleTeam@Metro.co.uk.
