Defense mechanisms worksheet answers

To continue enjoying our site, we ask you to confirm your identity as a human being. Thank you very much for your cooperation. This worksheet asks students to correctly identify which of the eight defense mechanisms best describes each scenario. It is meant to be used as a practice for students to help them review and apply Freudian defense mechanisms. The defense mechanisms included are rationalization, reaction formation, repression, regression, displacement, sublimation, denial, and projection. Here are some sample issues from the worksheet: 1. Elizabeth was sexually abused by her uncle when she was three years old. Now, twenty years later, when Elizabeth is asked if she has been abused, she replies no, and believes her answer is true. 2. Zach feels constantly aggressive throughout the day and struggles to keep his emotions in check. His father suggests joining the football team so he can face other players. 3. Halie asks Cayce for help to move into her new apartment. When Cayce refuses, Halie begins to stomp on her foot and scream like a small child. 4. Robert has a difficult day at school where he is reprimanded by his teacher for not doing his homework. When he comes home, he walks past his brother's room and yells: Rejected your stupid and annoying music! 5. Every time Chloe receives a B in an exam, she goes to Gold's Gym and runs on the treadmill for an hour to put out her anger. The answer key is included.
