Jackson Lake State Park Photo by © VerdonTomajko/CPW Ranked by Reserve America as one of the Top 15 Park Beaches, this is a great place to kick back with the family and cool off in the summer. Jackson Lake's staff like to remind potential visitors that their lake is three times larger than the Cherry Creek Reservoid and twice as big as Chatfield. And more importantly, it often contains a fraction of the boats found in the reservoar. For OHV owner Jackson Lake State Park offers the only riding area in eastern I-25. Bird hunters will find a variety of birds attracted to this cotton-lined reservoir in the Eastern Square, including balding, peddlers, herons and meadows and riparian songbirds. A raft of american white pelicans is commonplace in the summer. The location of the park on the Central Flyway means a lot of waterfowl emigrates and beaches and wading birds, although curlews that have long been picked up and kren once in a while are of a size. Crawford State Park Photo by © Dustin Doskocil/CPW At a height of 6,600 feet, the light climate offers an outdoor recreation four seasons this year. Imagine fishing, surfing or camping on a 400-acre reservoir against a stunning mountaintop background and you'll have an idea of the scene in the park just 12 km from Gunnison National Park's Black Canyon. Crawford State Park is home to one of the largest warmwater fisheries on the Western Slopes. Yolks can look forward to various actions with crappie, pike, catfish, perch, rainbow trout, and large bass found in the reservoir. Tips to know: In winter, Crawford is a great place to go ice fishing, snowshoeing, and X-skiing on the four-mile X-ski route. During the summer, Crawford State Park celebrated the City of Crawford with fireworks in June. Check the park calendar for more information. Mancos State Park Photo by © Dustin Doskocil/CPW Surrounded by stunning views of the San Juan mountains and the mystery of southwest Colorado archaeology, Mancos is a great destination for vacations or vacations at any time of the year. Sounds like a local! The first challenge with Mancos was a pronunciation nail. Although Spain-originated, it is not Mahn-cose. And it's definitely as a non-Man-cose heck. It's Mane (like a horse lock) cuss (like the locals do when people call him Mahn-cose or Man-cose or Man-cose or Man-cose or Man-cose heck. It's Mane (like a horse lock) cuss (like the locals do when people call him Mahn-cose or Man-cose or Man Manecuss. Ptooeyy. Manecuss. Now you get it! Aside from many characters, here are FIVE more things that make Mancos great: Breakfast in the alpine, dinner in the desert; it's in a sweet spot. Yurts! Hiking, bicycles and XC ski-in/ski-outs, walk to great fishing, and snug as bugs in Ponderosa pines. The park connects to the Colorado Trail (CT) via Mancos Spur, which comes from the park and connects to the CT near Taylor Lake. Ever seeing a cliff residence? Mancos are just 20 minutes from Mesa Verde National Monuments, Kanyon National Monument Purcients, Purgatory Ski Resort... all the journeys quickly from the garden.
