Nor are they exempt from racial attacks, according to a recent interview that newsen media outlets run with their father, popular actor Song Il Kook. According to reports, Song's family has been based in France since a year ago, as Song's wife, who works as a judge, was posted there for a study visit. They have since returned home. During the interview, Song shared about their time abroad -- which has not been a bed of roses because families face examples of racial discrimination. Throwback when three doubles is a baby, Photo: Instagram /songilkook re-incew the time when three times played innocently in the playground when someone snewed a bottle full of urine on them. We meet bad guys -- from those who curse us solely for being Asian to those who sn box a bottle towards their current children at the playground, he was quoted as saying. [embed] /embed] Understandable, Song says he has never been so angry and uses every word of curse that (he) knows to fight those who harm his children. However, their time in a foreign country is not all bad, because Song believes it is education for his children to live in an environment where no one knows them. [embed] /embed] Based on a report in 2015, her three-year-old children grabbed a support offer of $4.26 million alone. According to the same article, three times this song grew up quickly and had started their first year in primary school. They adapted well, song convincing fans. They were born the same day from the same stomach, but were amazing how different their personalities were. I wonder what is the best way to take care of each level of their different energy and personalities. [embed] /embed] They are also assigned to three different houserooms, so it's three times the job (at school) too, keep Song. For those who missed three times, Dad's song provided regular updates of his children on his Instagram page. joeylee@asiaone.com joeylee@asiaone.com
