This sweet-flavored hybrid produces a different lemon scent — very Kushy, as one user put it — when smoked and, since being first produced, has become a popular medicinal strain because of its powerful high and strong pain-relieving quality. But the sweetness isn't only limited to its name or its smoke — sometimes bud looks like even candy. Oranges, greens, browns, and purple combine to give this tension a certain rock candy-like appearance. Just imagine this bud on a stick, ready to be licked, and you'll know what I'm talking about. Candy Kush has a lot (and a lot to be desired), so let's spend a little time getting sweet information. The history of stress candy Kush is a hybrid strain originally produced by DNA genetics and is built by crossing two Indica and Sativa powerhouses: OG Kush and Travamalbe. It is original, and most common, the form is mainly indica-dominant (about 60%) Thanks to its OG Kush parents. Other forms that pop up now and then, hold more of a resemblance to the family's Trainwreck side and display decidedly sativa structure and characteristics. That said, Candy Kush's Indica major stress is by far the most common and what people are jonesing for when they need to satisfy their sweet teeth. The new strains introduce even more of a candy vibe with flavors like cotton candy, rock candy, caramel candy. Candy Kush Tense Creatures Touched as touched Candy Kush leans towards the Indica side of the scale and results in 60%/day, 40% Indica/Indica The plant itself is favorable for growing flowers, indoor in nine to ten weeks, and can yield up to 500 g per square meter. THC materials are known to reach 14.5% (the index usually averages 12.5% THC) but with perfect cultivation reaching 20% or more. Candy Kush's flavor is described as a combination of sweet, earthy and pungent fragrances that make for particularly interesting fumes. It is also characterized by its lemon smell and traces of lemon flavor that can be picked while smoking. Some even describe it as having a spicy, pepper-like flavor with a sweet, candy-like smell. Sounds great! The effect is characterized by the general effects of General Candy Kush stress lean heavily towards the excitement side of the spectrum and feel a powerful happy and relaxed. This euphoria is often described as hybrid-type high resulting in a stretch cooling but still joyful and actively busy. Indica-heavy strains like Candy Kush are known to produce very powerful body height that can cause extreme sofa-locks. Be prepared. Candy Kush almost immediately goes to work to produce dopamine resulting in intense brain effects resulting in heavy, time-stopping body high. Because of this, and the fact that highs can last from 2 to 2.5 hours, Kandy Kush is recommended as evening strain for most users. The good thing about the side effects Candy Kush stresses is that its side effects are almost non-existent (as marijuana goes) and the side effects that it can be dealt with quite easily. Curiosity, headaches, and dizziness are at the extreme low end of the scale so you don't have to worry about that reaction. What you have to worry about (or at least deal) is dry eyes and dry mouth. Candy Kush can cause a middle road dry-eyed effect, but dry mouth is what you really have to look out for. As with other strains that demonstrate these drying side effects, a pair of saline solutions and a water bottle drops those will be licked in no time. Just glad you don't have to worry about anxiousness, headache, and dizziness. That said, Candy Kush performs a very intense sleep-inducing effect so you might want to think about staying at home (or near a couch) with this stress. While not a side effect, per se, drowsiness is certainly not conducive to outdoor activities (as long as it's sleeping on the lawn). So order a pizza, find your place on the couch, fire a fatty of candy kush, and spend some quality time inside. That said, Candy Kush's stress displays a very intense sleep-inducing effect so you might want to think about staying at home with this stress (or at least near a couch). So order a pizza, find your place on the couch, fire a fatty of candy kush, and spend some quality time inside. The effects of the celebration of medical use Candy Kush and easy smoke make it a great remedy for many ailments including insomnia, chronic pain and pain, migraine and even anxiety and mood disorders. It is also recommended by some doctors for complications caused by bipolar disorder and sleep apnea. Like most marijuana strains, it's better in some things than others, but for a good normal high that's what it's supposed to be, Candy Kush can't be beat. Stress can be thought of as the king of Kani Kush stress relievers.. | Or at least one of them. Although its THC content isn't remarkably high when compared to some strains, Candy Kush prefers the cool effect it's a go-to chronic anxiety and battling the stress of the day. A user described highly as a super gelling vibe full of love and genuine compassion towards everything. Another user said she felt like she was getting a perpetual shoulder massage after she had the partook of Candy Kush's stress (maybe she was). Yes, smoking your cares away has never been easier with this delicious strain. Pain Candy Kush is also an effective pain reliever so it's great for people suffering from chronic pain due to injury or internal illnesses that refuse to make themselves rare. Even the usual discomfort like period pain can be alleviated by the gentle numbness that Candy Kush has to offer. And sometimes, traditional pain medications aren't enough. Sometimes, marijuana is the only thing that's cutting it. Forget aspirin. Forget oxy. Wrap yourself in this pain-relieving mist instead and you'll feel like your body and mind are brand new again. Depression candy krish stress and its enthusiasm-inducing highs work well for battling depression and often associated anxiety. Smoke a spliff of candy kush and set your mind comfortably. Forget the bullets and face the day, safe in all your needs. Remember that marijuana in general, and candy kush in particular, can be a useful tool in the fight against neglected diseases like depression and anxiety. Often times, depression, although considered a mental disorder, can also have a profound effect on the physical body. So while Candy Kush may not directly reduce the physical manifestations of this disease, it can help reduce them by getting rid of the causes.. | For at least a time. Lack of appetite Although Candy Kush may not stimulate your appetite as intensely as some other strains, it still does a pretty good job. It won't make you eat couch cushions, but that pizza run or feather walks will look more like a mandatory one. Your mom can tell you that candy will spoil your appetite- and that'll be right- but when it's spelled with one That is certainly not the case. One user claims he can eat three full meals after toking at a blunt of candy kush.. | And still starve. Now those are some mighty big hunger pangs. Insomnia There are a few things as amazing as a good night's sleep so fighting the effects of insomnia candy Kush are highly prized among those who have a hard time catching some Zs. This is one of the reasons why it's suggested as an evening use strain. For first-time users, you don't want to be caught napping on the sidewalk because you can't help but fall asleep. For more experienced users, Candy Kush can bring on a fantasy and sleepy while still waking up to state that certainly not being missed. Candy Kush is anytime beneficial for both recreational and medicinal use and can be used for any kind of intentions and purposes. If you haven't tried this delicious strain, why not give it a whirl. What could be the worst? You'll feel terrible (physically and mentally), have a good meal, get a great night's sleep, and maybe have some dry eyes and a dry mouth? I'll take that experience any day. Now you can really have candy (Kush) anytime. Let us know what you think. To think.
