Sitting indian style during pregnancy

Pregnancy is when a woman carries a child in her womb for up to 40+ weeks before the birth of a baby. This time is referred to as the gestation period. The embryo develops in the first eight weeks after conception, after which it is called a fetus. The length of pregnancy is divided into three trimesters. The first trimester is from the fertilization of the ice with sperm (conception), -12 weeks in the womb, the second trimester is week 13 – 28 and the third is week 28 – 40+ , after which the baby is born. Pregnancy is the way we multiply. It is created either by sexual intercourse or assisted reproductive technology such as In Vitro Fertilization (IVF). Symptoms include missed periods, nausea or vomiting, loss and gain or appetite, frequent urination and tender breasts. Every pregnancy is experienced differently. Some women will feel all the symptoms, others hardly. Some women may have complications during pregnancy and others may not. If you suspect you are pregnant, you can go to the doctor to take an official test, or take a home test, after which you need to see a doctor to confirm this and then start prenatal treatment for the rest of your pregnancy. Pregnancy covers the period of life from conception to childbirth. Learn about the changes that are taking place during this time, what to do to stay healthy, and how to prevent complications during pregnancy. Beyoncé has always had an incredible sense of style. And she has never been afraid to show off her figure or her unique taste in clothing. From her stunning, record-breaking pregnancy announcements to her never-ending cast of beautiful maternity outfits, Bey's style was especially on point when she was expecting. And in doing so, she has basically set the bar for the style of pregnancy. Here are 10 of Beyoncé's most amazing pregnancy outfits. 1. 2011 MTV Music Video Awards Beyoncé | Jason Merritt/Getty Images Beyoncé stunned fans as she showed off her baby belly at the 2011 MTV Music Video Awards. Most of us remember the fitted tuxedo and glittering cummer waistband she wore as she danced on stage that night. That's because it was a fun and chic way to proclaim their exciting secret to the world. But the dress she wore before the show was just as memorable. Levin's orange one-shoulder dress wrapped around her belly, which she proudly hugged on the red carpet. Her romantic side ponytail and diamond jewellery helped make her look like a positively radiant mother. 2. Pretty Purple Beyoncé | Beyoncé via Instagram Anyone who was pregnant knows that it's hard to look, let alone feel comfortable, when your stomach is as big as a house. But Beyoncé has somehow managed to make motherhood look both effortless and incredibly relaxed. She posted this photo of herself in a purple, long-sleeved, full-length dress to her account in April 2017. And in doing so, she set the bar for all future, honest maternity photos that were ever taken. The plunging neckline adds a sexy touch to the form-fitting dress. Her hair, loose around her shoulders and slightly curled, gives the entire look a feel that is equally casual and completely crammed together. 3. Comfortable and Stylish Jay Z, Blue Ivy and Beyoncé | Theo Wargo/Getty Images Enjoying a night out is hard enough if you're a parent. But if you're expecting twins, it's probably a huge ordeal. That's probably why Beyoncé opted for an extremely comfortable outfit when she and her husband Jay Z took their daughter Blue Ivy to the NBA All Star Game in March 2017. Beyoncé wore loose-fitting ripped jeans and a white T-shirt to the event. But she added a bit of flair to the otherwise simple get-up by wrapping herself in a floral Gucci kimono. The 22,000 dollar silk foil looks almost impossibly cozy and stylish. And it gave her a chance to keep her growing belly away from the control of viewers. 4. Hot Mom-to-Be Beyoncé | Beyoncé via Instagram No one would ever accuse Beyoncé of having a dull fashion sense. And her sense of style has never faltered, even if she is pregnant. In March 2017, the singer posted this stunning set of four photos on Instagram. They remind you that yes, even maternity clothes can be hot. The tight black dress gives a bit of a 90s feel with the choker necklace. And there's no question that the short dress flatters her curves and pregnant belly. Her handbag and waist-high black towel-dyed boots are the perfect accessory for an already bold fashion statement. 5th Easter Sunday best Beyoncé and Blue Ivy | Beyoncé via Instagram For parents celebrating it, Easter is a big and often incredibly busy holiday. In April 2017, Beyoncé and her daughter Blue Ivy looked like they were more than ready to celebrate the occasion. The singer managed to look elegant and relaxed in a series of photos she shared on Instagram. Bey wore an off-the-shoulder white dress with ruffled sleeves. And to make sure she stayed comfortable, she wore a pair of chunky gold and pink Prada sandals. Perhaps the coolest part of the outfit, however, was her gold, Lennon-esque shades. Or maybe it was how much fun she looked to have with her friends and family. 6. Earthy Goddess Beyoncé | Beyoncé via Instagram Beyoncé has proven time and again that she is not afraid to add a little splash of colour to her wardrobe. And that was definitely the case with the bright green dress she used in a series of March 2017. The pleated skirt and boho sleeves give the dress a down-to-earth feel – and it also looks crazy comfortable. The deep neckline of the dress, accentuated by silver floral accents, definitely attracts attention. But it also helps to make Bey's beautiful beautiful Belly. All in all, the splash of colour and the flowing fabric combine to offer a trendy welcome in both spring and motherhood. 7. Fashion Forward Beyoncé | Beyoncé via Instagram Most pregnant women have a hard time putting on shoes. Beyoncé, on the other hand, seems to have no problem with slipping into stilettos, even when she's carrying twins. But even without the killer-colored, cream-colored boots with open heels, Bey would still look flawlessly chic in this April 2017 Instagram photo. This is mainly due to the flawless, from head to end color coordination. The oversized sleeves, which blend with the shorter hem of the dress, add a funky element to the layered look. And the rounded sunglasses make her look particularly relaxed, even as an expectant twin mother. 8. Oscar Glamour Beyoncé | Beyonce.com There is something to be said to know your audience. And Beyoncé probably had hers in mind when she decided to wear this teal dress at Harvey Weinstein's pre-Oscars party in March 2017. The dress looks effortlessly elegant, and the scoop neckline is reminiscent of old Hollywood glamour. Although it's surprisingly simple in its design, the dress embraced her body perfectly. The Coomi necklace and bracelets added a calm torch. And with its deep, dark, understated hue, the surprisingly affordable Nicole Miller dress was eye-catching without being exaggerated. 9th Grammy gold Beyoncé | Christopher Polk/Getty Images for NARAS All eyes were on Beyoncé at the 2017 Grammy Awards. And not only because she received two of the most prestigious awards of the evening. The singer looked like an absolute goddess as she took the stage to accept her trophies. She wore a beaded dress, gold, a matching dress with a replica hem and a matching veil. Designed by Peter Dundas, the dress was hand embroidered. And according to the designer, the beadwork contained details resembling Bey's face. All in all, the entire Grammy look felt like a tribute to the singer's impending motherhood and to strong women in general. And that made it not only one of her best pregnancy looks, but one of her most memorable fashion statements of all time. 10. An overall winner Beyoncé | Frederick M. Brown/Getty Images On Grammy night 2017, Beyoncé wore a very different outfit off stage from the flowing bohemian number she donned for her awards. During a photo call after the ceremony, she wore a red sequined dress by Peter Dundas. The dress was eye-catching and glamorous, and while other celebrities sometimes try to mask their baby bumps for big red carpet events, Bey made sure front and centre. Beyoncé looked positively stunning in the form-fitting floor-length dress. And the diamond necklace, which dangled in the middle of the revealing square neckline, offered a daring final touch. The two trophies she took home that night Album, Lemonade, were pretty great accessories, too. Follow Katherine Webb on Twitter @prufrox Check out Entertainment Cheat Sheet on Facebook! What does this test do? This is a home use test kit to measure human chorionic gonadotropin (hCG) in your urine. You only produce this hormone if you are pregnant. What is hCG? hCG is a hormone produced by your placenta when you are pregnant. It appears shortly after the embryo attaches to the uterine wall. If you are pregnant, this hormone increases very quickly. If you have a 28-day menstrual cycle, you can detect hCG in your urine 12-15 days after ovulation. What kind of test is this? This is a qualitative test -- you find out if you have elevated hCG levels that indicate you're pregnant. Why should you take this test? You should use this test to find out if you are pregnant. How accurate is this test? The accuracy of this test depends on how well you follow the instructions and interpret the results. If you mishandle or misunderstand the test kit, you can get bad results. Most pregnancy tests have roughly the same ability to detect hCG, but their ability to show whether you are pregnant or not depends on how much hCG you produce. If you are testing too early in your cycle or too close to the time you became pregnant, your placenta may not have had enough time to produce hCG. This would mean that you are pregnant, but you have a negative test result. Since many women have irregular periods and women may miscalculate when their period is due, 10 to 20 pregnant women out of 100 will not recognize their pregnancy on the first day of their missed period. How do you do this test? For most home pregnancy tests, either hold a test strip in your urine stream or collect your urine in a cup and dip your test strip into the cup. If you're pregnant, most test strips produce a colored line, but this depends on the brand you bought. Read the instructions for the test you purchased and follow them carefully. Make sure you know how to get good results. The test usually takes only about 5 minutes. The various tests for sale vary in their ability to detect low levels of hCG. For the most reliable results, test 1-2 weeks after you have missed your period. There are some tests for sale that are sensitive enough to show that you are pregnant before you miss your period. You can improve your chances of an accurate result, use your first morning urine for testing. If you are pregnant, there will be more hCG in it than later urine. If you think you are pregnant but your first test was negative, you can do the test again after a few days. As the amount of hCG increases rapidly if you are pregnant, you can get a positive test later days. Some test kits have more than one test so you can repeat the test. Is this test similar to the one my doctor uses? The home Test and the test your doctor uses are similar in their ability to detect hCG, but your doctor is probably more experienced in performing the test. If you produce only a small amount of hCG, your doctor may not be able to detect it better than you could. Your doctor may also use a blood test to see if you are pregnant. Finally, your doctor may provide more information about you from your history, physical examination, and other tests that can give a more reliable result. Does a positive test mean you are pregnant? Usually yes, but you must be sure to read and interpret the results correctly. Do negative test results mean you're not pregnant? No, there are several reasons why you might get incorrect negative test results. If you tested too early in your cycle, your placenta may not have produced enough hCG to detect the test. Or you didn't wait long enough before you did this test. If you have a negative result, consider this as a preliminary finding. You should not use medication and consider avoiding potentially harmful behaviors such as smoking or alcohol consumption until you have more certainty that you are not pregnant. You will probably see false results over time. You can detect false negatives due to the unexpected onset of the canteens (regular vaginal bleeding associated with periods.) Retests and/or other examinations such as ultrasound may lead to corrected results. Results.
