The g-20 or 20 group of g-20s provided by the Spanish tourist office is a group of the 20 most important economies on the planet. It includes 19 independent countries and the European Union. The G-20 includes all original G-7 members, along with BRIMCKS (Brazil, Russia, India, Mexico, China, South Korea and South Africa) and Australia, Argentina, Indonesia, Saudi Arabia and Turkey. According to the G-20 website, the G20 countries account for almost 90% of the world's GDP and two-thirds of the world's population. 1. Argentina2. In Australia3. Brazil 4. Canada 5. China 6. The European Union (EU members) Five countries have been invited to participate in the G-20 meeting in 2012. The G20 dates back to the 1998 Asian economic crisis. A year later, finance ministers and central banks of the most important global economies gathered in Berlin, Germany, for a meeting co-financed by the Canadian Finance Minister and the German Finance Minister. In the wake of the international financial crisis that erupted in 2008, the most serious since the Great Depression (1929), the G20 began to meet at leaders' level and has since become the most important forum for global economic and financial cooperation and debate. The G20 is an informal forum for discussion between developed and emerging economies aimed at strengthening international cooperation and ensuring global economic stability... Its main objective is to coordinate macroeconomic policies in order to strengthen the global economic recovery; redesign the international financial structure; and to promote financial rules to help prevent another crisis, such as the 2008 financial crisis. What's the best in Spain? It's probably impossible to answer a question, so let it down in some categories. First, Spain's best cities. 01 06 Damian Corrigan Spain's best museums, some great day trips, shopping malls, great nightlife and so much more. It may not be the wow factor that Barcelona is, but you'll never get bored in Madrid. Because, Barcelona! Does Spain's most famous city need to be introduced? Gaudi architecture, gothic quarter, burgeoning craft beer scene and so much more. Andalusian jewel. The sounds of flamenco float out on balconies as you sit eating tapas in the famous Barrio Santa Cruz. Two things: Alhambra and Spain's best tapas culture, where you can tapas with every drink, for free! Spain's best coastal city, San Sebastian turned pintxos (Basque tapas) into high art. Proceed to 2/6 below. 02 06 Damian Corrigan Cities are great, but if you're not after a city break, you prefer to choose your destination based on which area is like. Seville, Granada and Cordoba are all in Andalusia. Add that sherry from Jerez, the beautiful town of Cadiz and pueblos blancos (white villages) like Ronda and you never have to leave the area! Ranging from neighboring areas of Castilla-La Mancha and Castilla y Leon, you have Segovia, Toledo, Consuegra and Avila all on a day trip from Madrid. Discover the best small towns in Spain and stay back in time for the slaughter. San Sebastian and Bilbao are the major cities here. But add to that some great surfing, great wines (so The Basque Country and day trip away to La Rioja) and you have something quite fantastic. Simply being home to Barcelona, Catalonia justifies the place on this list. But add Figueres, your Dali Museum, Montserrat mountain and the Pyrenees, and you have an area worth exploring. Green, green Spain! It is home to Santiago de Compostela - where pilgrims walk 800 miles to the Camino de Santiago every year. Proceed to 3/6 below. 03 06 Damian Corrigan How to complete your trip to Spain? If this is your first trip to the country, you can't say that you've been to Spain until you've done these things: Tapas are not a type of food, but a way to eat it: Small portions, usually accompanied by a drink. After that - no rules! In some cities, tapas are given free of charge with each drink, while in others the food looks more like molecular gastronomy than bar snacks. Where? Seville, Granada or San Sebastian. Flamenco is not a dance. It's a complete art form that includes singing, guitar, handlers. And sometimes dancing. Some might say flamenco is the power and emotion of opera, melancholy blues and the rawness of punk. You don't know what flamenco is until you see it. Where? Preferably Sevilla or Granada, but Madrid or Barcelona have some good shows too. Catalan modernism is the Spanish Art Nouveau, fin de siecle art movement, best seen in barcelona's fascinating architecture. Where? Barcelona's Museo del Prado, Reina Sofia and Thyssen-Bornemisza are the three best art museums in Spain, no, in the world, and they are all a few steps apart from each other. Where? Madrid, Pamplona Bull Run, Las Falla... Spain has a wealth of famous festivals, as well as hundreds of smaller fiestas (almost every village has one year). Where? All over the country Continue 4 to 6 below. 04 06 Simon Greenwood/Getty Images The best time to visit the city is when there is a festival: There is nothing worse than arriving in the city the day after they are clearing up after the fiesta. Here are our best picks: Las Fallas has it all. In addition to regular street food, music and daytime drinking, there are fireworks, religious elements and events that take place at any time of day (including early morning fireworks). Food fight, anyone? Some people think it's a good idea to run in front of an angry herd of bulls. Others think it's a good idea to watch people run in front of angry bulls. Easter in Spain is such a big deal, it lasts all week. The atmosphere of Semana Santa can vary greatly depending on which city you took place in: from Toledo's hushed solemnity to seville passion. After Semana Santa is out, sevillanos let their hair down for their big fiesta of the year. Also known as Feria de Abril, although not always in April. Proceed to 5/ 6 below. 05 06 Damian Corrigan Paella, of course – but what else? And what exactly is a tapas? Spain's most famous dish is often misunderstood. For starters, the most traditional version is not seafood in it. Crazy, huh? Not food, it's five to eat. Tapas are all about small portions, preferably eaten upright, with a drink, as part of an evening bar hopping. Tapas restaurants around the world that serve you ten small dishes on one plate, do not offer tapas. Spanish wine, especially red, is one of the best in the world, and much cheaper than in neighboring France. Different from your usual Spanish wine to justify his place on that list. Sherry is another misunderstood part of Spanish culture - it's not always the sweet stuff grandma drank. Try the disgust of sherry in Jerez. The texture puts a lot of people out, but it's usually because they haven't had it cooked right. For the best experience, get it in Santiago de Compostela. Proceed to 6/ 6 below. 06 06 Miguel Angel Garcia Additional places to explore in Spain include: Spain has many coastlines - and much of it is decorated with beautiful beaches. And if you find swimwear too restrictive – there are plenty of nudist beaches too! Some Spanish buildings couldn't blow anyone up. From cathedrals that are approaching a thousand-year-old super-modern avant-garde structures, there's certainly nothing to impress you. You.
