

☐

I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

Continue

Halle berry hairstyles images

Hairstyles are an important part of looking fashion. Learn about different hairstyles and get hairstyle tips. Advertising Ad Transition to main contentFrom beauty queen to Bond Girl, Berry's ability to transform her look is almost as impressive as her Hollywood career. Here's a look back at some of her most beautiful moments. August 14, 2016 Berry's dark lips and plum eyes created a trendy look that screamed 1980s. Her wavy pixie was the beginning of a long line of fashion short cuts. Berry's brown lipstick and frosty eyes highlight a popular make-up look in the 90s. Bond Girl debuted pink-brown lip gloss at an event for Die Another Day. Her eyebrows were more manicured than her usual natural look. Berry went with a nude lip and shiny eyes to complement her lavender dress. Her hair was on a dirty, curly bun. Berry looked fresh and beautiful at the Cannes Film Festival showing off her natural curls. She also wore her signature nude lips and full lashes. The star's elegant bob was a departure from her pixie cuts, but no less elegant. We love her rosy cheeks and the way her skin glowed. Berry debuted long locks and full sideswept bangs for the premiere of Things We Lost in The Fire. The pale pink lip gloss and smoky black eyeliner created a trendy look. The actress's dress matching green eyeshadow made her eyes glow. Her bare lips kept all the focus on her eyes. Her smoky eyes and large curls created an eye-catching look for a makeup presentation. Berry is known for her elegant short haircuts, and the one at the Emmys was no different. We love how her pink lips subtly fit her lavender dress. The actress's wavy lob with wispy bangs looked gorgeous against her smoky eyes and pale-pink lips. KeywordsHalli Berrybeauty evolutionary carpet beauty When I met Halle Berry in a New York hotel, two things immediately happened to me: 1) She has the best skin I've ever seen in real life. 2) I literally won't be able to walk in her shoes-over-the-knee lace-up boots with pin-thin, sky-high heels. I just bought them yesterday, he said as we sat down, extending a leg to admire them. Berry, whose third fragrance, Reveal, (a sexy blend of mimosa flower, juicy peach, and wooded calf) hits stores in February, says she really prefers stilettos to flats: I'm more comfortable in heels. I think it's because I have a high step. Here's what else she revealed about herself during a game of this-or-that. Facial or massage? Massage-because I can't do it myself. I'm going deep tissue. I don't want to sleep. Cupcake or fruit cup? Fruit cup. I'm diabetic. Drama or comedy? Comedy to watch, for sure. And I'm really starring in a soon [Shoe Addicts Anonymous]. My friends know I'm funny! Shoes or bags? Shoes. I've got hundreds. I keep them on display from boxes otherwise I'd forget I had them. iPad or pencil and paper? I'd love to. Very, say pencil and paper, but the iPad is so convenient. I'm still writing letters, though. Cardio or strength-training? Cardio. It feels like he's doing more. Diet or indulge? Indulge. You can only keep a diet for so long. RELATED LINKS:Daily Beauty Reporter: Exclusive: Natalie Portman Talks Beauty (And She's the New Face of Miss Dior Chérie) Daily Beauty Reporter: Allure Exclusive: Michelle Williams's Fresh-Faced Makeup at the Golden GlobesDaily Beauty Reporter: Exclusive Celebrity Beauty: Leighton Meester's Routine Is Just Me Or Are There More Challenges on Instagram Than You Can Keep Up With Now? That doesn't mean I'm not down for them though; many have been organized to raise money for great purposes, or simply to distract us and bring some fun into our lives. The latter is a fun fashion that I've been lolling over during my Instagram scrolls; but what is the pillow challenge and how can you give it a go? If you've already run your 5k on the NHS, given your teapot's best effort, and whipped up a Dalgona coffee then it's time to get involved with this new challenge. Any way it's going to work. TBH, the pillow challenge is pretty damn simple, and it's probably the easiest to get involved with on social media today. It involves simply taking a pillow out of your bedroom, and placing it on yourself with a belt to make it look like you're wearing it. The hilarious, slightly wacky, idea started among fashion bloggers, who surprisingly managed to pull together a pillow outfit and still look stylish (oh, be that cool...). And I predict that the challenge will be wiping through celebs-ville in no time, especially as Halle Berry has just become one of the first high-profile A-listers to share her own pillow pic. The star posted a picture of her rocking a black pillowcase yesterday, alongside the caption, 'You already know you couldn't keep me from #PillowChallenge,' ended with a laughing emoji. Although I'm hardly surprised, I kind of can't believe how important Berry looks in her creative set; looks literally like a Friday night LBD, complete with stiletto heels and a stylish black hat. The hashtag #PillowChallenge now has over 200,000 posts, and it's not just fashion bloggers involved. Whether you want to give it a go and have your pillow outfit look stylish or downright hilarious, this is a fun Insta challenge that will brighten up your fans' locking days. In other words: give it a go! Not to sound like an alarmist, but when Halle Berry reveals all sorts of his egg for skincare and wellness routine, we stop everything, drop that information in the group chat (or not-sometimes we'd prefer to be uncharitable and keep the information to ourselves), and immediately look at what's preaching. Recently, the actress posted a picture of herself slathered in a face mask, and no doubt, we image and click on the brand label. Apparently, the product in question is Olga Lorencin's Ageless Face in a Box ($78), a two-step system that begins with a cream peel and ends with a moisturizing sleep mask. The double-phase secret sauce consists of winning ingredients such as succinic acid, an exfoliating agent derived from plant sugar; phytomy, a component of mushrooms that is actually 400 times more potent than sodium hyaluronic (or sodium found in hyaluronic acid); and arginine, which smoothes the texture of the skin and relieves irritation. The brand is well under the radar, and considering you can get two products with Berry's seal of approval for $78, it would be an omission not to scoop up quickly before it sells out. Olga Lorencin Skin Care Ageless face in a $98 Shop Box Considering the news following the CMA's (Competition and Market Authority) crackdown on celebrities and influencers demanding to be more transparent about products they are gifted and in paid partnership with, we'd like to think Berry's statement is honest and organic (there's no indication of sponsorship or #ad for the post). Regardless, if she credits the Ageless system for contributing to the fact that she got someone's skin twenty years her junior, we're playing to give it a go. Keep scrolling for more of Berry's favorite beauty products: Jurlique Rose Moisture Plus Rosewater Balancing Mist $26 Shop Berry says she sprays on this moisturising mist after makeup for a cool finish, or the days she's going bare-faced to keep her skin moist. Revlon ColorStay Foundation $13 Store When Berry wants a piece of base, enough for this pharmacy foundation (a prop of mine, too-though, unfortunately, the end similarities there). Mixed Chicks Sulfate-Free Shampoo for Coloured & Chemically Trea Processed Hair $13 Shop To nourish its natural curly texture, Berry transforms into Mixed Chick's sulphate-free moisturizing shampoo and conditioner. Next: That's what Halle Berry eats in 24 hours. The awkward long hair position: You don't want to say goodbye to your wonderful lengths, but you really feel like changing things up a little bit somehow. Especially when the party season hits, the temptation to revise your look gets real. But if you're not willing to do something very drastic (no weights here, thanks!), we have a lot of ideas for a gentle update. From adding streaks of bold color to pumping up your curls, intricate braids and updos, consider this the ultimate take you with to your hairstylist guide to renewing your long locks without scissors. Below you will find a whole series of long to add to your repertoire now. Imaxtree Big Buns Large, intricate buns require long hair for all that twisting, weaving and clearing. Getty Images Kirby Decor Use kirby handles to your advantage by making a hair accessory statement from your baby-haired tamers. Imaxtree Velvet Ribbon Ribbon in velvet ribbon this season-will be your go-to hair accessory all party season. Imaxtree Bow Pony We told you, this beautiful take on a loose ponytail is the perfect five minute fix for long hair. Fernanda Calfat/Getty Images Time to break out the crimper! This is a great way to show off your lengths without feeling boring. Imaxtree Full Crimp Yep, the crimper gets plenty of action this season-just see here for proof. Keep an all-over crimp feeling fresh by licking back. Imaxtree Pony Braids Keep your poker lengths straight for a seriously cool contrast between pony and scalp braids. Imaxtree Sleek Loop Elegant, glossy and perfect for those days when you just can't cope with a full wash and blow-dry. Getty Images Curly Pony Give a curly pony a glam edge by adding a sculptural front inspired by Gatsby. Imaxtree Chic Bun bunch, but grew up. Getty Images Mermaid Waves Mermaid waves are not just for summer. Give them extra texture using thickening spray for a glam vibe party. Imaxtree Chanel Hairnet This Chanel runway look works best with super-long locks-so grab a hair net. Imaxtree Messy Bun You need volume to perform this look well, which makes it a great style for long, thick locks. Imaxtree Braids and Braids Maxing that braid action. Imaxtree Short Fringe, Long Locks A short margin packs even more impact when it's working with poker-straight away tresses. Getty Images Pile Is high In case of doubt, pile high. Jon Kopalo/Getty Images Rock a slicked-back wet look for the party season. Imaxtree Statement Streaks Not for a Cut? Try a statement color. We love these bright pink streaks. Getty Images Beehive Blast your roots with volumizing powders, add a little backcombing and finish with a hairband. Opening image: Imaxtree Imaxtree