Source: Amazon Bluetooth Speaker Best Under $50 Android Central 2021 Nothing makes a better party than some music and nothing makes playing music easier than Bluetooth speakers, especially when many phone manufacturers ignore the 3.5mm headphone jack. Fortunately, you don't need to spend a fortune getting the best Bluetooth speaker for your needs, especially with great options like an Anker Soundcore Flare+ to get the rolling side. Source: Anker Anker certainly knows his way around smartphone accessories, and the same can be said for Soundcore Flare+. This 360-degree speaker will be the talk of the night with its unique design and a halo mounted at the bottom of the LED. These LEDs will keep up with the sides as they pulse and glow to the rhythm of any music playing. The included IPX7 rating will also keep your Flare+ safe from random shootings. Anker has also made it possible to pair two flares to create a stereo situation. You also won't need to see battery life too closely, as Flare+ is rated for 20 hours of play-back. Cons? You won't be able to use the headphone jack to connect your phone because there are no ports. 360-degree Bluetooth 5.0 IPX7 Waterproof Connect two speakers for stereo sound 20 hours of battery life No auxiliary port Micro-USB charging Perfect for parties, the home, and anywhere else The Soundcore Flare+ offers an attractive 360-degree design, along with the rhythmic-flashing LED and water resistance. Source: Sony If portability and budget are the name of the game, then the SRS-XB01 from Sony is a great choice. This speaker packs such an impressive punch that it's hard to believe that the sound comes from such a small package. XB01's EXTRA BASS slogan true to perforated lows, combined with a six-hour battery life, will allow you to listen to your favorite songs with plenty of bass for long periods of time. Sony also includes a strap that can be connected to the bottom of the speaker, in case you want to throw it over your shoulder or attach it to a bag. On the other side, the SRS-XB01 doesn't have many extra features. There are no dedicated apps, which means you'll have to switch to the built-in audio tools of your smartphone or tablet if you want to adjust the EQ level. Micro-USB charging ports also feel a bit on these days, but these are often sacrifices you'll have to make to hit such a low price. Ultra-portable IPX5 waterproof Add an additional speaker to the stereo Outdated Micro-USB charging port Six hours of battery use Do not integrate the Big Punch app in a small package SRS-XB01 has an awkward name, but you will remember it when you hear it for the first time. Source: Anker When it comes to listening to your music or podcasts, you want to be able to hear them from wherever you are. That's where a speaker like Soundcore Motion Q comes with 360 degrees The cylindrical design, combined with two drivers and 16 watt capacity, makes for an impressive package. For battery life, you're looking at about 10 hours, which should be a lot long enough for pool parties and the like. Plus, there's a built-in microphone to access your voice assistant. Of course, you can also pair two motion Qs wirelessly for 360-degree stereo and each speaker has feather light at just 14.4 ounces. Audio 360 degrees 16W power with full dual driver IPX7 waterproof Stereo pairing microphone integrated Only 10 hours battery life Charge via Micro-USB Listening everything from anywhere It is important to listen to your music and Soundcore Motion Q ensures that with the cylindrical design all-inclusive. Source: Amazon It may not be a dedicated speaker, but it's a popular choice. The last-generation Echo Dot gives users a lot to talk about while still being able to show a little when guests arrive. In addition to pairing via Bluetooth, you have the option to use a 3.5mm plug or even pair over Wi-Fi with other devices. With Alexa built in, you can control your smart home easily or get answers to questions that are nagging your friends during parties. Sure, the sound isn't the biggest, but you can pair this with another echo dot for stereo or other Bluetooth speakers. The other big downside here is that the Echo Dot isn't completely portable because you need to keep it plugged in all the time. This may be a bit frustrating, but its built-in voice assistant more than makes it. Amazon Alexa built-in Pair with an Echo Dot for stereo 3.5mm headphone jack including Must always be plugged into Water-Proof Sound can better Impress your friends and control your smart home Echo Dot may not be the first speaker that comes to mind , but it should come close to its Alexa integration. Source: Android Central When you look at the different Bluetooth speakers to consider, many of them have the same old design: cylinders pump out music in different levels, shapes and sizes. The OontZ Angle 3 Ultra changes with its unique triangular design so you can cover as much area as possible. Oontz also includes an IPX6 rating for splash resistance, but we wouldn't recommend using angle 3 Ultra for diving. However, the most significant benefit to this speaker is the 100-foot range, which allows you to keep your phone with you and not with the speakers. While that 100-foot range is great, you'll still be stuck in the past with a Micro-USB charging port. The OontZ Angle 3 Ultra is also a little heavier than some of the other speakers on this list, so you may not want to take it if you wander. 100-foot Bluetooth range IPX6 Splashproof 20-hour battery life Unique micro-USB charging design 4.2 Heavier than Other Options Forget to Leave Rear phone Other with unique triangular design, the biggest benefit for Angle 3 Ultra is the 100-foot range. Source: Anker There's nothing wrong with a Bluetooth speaker without an extra cumbersome bunch or a design that makes it stand out from the crowd. Sometimes, a great Bluetooth speaker is just your running option. That brings us to Soundcore Anker 2, without any important features to wow you. However, this speaker offers a 24-hour battery life, which is among the leaders on this list, along with IPX7 and Bluetooth 5.0 water resistance. Take all of this, combined with 12 watt power, and you have a tried and right speaker that will work for every situation. You may just want to keep a cloth nearby after the party is over because Soundcore 2 is a fingerprint magnet. Also, you may not want to play this at maximum volume if the sound is slightly distorted. 12W audio 24 hours bluetooth battery life 5.0 IPX7 waterproof Sound can be distorted when playing big Draw fingerprints This happens for days Soundcore 2 is great for those who want long battery life and some water resistance. Just don't play it at maximum volume. It may be difficult choosing the best Bluetooth speaker, but an Anker Soundcore Flare+ comes close. This speaker offers decent battery life, 360 sound degrees, and some great LEDs that flash along with music. Plus, you can pair this with another Flare+ for a stereo setting, perfect for any side or situation. Just don't expect to ditch your old Micro-USB cable; this speaker has not yet switched to USB-C. However, Flare+ will be able to handle whatever you throw at it, and then some. Credit - The team working on this tutorial Andrew Myrick is a regular freelancer at Android Central and iMore. The best Bluetooth speaker Android Central 2021 Summer is the perfect time to buy Bluetooth speakers so you can blow your favorite music when you are swimming in the pool or going camping with friends. Compatible with the fact that every device is known to humans, Bluetooth speakers will ensure that, as long as your phone, tablet or laptop is around, your music will be great! Large! The favorite is Ultimate Ears wonderboom 2 due to its tiny form factor and its water and dust resistance, but there are plenty of other options. Ultimate Eras speakers are not expensive to be good. Wonderboom 2 is shockingly big for its size, and sounds great for just about all kinds of music, from pop to rock to hip hop to jazz. Like Megaboom 3, Wonderboom 2 has a multi-directional sound, making it great for parties. It also has many flashy colors, like Megaboom 3 and you can pair it with another speaker – although it's only with another Wonderboom 2 speaker. It's also IP67 certified, which means it's resistant to dust and water - in fact, half of the photos you'll find online of wonderboom 2 have speakers floating in the pool. As a bonus, Wonderboom 2 is durable, rated to withstand drops from up to 5 feet, and lasts up to 13 hours between each charge. Not bad at all for a say of this size. Excellent sound for its size IP67 water and dust resistant Affordable battery life good Micro-USB charging Distorts a little at maximum volume No side up features great speakers in a small package. Wonderboom 2 is water resistant, durable and ultra-compact, with great sound and a wide selection of colors. Not much to complain about with Soundcore 2. For a fraction of the price of other Bluetooth speakers, anker's latest respectable audio pack and all-day battery life into a small, rugged frame. Soundcore 2 is waterproof and is rated to last for 24 full hours – of course, you hope Anker's all brands will be able to provide good battery life. Unfortunately, Soundcore 2 lacks significant bass, which can have a big impact on certain music genres and it's a bit quiet compared to the other speakers on this list. However, at the price it dictates, it's a great little speaker available in a few color options and you can even buy more than one and stitch them together for surround sound. IPX7 Waterproof Stereo combined with other Soundcores Extremely affordable battery life Speakers lack bass No fuss like other speakers Small and affordable. Soundcore 2 is a small speaker with water resistance and long battery life. It's a bit quiet and lacking in bass, but it's a great deal none though. The Tribit XSound Go is another inexpensive speaker with long battery life and IPX7 water resistance. It doesn't have the most impressive sound, lacks bass and premium clarity, but it's certainly better than what any phone speaker can offer. You get 24 hours of battery life on the XSound and an impressive range of up to 66 feet. There is a fastening slot on the speaker to attach it to any bag or even hang it out of a branch and a rubber cap that includes a headphone jack and Micro-USB charging port. If you are on a budget, it's hard to go wrong with XSound Go. Battery life all day IPX7 waterproof and dust Slot Lanyard extremely affordable for easy transport Lack of sound quality Is not as great as affordable as you can ask for in a capable Bluetooth speaker. Tribit XSound Go is affordable, water resistant and lasts all day without sweating. XB12 is a relatively new Bluetooth speaker from Sony with a soft touch rubber body that is both water resistant and can take a beat. It fits in the palm of your hand, and is surprisingly large and clean, with even reasonable bass balanced despite its small stature. Like most speakers on this list, the XB12 uses Micro-USB for charging and has a small type of eye-catching color with a wristband/matching carry-on. It lasts up to 16 hours per charge, although it takes several hours to reach a full charge. With solid construction quality and solid exterior, there is a lot to love about XB12 at competitive prices. Surprisingly large, crisp audio Long battery life Small, portable ipx7 water form factor and Micro-USB resistant dust, rather than USB-C Charge slowly small speakers packing a powerful punch. The XB12 fits in the palm of your hand, and is water resistant, dusty and shock resistant, and has a variety of dark colors. If SoundLink Revolve+ is outside your price range, the Microphone is a smaller speaker at half the price of both water resistance and shock resistance. It is available in a few interesting colors and offers clean, unfigished sound at respectable volumes - although the small size means it's a bit lacking in bass. The most significant drawback of SoundLink Micro is its battery life. With just 6 hours, this is far from the longest lasting speaker we've seen, but your neighbors will probably appreciate the hard limits on loud music. SoundLink Micro also has a built-in microphone, which allows you to make calls and even talk to google assistant or Siri when connected to your phone. Built-in microphone for voice assistant Small design, portable IPX7 water resistance Good sound quality Poor battery life Lack of microphone integrated bass for calling and voice support. SoundLink Micro is ultra-portable and has a microphone for calls and a Google Assistant. When it comes to portable Bluetooth speakers, you need to consider a few features in your product, including battery life, sound quality, and factor resistance. Mobility means you'll want to take it to places that could endanger electronics, so you'll want a built-in speaker to carry with you on the go. There's no shortage of Bluetooth speakers to choose from, but if I bought one, I'd go for Ultimate Ears Wonderboom 2. While there are more specialized options that prioritize things like longer battery life or better sound, Wonderboom 3 is speakers, good supply, perforated sound, water resistance, decent long battery life, and a small form factor.
