They were founded in 1974 in the Bronx by Stony Browder, Jr. (born 1949), his brother August Darnell (as Thomas Browder, 1951), singer Cory Daye (born 1952), Andy Hernandez (born 1950) and Mickey Sevilla (b. 1953). The concept of the group was the re-founding of a 30s dance band, with funny lyrics and a disco beat. All this was evident on their debut album Dr. Buzzard's Original Savannah Band, released in 1976. It produced the dancefloor hit Cherchez la Femme and became gold. Less successful was the follow-up album Dr. Buzzard's original Savannah band Meets King Pennett. After the release of a third album, James Monroe HS Presents Dr. Buzzard's original Savannah Band Goes to Washington, the group fragmented, with Darnell and Hernandez going to form Kid Creole & the Coconuts. Browder reorganized and released a Dr. Buzzard's Savannah Band (dropping the original) album called Calling All Beatniks! 1984.
