This is a great game to play because it is very educational for you and the child. It is based on the popular movie, the graduate where players have to choose someone from the opposite sex for the rest of their lives. Every day you will receive a student who graduated from the college. Every person in your life will have different emotions. They will be able to express these feelings in different ways which are all unique. The moment you chose to play this game, you'll have to choose which one of your friends will take as your life partner. You'll have to think about every person you choose in these moments: choose your story game. Their choice will be very different from the first person to the person you are choosing. The other person in your life may feel it a different way than you. In the moments: select your story game, you'll have to choose between two students, John Doe and Rosemary who are in a relationship when the graduate enters their lives. During the lifetime, they both had a strong connection. Rosemary could not return to school to continue his studies while John Doe went back to school. When graduating from college, Rosemary moved to New York and became a teacher. He met John Doe during that time. Now John Doe has not gotten a job and then moved to Chicago, then Rosemary would be able to continue his education. However, since John Doe dispensed with the company he worked for, he will now have to move to Chicago and get a job. Rosemary doesn't like the thought alone when he's a teacher, so he chooses to get back to school. He also takes John as his life partner, which means he will become his life partner for the rest of his life. Now, if John Doe had chosen not to return to school but instead of having a better job, Rosemary could have stayed with him and became his life partner. Although, this may not be the best thing for him and he feels he has a good job. Therefore, it takes the decision to move to Chicago and get a better job. At times: select your story game, you will have to decide whether he should marry him or whether he should marry him. In this case, he's going to marry Rosemary. but he also desires to marry him. This means that he has to marry him before thirty years, then it means the beginning of his married life. She has to marry and have children as well. This game has plenty of decisions, so make it very educational for you. The next time frame: select your story game and then you will have to choose between John and Rosemary. The game will end after the time frame, but then a new relationship can happen. You'll have to choose between them again and this time it will be more amantic. The Last Frame: choose your toy story and then you'll have to choose between two brides: John and Rosemary or John and Dave. And they will have a romantic relationship, leading to love and life with a child. Click here for more Premium Apps and Games New Premium Pro games for free games free download the last time of the game is when the time frame ends. When the time frame ends, you'll see what will happen, for example, the graduate moves back to college, Rosemary back to work and John goes to work. Rosemary starts to have another family and the game ends with an exciting end. This is a very interesting game and you don't need any other motivation in order to play play this game.
