The Bobby Bones Show originates from WSIX-FM studios in Nashville. The program is organized by Premiere Networks, a subsidiary of iHeartMedia. It was released nationwide on country music radio stations in February 2013 and reaches millions of listeners on 180 stations in the United States, including major radio markets such as Washington, D.C., Chicago, San Antonio, Boston, Miami, and internationally in Halifax and Manchester, United Kingdom. The program is broadcast during the week of 5:00 a.m.m. 10:00 a.m.m. Central Time with a Top 30 Countdown program that airs on Saturday mornings and hosted by Bones. In some radio markets, the show is recorded and heard at night; this is especially true in Canada, where it is transported by Bell Media Radio's Pure Country network. [2] The program is also heard nationally via iHeartRadio, iHeartMedia's free all-in-one streaming service and digital live radio service. [3] In June 2014, it was announced that Bobby Bones had signed a long-term contract extension with iHeartMedia (formerly Clear Channel Media and Entertainment). Before 2013, The Bobby Bones Show was a morning show for the top 40 also syndicated by Premiere Networks. Jay Shannon was the program director. [6] On July 18, 2011, it was announced that Bones had signed a three-year extension to mornings for KHFI-FM Austin of Clear Channel, and also signed an agreement with Premiere for the rights of inquiry. Bobby Bones is joined by co-hosts Lunchbox (Dan Chappell) and Amy (Moffett-Brown), along with aides Eddie (Garcia), Raymundo (Raymond Slater), Mike D. (Deestro), Morgan #2 (Huelsman) and Hillary Utility (Borden). The Raging Idiots The Raging Idiots is a band that features Bobby Bones and Eddie Garcia from the Bobby Bones Show. Raging Idiots helped raise money for earthquake relief in Haiti, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, and other charities. In 2013, after the BBS moved to Nashville, they were invited to perform at a charity event that resulted in their first public appearance. Their first show outside Nashville was in Wichita, Kansas. They did more than 40 charity shows and raised more than $1.5 million for charities. On June 2, 2015, The Raging Idiots signed a contract with Black River Entertainment. They released their debut album The Critics Give It 5 Stars which was number one on the comedy shows. From the album, the singles were: If I Was Your Boyfriend and Fishing With My Dad. The Raging Idiots released an EP titled The Next Episode EP where the lead single Namaste was a number one comedy song. Followed by Chick-fil-A (... But it's Sunday) reached number three on the comedy shows. [10] EAS Activation Incident During the October 24, 2014 episode of The Bobby Bones Show, a segment discussed an Emergency Alert System (EAS) test that had interrupted a 2014 World Series Game 2 broadcast on Nashville Fox affiliate WZTV. A clip was played from the 2011 EAS national test; due to the means in which EAS operates, EAS has contracted the EAS equipment of certain other EAS participants to re-transmit the Emergency Action Notification (EAN) from the test. In particular, the fake test spread through outlets (including AT&T U-verse systems in various markets) that had not configured their EAS decoders to reject EAN messages that did not match the current date. In May 2015, iHeartMedia was fined $1 million by the FCC for reproducing Airy EAS tones outside an emergency alert, and was instructed to implement a three-year compliance plan, including removing EAS tones or any similar sounds from its audio libraries, in order to avoid a similar incident. [13] Awards and achievements The Bobby Bones Show won the National On-Air Personality Award at the ACM Awards in 2014, 2016, 2018 and 2020. They won a CMA National Personality Award in 2017 and 2019. On November 2, 2017, Bobby Bones was inducted into the National Radio Hall of Fame. He's the youngest to receive that honor. References ^ Huelsman, Morgan (November 20, 2019).
