Chat up lines in spanish

Have conversations faster, understand people when they talk quickly, and other tips tested to learn faster. More info Although you may have heard Spanish called a Romance language, this has nothing to do with being a romantic, or even flirting in Spanish. In fact, the term romantic language is a term used to refer to any language derived from Latin. But that's enough history for today. You are here to learn more about the art of flirting with Spanish. Just like trying to tell a joke in another language, it can be tricky for non-native speakers. In this post we will list some common phrases that (some) native speakers will be familiar with for flirting in Spanish. Before we begin, we will admit that some of these expressions are cheesy, and even cringe, but hey - don't blame us, blame Cupid. Side note: Keep in mind that while some of these phrases may be used with both sexes, some changes (to names, adjectives or subject) are necessary for sentences to make sense. Let's start with some romantic lines. Flirting in Spanish - Romantic Lines 1) Aso como tã, me los recomienda el doctor You probably know the phrase like Exactly what the doctor ordered. This sentence is similar, expect it to translate as You are exactly what the doctor recommended to me. It's an old phrase, more used as a compliment with someone you just met (or laid eyes on). You can also use this phrase when talking to a friend about your new crush. Ayer conocio has a hombre that is como me lo recomend el doctor - Yesterday I met a man who looks like the drug that the doctor prescribed me Mainly used with: Anyone 2) Me gustas ms that ... I love you more than ... ». While this may seem a bit juvenile, it's a funny and innocent way of flirting in Spanish. It won't make you look like Hitch, but it will probably bring a smile to the person you're directing to. I love you more than (insert the name of something you love) Easy! Me gustas mas que tomar vino - I love more than drinking wine Me gustas mas that sleep hasta tarde - I love more than sleeping late Most of the time used with: Anyone 3) A tu lado me me siento mujer By your side, I feel more woman In other words: you make me feel more like a woman. The direct translation of this may seem a little strange, but it's a subtle but intimate way of flirting with a guy. Me gustas porque a tu lado me siento mujer - I like you, because by your side I feel more woman Mainly used with: 4) Encanta Me that siempre escoges you camisa a juego con tu mirada In English, this translates into something like I like you always choose your shirt to match your look If you hear that, then the person lets you know that they looked you up and down. Ests muy guapo hoy. Me encanta que siempre escoges you camisa para que combine con tu mirada mirada You look beautiful today. I love that you always choose your shirt to match your look most of the time used with: Men 5) Mi caf  favorito siempre ser el de tus ojos My favorite brown color will always be the one in your eyes As you may have already guessed, this is another way to compliment someone's eyes. (In Latin American countries, brown is often referred to as coffee, which means coffee). Sabes que no me gusta el caf , pero si tengo que beber, que sea el caf  de tus ojos - You know I don't like coffee, but if I have to drink it, let it be the brown color of your eyes. Of course, you can change the pun in the example above and also change the color, depending on the context. Most of the time used with: Anyone 6) Eres el postre perfecto para una cena romantica You are the perfect dessert for a romantic dinner This seems a bit cringe-worthy, but it is actually commonly used if we are talking about a first date, or a 20-year wedding anniversary dinner date. Quieres postre? No gracias. Para m , te eres el postre perfecto para despu s de cenar - Want a dessert? No thank you. For me, you are the perfect dessert after dinner It almost goes without saying, but be careful with this one because it may not be well received - especially if you do not know the person that well. Most of the time used with: Anyone 7) Estoy loca / o por ti y quiero que mers mi psiquiatra If you are crazy about your (would) partner, then why not let them know directly ... So, estoy loca por t  y quiero que seas mi psiquiatra - Yes, I'm crazy about you and I want you to be my shrink Most of the time used with: Anyone 8) Tengo los ojos llenos de ganas de verte My eyes are full of desire to see you When it's not enough to say I want to see you, then you can go a little further and use it. Ha pasado a tiempo y mis ojos eston llenos de ganas de verte - It's been a while, and my eyes are full of desire to see you most of the time used with: Anyone 9) No puedo dejar de pensar in ti I can't stop thinking about you. It's obvious, but at least it gets to the point. No estaba aware of lo important that eres para m  hasta que me di cuenta que no puedo dejar de pensar en ti - I was not aware of the importance you are to me until I noticed that I can't stop thinking about you Most of the time used with: Anyone Download the exact program that thousands of BaseLang students have used to speak fluently. Download guide now! 10)  Cuantas veces debo mirar tus labios para que sepas que quiero besarlos? Okay, now we're getting a little more although depending on the tone/context, this can be taken in a funny way. Quer a preguntarte algo,  Cuantas veces debo mirar tus labios para que sepas que quiero besarlos? I wanted to ask you something. How many times should I look at your lips so you know I want to kiss kiss Mainly used with: Anyone Flirting in Spanish: The Chat up lines We have just listed the best romantic expressions for flirting in Spanish. The next 10 expressions are less romantic, but more witty than the previous ones we covered. Like chat-up lines in English, they can fall flat when used in a certain tone, or in the wrong content. 11) Exculpated. What's hora es? Porque cuando estoy contigo pierdo la nocion del tiempo Excuse me, what time is it? Because when I'm with you, I lose track of time A little cheesy, but at the same time it's a good way to start a conversation. Mainly used with: Women 12. Tantas curvas y yo sin frenos All these curves and I'm the one without brakes A well-known compliment (or cat up to the line), which is quite explicit. Mainly used with: Women 13. Te dolio cuando caeste del cielo? Did it hurt when you fell from the sky? If you're a native English speaker, then you've probably heard this one (or maybe had used it on you) before. Mainly used with: Women 14. You padre debe ser a rey, porque tiene como hija a una verdadera princesa Your father must be a king, because he has a real princess as a daughter If you are brave enough to bring the parents into the equation. Mainly used with: Women 15. If the belleza will fuera a pecado, you no tendr s perdon de Dios If beauty were a sin, you would not have God's forgiveness When you see someone who is falling dead magnificent. Mainly used with: Women 16. Quisiera ahogarme en el oc ano azul de tu mirada I wish I could drown in your blue ocean gaze By flirting in Spanish with someone with blue eyes. Mostly used with: Anyone 17. Podr a loses soul in tus ojos I could get lost in your eyes Complimenting someone's eyes seems to be a common theme of this post. If you want to do it while sounding (a little) like a poet, then this one will be useful. Mostly used with: Anyone 18. Hay una fiesta en mi coraz n y te ests invitado! There is a party in my heart and you are my special guest I'm pretty sure there's a rougher version of this in English.... but nevermind. Again, this may sound cheesy (and it is), but it's a common line for flirting in Spanish with someone you really like. Mostly used with: Anyone 19. You vo es para m s m s where Your voice is music to my ears An innocent and romantic phrase to remind someone special how much you like to have them around. Mainly used with: Women 20. Seguro tenemos muchas cosas en com n, tomamos el atrevimiento de averiguarlo? I'm sure we have a lot in common, what do you think if we dare to know? When you have an impressive first conversation (or date), and you are looking for the green light to see that person again. Most of the time used with: Someone Are you heading to Spain this holiday? Holiday? do you want to be ready if Mr or Mrs Right arrives? Look no further than those ten pick-up lines in Spanish that are sure to put you on the right track. Be warned! Although Caballerositad, the Spanish term for chivalrous or gentlemanly behaviour, is still common throughout Spain, women travelling alone can receive flirtatious comments, commonly referred to as piropeo. These comments, or piropeos, are similar to pick-up lines and are said to show romantic interest. Two popular are Mi amor! which means my love, and guapa! which means beautiful. Don't worry too much about flirtatious comments; consider making some of your own. Do not worry! With these ten controlled pick-up lines, you'll get the person of your dreams in no time! Or at least you should have a lot of laughs. Hola, soy el Se r Correcto. Alguien dijo que me estabas buscando. (Hi, I'm Mr. Right. Think of the whole world as a room. Scribbling Geek of Singapore  n April 03, 2016:Ok. I'm going to work very my pronunciation. Laughing out loud. Franco  n May 29, 2014: Don't say any of this, lol.
