as my $25k SUV I'm also happy... I am equally happy wearing clothes that are used gently like new clothes ... I'm equally happy to get my hair cut at home as I was in the barber shop... watching my midsize TV vs my old big screen TV and an even more shocking show, I am almost equally happy ... I have a staycation as a holiday! Does it mean I still eat or buy new clothes or drink delicious beer for a price of 10x? Hell no- I like doing these things too! But * happiness levels * are just comparing, they are not too far away. If you've ever. So do more free/cheap things and continue to have a sweet quality of life. And although amateur racing can be time consuming, expensive, heart-wrenching, and (do I mention?) expensive, it can also be extremely satisfying. It's one of those things that makes you feel alive. The spirit of competition. Louis Hamilton and Tony Stewart have something in common. Except for 10 fingers and toes. If you have this idea, I suggest you get a copy of Dave Gran's Go Ahead — Take the Wheel. Gran is an SCCA racer who has experienced or will pass all the mental and physical intrigue you have when considering entering the racing game. He caught them all in a book worth the $17 entry price. The author starts at the beginning and ones if it's for you. Talk to people. Volunteer to find out how a race meeting is going. Take a few club days at a racetrack with your street driver to learn some basics before investing in a race car. And so on.
