The cards for the elementary learning coaches have the correct pitches, but the descriptions are incorrect. You listed Sarah Tanner as being in Azshara instead of Searing Gorge.You listed Brunn Winterhead as being in Azshara instead of Arathi Highlands. Great guide. About the leveling: do Light Leather up to 30 and then the armor sets will be more efficient. It takes me back. Skin/LW were my chief's professions (he was/is a hunter), and I found it very helpful. If you're in no hurry to level up, I always found that staying in the lower-level zones once your quest is complete and grinding gangs for learning was a great way to keep your LW skill aligned with your character's level. I was often able to create gear that I was too low level to wear; I was looking forward to reaching the right level so I could carry it, like the Sticky Scorpion Set. When my hunter switched from learning to post, I had a full email ready for me! Great guide, thanks for the effort. You should correct Classic Alchemy Fast Leveling Guide The second paragraph is marked Classic Alchemy Fast Leveling Guide but this is LEATHERWORK Hey Quissy! Thanks for the guide. Can you please get some of the unique rewards that each type of learning job gives the player if they choose that path? Some teasers! Hi. Does Dark Leather Belt actually exist in Classic, or is it just an item found in the files? Telonis is at 64.4, 21.5 in Darnassus, not the place listed in this guide. +1 To Aysome:Hi. Does Dark Leather Belt actually exist in Classic, or is it just an item found in the files? Be warned! Dark Leather Belt does not exist in 1.12, the cutoff for the Classic re-release. (Added in patch 1.13.0.28211) IT DOESN'T EXIST IN THE 2019 RE-RELEASE. I WASTED SO MUCH LEARNING THAT I MADE AN ACCOUNT TO WARN PEOPLE. ARGH! the information for horde NPC Una as the expert LW coach is incorrect in the current Classic WoW version. Una is artisanal coach not expert. the same for the artisan coach listed as expert for horde, it tells you to go to the master coach not artisanal. If I'm alliance how can I teach Barbaric Shoulders and Dusky Bracers. They just seem to be taught by Una being in Thunder Buff. Swift Boots actually has a one hour cooling, not 15 minutes, there's an upgrade to the boots or pattern I'm unaware of. Nice guide tho you should prob add the cost of the Wild Leather Vest & Wild Leather Helmet craft to the total amount of leather and Wildvine needed for the tribal ladder I'm just working luck that I just happened to have everything on me otherwise there would have been a lot of additional travel. You can do 190-210 (and maybe even beyond, it turns yellow at 210 and green at 220) by doing Guardian Gloves (4x Heavy Ladder, 1x Cure Heavy Duty Hideaway, 1x Silken Thread), which is currently 3 to 4 times cheaper than the Dusky Bracers suggested in the guide. What do you do with all your Medium Learning? I never had a follow-up quest for Tribal LW in Darn? What am I doing wrong? I never had a follow-up quest for Tribal LW in Darn? What am I doing wrong? Is it possible to switch specialization? For example, from elementary lw to stem or vice versa? Looked everywhere and didn't manage to find an answer. For those stuck at the end: Once you finish the quest where you pass the letter to the LW in Darnassus, the final quest isn't automatically given to you. I was confused here too. It turns out you just have to physically go to your final NPC (for me it was Caryssa Moonhunter because I'm ally) and you can take the final quest off her and then turn it in there too. Once you do that, you'll officially be a Tribal LW. The proposed leveling pathway is icy at best. I'm already wasting time and gold running from the AH to the coach to make up for lapses in the guide. For example, at the leather fine leather belt at 115 it was already yellow, and went green at 125. So the amount needed in the directory is incorrect. Regarding the Proposed leveling path, only to 150 this is a poor guide. I would recommend finding another guide for this purpose, do several key errors with a fact-check. for example, the way tribe is taught is not correct. This guide says to make Fine Leather Belts to get from 125 to 135. It can't be correct. Fine leather belts go green at 125, but is a perfectly fine way to equal (say) 100 to 125. Yes, I understand that Fine Leather Belts are needed to make Dark Leather Belts, and that Dark Leather Belts require in toto make less material than any other orange recipe at skill 135. BUT, why not make the Fine Leather Belts sooner and get better skill-ups to do it? The LWorking coach exists above Wailing Caverns (outside cave) and he can learn both alliance and horde. Blimo Gadgetspring is in Azshara, not Ashenvale. Blimo Gadgetspring is in Azshara, not Ashenvale. Nice guide, but I've seen several errors. Maybe you had to proofread or before posting. For example, Pattern: Frostsaber Boots - Sold by Qia in Un'Goro Crater, skill level 275. Qia is in Everlook not Un'goro. Also, Pattern: Chimeric Gloves - Sold by Blimo Gadgetspring in Ashenvale, skill level 265. He's in Azshara. Created an account just to make a suggestion for this guide. Going from ~285 to 300 is much easier with Runic Leather Bracers: Runic Leather Bracers . This recipe is red until 295, then yellow to 300.The recipe for Wicked Leather Headband is only a world drop, and the drop rate is incredibly low (much lower than the ~2% quoted on this site: I killed nearly 200 Jadedfire Satyrs with no drop). On the other hand, Runic Leather Bracers has a much higher drop rate. On my server the recipe was 65 silver and there were three available the only time I looked. You don't get Handstiched Leather Cloak until 60, but Handstiched Leather Boots takes the same carpets. Difference is, Boots is yellow at 40 :( The quest Tribal Learning is certainly not given to you by the NPC in the guide. (TB NPC for Horde and Darnassus NPC for Alliance). Those instructions in the guide are incorrect. You simply have to go find the Tribal Leatherwork NPCs (STV and 1000 needles) for this quest. The leveling path in this guide may be the fastest, but it is not the cheapest. Until recently, the craft cost of these items was cheaper than their vendor costs. That is, I could buy the carpets on the AH and then sell the items to vendor for a profit. If you plan on just vendor items, it's best to deal with while leveling: There are some gaps, but if you're crafting even while things are green (and why not if you're able to sell to seller for a profit?), you can equal learning jobs very cheaply. Prices of low level learning are starting to rise, so make sure you start leveling as soon as you can. Nice guide, but a little inaccurate. As for Dragonscale - Worn scales also fall off the regular dragon dragon in the marshland outside the temple in Swamp of Sadness. No need to actually go into the dungeon - but watch out for the big ass dragonRegarding Elemental - no, you've done well. As for Tribe – It only takes as long as the other specialties, it's merely coincidence that the quest trader is asking for Wild Leather items. (see below) Regarding Wild Leather - Jangdor Swiftstrider is the Master Learning Coach. This chain is unrelated to the Tribal Specialty and can be completed by a default learning smith before choosing a specialty. This makes your guide unclear who the coach for Tribe so you have to give Wild Leather its own own above all the specialty sections. For those who haven't figured it out, Tribal coach Se'Jib is in Strangelthorn Vale.The new flow should be: Apprentice &gt; Journeyman &gt; Expert &gt; Artisan &gt; Master (including Wild Leather chain) &gt; Choose your Specialty Final, all three specialty coaches for Horde are located in East Kingdom zones — how messy is it Dragonscale is in Arathi, Elemental is in Badland, Tribe is in Strangelthorn Vale. Meanwhile, two Alliance coaches are in Kalimdor - Azshara and Feralas, while the last is in Searing Gorge. Nice guide, but a little inaccurate. As for Dragonscale - Worn scales also fall off the regular dragon dragon in the marshland outside the temple in Swamp of Sadness. No need to actually go into the dungeon - but watch out for the big ass dragon. As for Tribe – It only takes as long as the other specialties, it's merely coincidence that the quest er is also the last hand in for the Wild Learning Chain. (see below) Regarding Wild Leather – It's unrelated to Tribe, and can be completed by a default learning smith before choosing a specialty. Changing your specialty is wrong in this guide.you need a skill of 225, as you can change it. For 200 to 220 (maybe even all the way to 230), I'd suggest making thick armor set instead. It's significantly cheaper and actually useful for you and your friends. Where is the list of total materials? I didn't see the Green Dragon Scale breastplate. I have Tribal Learning Specialty. I went back to Un-Goro an h aif-dozen times and Nergal never seems to have the Pattern for Devil's Saurus Gauntlets. Is it normal or am I doing something wrong? The wild leather boots and legs guests are given by Jangdor after completing the wild leather shoulder, jacket, and helmet guests. Not completed in any order as the directory says. Thanks for the guide. If you're Alliance, I'd recommend doing Hillman's Cloak instead of Heavy Armor Kit. Hillman's Cloak is necessary for a quest in Hillsbrad Foothills and does fetch gold on the AH. Account.
