Star of saugatuck sunset cruise

Star Clipper ships are traditional, tall sailing ships - think pirates of the Pirates of the Caribbean masts style. But compared to most cruise ships, these are small and intimate trips with no more than 227 passengers on board. The décor is elegant and nautical, and most cabins overlook the illuminati. Keep in mind that these are real sailing ships. The engine is used only to speed up or when time demands it. The bridge is open to passengers who want to talk to the captain. Where do the star videos come from? Star Clipper cruises depart from ports around the world, though they don't offer any itineraries that start in the U.S. or Canada. Here it begins: Amsterdam, Athens, Bali Denpasar, Barbados, Barcelona, Copenhagen, Dover, Dubai, Dubrovnik, Fort Lauderdale, Guam, Ho Chi Minh, Hong Kong, Keelung, Lima, Lisbon, London, Los Angeles, Mahe Island, Miami, Mumbai, New Orleans, New York, Palma de Mallorca, Papeete, Caldera, Quebec, Rome, San Diego, San Juan, Singapore, Stockholm, Sydney, Tokyo, Venice, YokohamaStar Clipper destinations , Star Clipper tends to favor the warm weather If you are thirsty after sunny skies and salty seas, one of these destinations you may like: Africa, Asia, Caribbean, Eastern Mediterranean, Europe, Hawaii, Indian Ocean, Mediterranean, Mexico, Middle East, Northern Europe, Pacific, South Pacific, Transatlantic, Western Europe. As a millennial, if there is a blue sky or a significant historical monument nearby or - the holy grail - graffiti wall, my hands automatically levitate as if I were a conductor orchestra at the Metropolitan Opera. Except I'm not an orchestra and I'm not close to a concert hall. I'm on the street in broad daylight. Instead of using Pal, there's an iPhone in my right hand. My face is on the screen, staring at me. I cut my head to the side, lower my chin, lift my chin again and lift it off until my nose looks weak. I put a smile on my face like I'm about to put a royal flush in the World Series of Poker, and when it feels cute and casual, but doesn't try too hard, I touch the white circle once, twice, 50 times. Whatever it takes to get The Shot.I post often and enthusiastically on Instagram. So when Royal Caribbean invited me on a press trip - a 7-night Mediterranean cruise through Spain, France and Italy - you'd better believe I said yes. I knew the pictures were going to be stellar. I didn't want to drag her across the Atlantic to be my Instagram mom. I invited my mother to be mine plus one aboard the Symphony of the Seas, which at 3,118 feet long is the largest ship in the world. My great-grandfather drove a much smaller boat from Cosenza, Italy, to Ellis Island in 1901. He married another Italian in 1907, and they had seven children, including my grandmother, who had never returned to Italy before he died of cancer in 1983. My mother was only 27 at the time and turned 63 in September. This trip will be her first time on Italian soil. So I didn't think of to take her across the Atlantic to be my Instagram mom. Instead, I wanted to turn it on. After all, I thought maybe Instagram could take advantage of a zero smaller size and another 60-something with a killer and a mother doctor had been packing for months, so I knew it was ready. But I still had homework to do: I emailed a former colleague, Lindsay Sylberman, who has built an Instagram community with more than 134,000 people who like to follow their travels around the world. She sent me a long list of tips to get the best photos of my photographic mother. But first, the first day of shooting alone. Mom and I boarded the ship from Barcelona, and as the beach flames we are, we headed straight for the pool. I put my mother on the edge of the pool and asked her to stare into the distance. 59 of his followers. Not bad, but I knew we could do better. Meanwhile, we relaxed and watched other families settle in our Mediterranean paradise. But since we are two adults, we were delighted to learn about the solarium, for adults, full of pools, jacuzzi, well-stocked bar and amazing view from the front of the ship. PHOTO TIP: Hold your palm and move until you enter from the shadows. That's where you have to stand for the best natural lighting. On day two, we landed in Palma de Mallorca and took a ride to La Granja de Esplores, the site of a stunning 17th-century mansion surrounded by lush gardens. Here I tested one of Lindsay's tips for the lighting she took from Hold your palm in front of your face; If there's a dark shadow on it, that's not the direction you should be shooting. Move your palm around until it hits a place where it looks bright and un hindered by shadows ... this is where your object should be. Genius. I have a great chance for my mother, with great laugh, in front of the mansion. To edit it, I tried Google's Snapseed app, which also recommended Google. It's quite intuitive and easy to use, she says. You can make a big difference only by adjusting brightness, contrast and atmosphere. I layered the Glam Glow filter, and in retrospect I feel like I made it too filter-y, but I still think mom looks pretty good (and happy to be in Spain!). 54 likes. Not too bad! PHOTO TIP: Standing at your fingertips will make you look at least 3 inches taller and thinner. On the fifth day we were in Rome, the homeland. Lindsay had great tips for posing, sharing something she believes is the secret every Instagram and blogger won't tell you: Standing on your toes will make you look at least 3 inches taller and thinner, she says. Mom spoiled me in trying a few poses, but in the end I liked one of her best: My followers agreed, giving him 80 likes. So far, our favorite experience has been to make pizza in Naples. We took a quick photo in bright orange aprons as soon as our dough was poured to perfection in 400 degrees and I like that we both have these huge changes on our faces. It didn't take you to practice or edit you. We're both having a good time together, and I think that's what a family vacation should be. And if you happen to post a photo that gets 100 likes, then so be it! You should get on seaseat's Symphony in Wonderland, an immersive meal based on Alice in Wonderland. The menu is based on six elements: wind, ice, fire, water, land and dreams. SEE the original production of the ship Flight, exploring the history of air travel. Like the New Yorker, I set up a pretty high bar for musicals and my mind was blown away. I even cried! RELAX in the solarium while the children are zippered lining, go down massive slides, rock climbing, or play laser tag. There is also an aqua park and a day center for the young.
