Like many Meat American calendars, the Tzolk calendar, or Holy Circle, operates on a 260-day cycle. One theory of the significance of the length of its cycle is that 260 days correlate with pregnancy [Source: Maya Mystery School]. Another suggests that the calendar represents the duration of maize cultivation. However, it is more likely to be based on Mayan tributes to numbers 13 and 20. In the Gregorian calendar we have seven days of the week and, depending on the month, anywhere from 28 to 31 days. Tzolk'in calendar consists of a set of 20 names, symbolized by images called glyphs, and 13 digits called tones. The days are numbered from one to 13, and the names are also given in sequence. Advertising The beginning of the Tzolk'in calendar begins with the first name of the day, Imix', and number one. The days last sequentially, with the second day being a combination of Ik' and number two; the names of the days and numbers shall be combined sequentially until all 13 tonnes are used. Once the calendar reaches day 13, marked with B'en and the number 13, the numbers start again with one, but the names of the days move forward with the 14th glyph, Ix. By rotating in this way, the two sets form 260 unique combinations of name per day and number. For example, after you reach the end of the circle of names of the day with 7 Ajaw, the names of the day start again in Imix, and the figures continue: 8 Imix', 9 Ik', 10 Ak'b'al and so on. This content is not compatible on this device. Consider two 13-digit speeds, separated around a smaller circular gear that fits into the larger gears of the day's names indicated in hieroglyphs. If you lock these gears together at number one and the name of the day Imix', turn the gears until you get back to one and Imix', you'll get 260 unique days. These gears rotate until the last combination clicks into place at 13 Ajaw, marking the end of the year. It is easy to see the meaning that the Mayan put in the Calendar of Tzolk. For example, they believed that the date of birth determines the characteristics you will show in your personality—as some people believe your astrological sign does today. Sacred men also schedule certain events throughout the year based on Tzolk'in calendar. At the beginning of each winal (a period of 20 days), the shaman will count forward to determine when religious and ceremonial events will occur. He then selects the dates that will be most prosperous or happiest for the community. Despite its myriad features, Tzolk'in's calendar still couldn't measure a sunny year, the time it takes the sun to make a full cycle. Therefore, the Mayan needed a more accurate calendar to monitor the length of time we consider to be a whole year.
