The fourth wedding anniversary is traditionally known as the fruit and flowers anniversary, according to About.com. More modern interpretations consider it an anniversary dedicated to gifts of appliances. Due to the fruit and flowers theme for the fourth wedding anniversary, traditional gifts include bouquets of flowers, recreation of the bride's wedding bouquet and fruit baskets. If you go the more modern route, possible gifts include appliances, hair grooming items and household appliances. The 30th anniversary is usually called Pearl Anniversary. Beads were chosen to represent this anniversary because they take many years to grow inside molluscs. They are formed by laying layers over time, and become stronger and more durable. Like the pearl, a marriage grows and becomes stronger and more durable over time. The pearl also represents the beauty and elegance of marriage. A classic gift for this wedding is a string of pearls. Other gifts include earrings, pendants, rings or bracelets. For men, cufflinks with pearl inserts are a good option. Jewelry isn't the only gift option for a 30-year wedding anniversary. Household gifts include a mother of pearl picture frame, figure, vase or bowl. A new set of china or cutlery with a mother or pearl post are gifts the couple can cherish for years. Other options include a charm insert box or photo box. If pearl gifts are not desired, a bouquet of lilies or gifts that incorporate the color green are other ways to recognize a 30-year wedding anniversary. According to About.com, paper, symbolizing strength that comes from the woven connection of the paper's individual threads, is the traditional gift of the first wedding anniversary. A clock, symbolizing eternal time, is the modern version of this gift. In later years, more luxurious gifts are given or exchanged. The 10th anniversary is the first major milestone in a marriage. Traditional gifts are tin, aluminum or white steel, and its modern equivalent is diamond jewelry. The gifts are a symbol of the flexibility and durability of marriage. Diamond not only represents the solidity and intensity of the 60th anniversary, but it also symbolizes the couple's enduring and inconvincing love for each other.
