Final exams are only given during the quarter. No change in the time or date of a final review may take place unless the sponsoring organization of the course has obtained the approval of the Education Policy Committee (CEP). Applications must be received by CEP no later than the first week of the term in which the course takes place. Completion or presentation of final examinations or documents for classes are not allowed during the regular term teaching period, including the closed week prior to the final exams. When finals are administered (not in week 10), they must be completed at the scheduled time of the exam and may not take more than three hours to complete. To avoid three final exams on the same day, students may want to consider the final exam schedule when enrolling in courses. Instructors can prevent students from taking the exam and schedule a make-up exam provided the student's work passes to that point. When a final exam is one of the regular requirements of a course, no one can be exempted individually. Holiday travel plans are not an emergency and should not be made without checking the final schedule of the exam. Closed Week No exam or test other than laboratory exams, quiz or individual makeup exams can be given during the last week of teaching. Exam retention An instructor can release students from the original final exams (or copies). Otherwise, the instructor will retain the final examination equipment at least until the end of the next regular term. During this time, students will be allowed to review their exams. Religious Observance for Tests and Examinations Given the diversity of religious practice within the campus community, academic and administrative units are encouraged to make reasonable accommodations when the schedule of a required campus event conflicts with a person's religious belief. The University of California at Santa Cruz has an official policy of accepting, without penalty, requests for alternative test or examination time in cases where the time for the test or examination violates a student's religious belief, unless the application can be reasonably granted. Requests to accommodate a student's religious belief by scheduling tests or exams at other times should be submitted directly to the instructor in charge of the course as soon as possible after the test or exam is announced. Students who are unable to reach a satisfactory agreement with the instructor should consult with the head of the unit sponsoring the course. If the head of the unit feels that the request cannot be reasonably the head of the unit should consult with documented disabilities that require changes to exams will be taken into account state and federal laws. Reasonable accommodation will be made based on the recommendations of the Disability Resource Center. MWF 8 a.m. m Monday, December 11, 12 p.m. to 3 p.m.m. Tuesday, December 12, 12 p.m. to 3 p.m.m.
