Guia de portage

The gate guide allows you to assess a child's overall behavior and/or birth ability by age 6, and to plan for purposes leading through techniques for acquiring the child's skills by yet master. Its authors are Bluma, S., Shearer M., Frohman, A. And Hilliard, J. (1976). This assessment tool guides the child's behavior actually does, identifies what he is learning, and provides suggesting techniques for teaching new skills. In the following links you can download both the registration protocol and the tabs in each of the areas it values: socialization, language, cognition, engine development, self-help; as well as the section on how to promote the baby. With this material you can have a reference to your student's current development and proposed activities for parents to promote their development. 01 Enrollment ProtocolDownload 02 How to Stimulate BabyDownload 07 Development-MotorDownload Port Preschool Education Guide is an assessment test that allows to determine the overall child's ability since birth occurs six years ago. It consists of 578 tabs that summarize the most important behavior in this time period. Click here or here to access the item list. The tabs are organized around five development zones, along with a first block and tips on development possibilities during the first four months of baby's life. Let's look at them: Socialization. Assessing the social skills used by children: appropriate or appropriate behaviors in home environments and in interaction situations with those around them. Language.This area, in addition to being an excellent component of assessment, constitutes a rich programme of communicated-linguistic development. Auto. Assessing the child's skill mastered in the field of his personal oomomia (food, clothing, hygiene, etc.). Correlation. Assess the ability to remember, hear, or see similarities and differences and establish relationships between ideas and things. Development engine. Assess the capabilities associated with fine skills and engine swords. It is especially useful for educational professionals because it allows them to assess the behavior of children in the different aspects of their development, and, at the same time, provide the possibility of planned activities leading to the acquisition of skills, capabilities and abilities.
