Get a global journal of commerce hint and management view is an open access journal operated with a single blind peer monitoring policy. The content of the journal is of primary interest to academics, emerging researchers, industrialists, academics and students. Aim & Scope Global Trade Journal and Management Perspectives focus on different areas, including recent trends in business and management, behavioral and organizational theory, human resource management, change management, marketing, trade, electronic business, banking, trade and investment, portfolio management, business law, finance, online business management, personal public relations sales, project management, information technology, advertising and sales management, economics, psychology, performance management, business research method, economics, entrepreneurship, service marketing, international communication, business, personality management, taxation, taxation, marketing and contemporary marketing. The Global Journal of Commerce and Management Views indexed by SJIF, Reference Factors, CROSSREF and Copernicus Index, Longdom Publishing Fees, self-supporting publishers and not funded by any institution/government, therefore, the journal's operations are funded solely by the management fees received by the author. The author must pay only after the original is accepted for publication, the original type of article processing, research costs or other articles USD GBP 399 374 320 members and print authors can take advantage of their membership and print articles. For information about the membership and reprint of journals and articles, respectively, authors may contact [email protected] embargo policies, the information of the paper is strictly accepted confidential and cannot appear in the media (in print or electronic form) before the date and time of the embargo, authors/researchers, PR agents and their funding sponsors may not distribute or promote their work to the media before the boycott. If the embargo breaks as a result of any action taken by the author/researcher, he/she risks withdrawing his/her manuscript. Publish in Journal In general, a boycott on journal articles will lift the date and time the article is published, although the editorial office attempts to notify the author of the anticipated date/time of publication, but will not be responsible for the consequences of early online postings on intellectual property rights. Request permission to allow duplicate numbers Tables or parts of articles first published in the Global Journal of Commerce & Management Perspective can be obtained through editorial offices. Redundant publications are the publication of a paper that overlaps greatly with published paper. When submitting the paper, the author should make a full statement to the editor about all submissions and previous reports that may be considered redundant publications of the same or similar work. The author should alert the editor if the task contains a story name about the person who published the previous report. Copies of such content should be included in the submitted paper to help editors decide how to handle this. If attempting to publish redundancy without such notifications, the author should expect editorial action. At least the original will be rejected. Authors and judges of conflict of interest policies will be asked to declare competing interests. The original works submitted by any relevant editor and editor are handled by the editor, adviser or by another editor, who decides all about the original (including the choice of the referee and the ultimate acceptance or rejection). The whole process is handled confidentially. All manuscripts submitted by the Editor's Home Institute are also handled by editors, advisers or by other editors from other institutions. Editors (in the editor) and/or deputy editors may more sometimes refer the manuscript to the consulting editor to avoid a real or reasonable conflict of interest. The Global Ethics and Consent of Commerce & Management View considers research and publication misconduct as a serious ethical violation, and will take such action as necessary to resolve such misconduct. The authors should refer to the Ethics Commission Publications (COPE), disclaimers, opinions and findings of the study published in the Journal of Global Trade & Management Perspectives, as well as the authors' and not the authors' opinions. Journal policy or position The global view of trade journals and management does not guarantee the accuracy or reliability of the article. According to the report contained in about 1660 journals, 195 meetings, 172 workshops currently dedicated to particular trade and approximately 8590 articles will be published about current trends in trade. In terms of annual research, the United States, India, Japan, Brazil and Canada are the top studied countries involved with proteomics, as reported in Wikipedia Commerce. This system includes legal, economic, political, social, cultural and technological systems operating in any country. Therefore, trade is a system or environment that affects the business opportunities of the economy or state of the country. It can also be defined as a business element, which includes all activities, functions and institutions related to the transfer of goods from the manufacturer to the consumer.
